Spring Is Here.
And Not So Gay.
What's Coming Next?
Fascism, Perhaps?

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

SPRING BEGAN officially today at 2:28 a. m., standard time, according to government meteorologists, and spring began none too cheerfully, with a great strike in the automobile business threatening to check prosperity in its feeble upward climb, and endanger the livelihood of two millions of men.

This country has had five years fighting depression. If it must now have five years fighting strikes, and, perhaps, wind up as other countries have done, under "Fascismo" and dictatorship, the only thing is to say that the judgments of the Lord are always good and righteous altogether. Men get what they deserve in the way of wars, government, corrupt finances and strikes.

IT IS the right of the men that plan the strike to stop working if they want to. Nobody questions that. It is their right to organize, choose and follow their leaders, just as capital organizes and chooses and follows leaders, which have led organized capital into the ditch.

Capital, with the cunningest corporation lawyers to lead, advise and tell it how to dodge the law, letting the little man carry the load, could not tell capital how to avoid the consequences of its own grasping foolishness.

UNION LABOR will find that leaders advising boldly today, "Take everything, run everything, control everything even if you didn't create it and could not possibly manage it successfully," will not be able to tell labor how to get jobs, bring back prosperity, put men to work and restore normal conditions. Too much grasping ends in disaster, no matter who does the grasping.

DICTATORSHIP AND Fascism hold Italy, Turkey, Russia, Germany, and threaten France and England. There is no reason why Fascism should not come here in the wake of industrial chaos. If it does come, it will appear in the shape that will not please either capital or labor; capital which wishes comfort, luxury and increasing profits, and labor that wants to rule comfortably out of harm's way, through union politics, and would have no stomach for the game as Mussolini and Hitler and Stalin play it.

WORKERS SHOULD think over carefully the results of a gigantic strike at this time, for if things go wrong, they, and not their leaders, will pay the piper. If any automobile factories decide to close down, as they have the right to do, not individual leaders of the industry, giving orders as labor leaders give their orders, will pay the piper. The millions of stockholders will pay the bill.

FORTUNATELY, PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT holds the deciding power. He is not controlled by anybody, or afraid of anybody; has no reason to be afraid. He did not hesitate to give orders to employers as to hours, wages, agreements, codes, price-fixing and all the rest. He will, if he chooses, give orders to labor also. If it appears to him that the greatest good of the greatest number calls for a continuation of industrial operation, rather than for a great battle between industry and labor, he will act accordingly.

THE FRENCH government, disturbed by recent riots caused by financial corruption, in which government officials shared, worries about unemployment, although, compared with ours, French idleness amounts to nothing. Young men leaving the army are invited to re-enlist, and not swell the ranks of the idle, and men out of work who have been in the army during the last five years, which means practically every sound man under forty in France, are invited to go into the army until times get better.

Men in the French army work on roads and otherwise, and they are used, which would horrify labor in this country, as strikebreakers in case the employes of the government-owned railroads go on strike. In fact, French strikers have been conscripted and ordered to work, or be shot. The government is able to take care of them for a trifle, feeding them for less than twenty cents a day, paying them two or three cents a day as wages.

In France, our United States system of putting the idle to work at prices higher than were paid before would seem like a benevolent Rothschild or Rockefeller suddenly gone crazy.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL CUMMINGS asks Congress for new legislation to help crush the crime underworld, and you will hope that Congress will consent in view of official statement that organized crime "has more people under arms than there are in the Army and Navy of the United States." It not only has more people under arms than the Army and Navy, it has more than the Army and Navy in and around New York City alone.

IT MAY interest you, if you expect to be kidnaped, to hear that some kidnaping crowds are worse than others. The Attorney General says the Touhy gang in the Middle West, its leaders now jailed for life, was about the worst because it was "notorious for torture." The Capone organization, according to the Attorney General, headed now by Murray Humphrey, since Al Capone is in Atlanta prison, is "of a much higher type." Successors to Capone, says the Attorney General, "are better than the Touhy crowd, not so likely to take off a man's ear or gouge out his eye."

Pray that the Capone, not the Touhy crowd, will get you, if you must be "got." And ask your-

MOORE GEM 'LOST,' HOLDS UP ESTATE

Prized Jewel, Gift of Lillian Russell to Fiance Missing

Alexander P. Moore's $5,000 pearl stickpin, a gift from Lillian Russell, is missing, it was revealed today in Orphans' Court.

Disappearance of the jewel apparently was the last of the many obstacles that have stood in the way of final settlement of the late ambassador and publisher's estate.

Lillian Russell gave Moore the pin when they became affianced. Moore prized it highly and always wore it, friends said. He bequeathed it to Dr. Albert I. Wise, Pittsburgh dentist and a close friend for many years.

REPORT ON GEM ASKED

When the final account of the Moore estate was brought into Orphans Court today for audit, Attorney Louis Caplan, representing Dr. Wise, told Judge Edward C. Chalfant that Dr. Wise had not received the pin. He asked that the Union Trust Company, executor of the estate, be required to produce it or show a reasonable effort had been made to obtain it.

It was revealed that the former Queen of Spain and other legatees named in Moore's will have received their gifts.

Judge Chalfant said a hearing would be held Friday in an effort to settle the matter, if it were deemed advisable.

Dr. Wise said he last saw the pearl in Moore's necktie when the ambassador stopped here en route to Los Angeles, where he died a few weeks later.

NO RECORD OF PIN

It was learned that when Moore died in California Hospital at Los Angeles, March 17, 1930, clothing and other personal effects were sent to the Union Trust Company here, but the trust company said it has no record of the missing stickpin.

An Associated Press dispatch from Los Angeles quoted California Hospital attaches as saying they have no record of the stickpin. Nurses who cared for the Ambassador and took him to the hospital said they never saw the pin.

A claim for $11,609.18 in taxes was presented by the commonwealth against the estate, valued at about $600,000.

After the payment of sums bequeathed to Queen Victoria Eugenia of Spain, Mrs. Dorothy Caruso, widow of the noted singer, and others, there remains $85,000 for a trust fund established by Moore, the final account revealed.

The trust fund was established for Moore's sister, Mrs. Sue M. Addy; a niece, Mrs. Mildred A. Martin; his secretary, Miss Jessie Sutherland, and relatives.

CITY MOVES TO DESTROY PARROTS

Medical Society Urges Isolation of Fever Patients Here

City officials moved today to combat the spread of psittacosis (parrot fever) after their attention had been called to apparent laxity on the part of the Department of Health by the Allegheny County Medical Society.

The day's developments were these:

1—An ordinance was prepared condemning all parrots and other members of the psittacine family to death and making it an offense punishable by fine or imprisonment for any person harboring such birds in the city.

2—Dr. Philip E. Marks, superintendent of the Bureau of Infectious Diseases, announced he was considering establishing a ward in the Municipal Hospital for segregation of psittacosis patients.

3—The City Health Department was carrying out orders of Director Ray P. Moyer to destroy all parrots, macaws and parrakeets in possession of all the city pet shops.

DOCTORS URGE ACTION

The Medical Society, at its regular monthly meeting last night, passed a resolution directed to the City Health Department. The meeting was given over to a general discussion of the psittacosis situation, and among the speakers these opinions were voiced:

DR. I. HOPE ALEXANDER—All that is necessary is the elimination of all parrots—had we carried out this plan several weeks ago, this present epidemic would never have occurred.

DR. C. A. RODGERS—Give it all the publicity possible and

The grenade shook windows throughout the district. It was tossed near the corner of Unter Den Linden and the Neue Wilhelmstrasse, hitting the passing taxi.

With Goering in the car, it was said, was Karl Ernst, a Nazi group leader.

Vanishes

LILLY FORNEY, 15

NOTE DEEPENS GIRL MYSTERY

VANDERGRIFT, Pa., March 21.—A letter bearing the handwriting of two persons, neither that of the missing girl, according to her parents, today heightened the mystery of the disappearance of pretty Lilly Forney, 15, of Leechburg last Saturday night.

Edward Porter, 25, of Vandergrift, was held in the Westmoreland County Jail, and police were hunting his brother, William Porter, 30, of Pine Run. The latter is married.

The girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Forney, received a letter yesterday postmarked at Leechburg and signed with their daughter's name, but they said the signature and handwriting were not hers.

An aunt of the girl, Mrs. Anna Sulz, of Apollo, told police that Lilly came to her home at 1:30 a. m. Monday, accompanied by William Porter and two other men she did not recognize. The girl stayed until Monday afternoon.

The police planned to question John Sobey, 20, of North Vandergrift, a former sweetheart of the missing girl. They said Sobey appeared at the Forney home Sunday night and asked if Lilly had returned home.

WEIRTON UNION LEADERS CAMP AT WHITE HOUSE TO PRESS DEMANDS

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt conferred this afternoon with representatives of automobile manufacturers in an attempt to adjust the labor dispute in this industry which threatens a strike.

By The Associated Press.

High spots today in major controversies between capital and labor included:

1—A truce postponed a general automobile strike called for this morning. Key executives of the vast industry and A. F. of L. leaders turned toward Washington for White House conferences after President Roosevelt asked that strike action be withheld. A crucial conference is set for tomorrow after preliminary talks today.

2—Railroad labor rejected President Roosevelt's proposal to continue the existing wage agreement.

3—Labor expressed dissatisfaction with a suit against the Weirton Steel Company, in which the government asks that the company be enjoined from interfering with collective bargaining under the NRA. Representatives of A. F. of L. workers told President Roosevelt the suit "isn't enough." E. T. Weir, chairman of the company, declined to comment.

Steel Labor Sees Delay In Suit

By JOHN P. COWAN
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—A group of Weirton steel strike leaders waited on the White House doorstep today for a reply to their demand that the government take summary action against the Weirton Steel Company.

They were not satisfied with the filing of an injunction suit by the Department of Justice against the company, and called it a gesture. William J. Long, of Weirton, W. Va., leader of the little band, said:

"It means endless delay. The proceedings would drag along month after month. We want something more decisive."

There was no comment on the demands of the steel workers forthcoming from the executive offices.

DUQUESNE DELEGATION

Steps similar to those of the Weirton employes, meanwhile, were taken by workers from the Duquesne works of the Carnegie Steel Company of Pittsburgh. They asked the National Labor Board to supervise an election of employe representatives in the Duquesne works.

The delegation was headed by William J. Spang, of the Fort Du-

Motor Firm Heads Meet Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP.)—Railroad labor today rejected President Roosevelt's proposal to continue the existing wage agreement, but accepted his offer for Joseph B. Eastman, railroad co-ordinator, to arbitrate the dispute.

They took this action shortly before automobile manufacturers were scheduled to confer with President Roosevelt at the White House in an effort to avert a strike of motor car employes.

The President will confer tomorrow with the automobile laborers who have agreed to hold off the strike pending further negotiations.

The decision of the railway labor men was presented to Mr. Roosevelt in a letter from A. F. Whitney, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives Association.

EXECUTIVES AGREED

Railway executives already have agreed to continue the present 10 per cent wage cut for another six months. The laborers held out for a 20 per cent increase over what they are now getting.

The Whitney letter said:

"We share your disappointment that agreement has not been reached disposing of this controversy, however, the economic plight of the employes does not allow them to submit to the demands of the carriers.

"We accept your proffer of the services of the federal co-ordinator of transportation, Joseph B. Eastman."

FIRST RUM TEST LOST BY STATE

Its first attempt to convict a liquor dealer on charges of selling untaxed beverages was lost by the state revenue department today when a jury in Criminal Court acquitted Louis H. Kahn, proprietor of a beer garden at 1716 Murray avenue.

Testimony disclosed that state revenue agents under W. H. Beachy made three raids on Kahn's beer gardens last December 19, December 30 and February 3. Numerous bottles containing whisky, wine and gin were offered as evidence, seized in the raids.

Kahn's defense was based on grounds there was no evidence of any sale. He contended also that most of his liquor had been purchased from state liquor stores, and that some of it had been on hand before the new liquor control act was passed by the Legislature.

Man Drowns As Skiff Upsets

Despite efforts of his companion to save him, Elmer Burk, 46, was drowned this afternoon in the Allegheny River near Millvale after he overturned a rowboat while reaching for an oar.

Burk and his companion, Joseph Mihelick, 30, had made a trip across the river from their houseboat on the Millvale shore, and were on the way back when the accident happened. Thirty feet off-shore, Burk lost the oar and leaned over too far in his efforts to get it. Both men were thrown in the water.

Mihelick said he helped Burk to remain afloat as long as he could, but both men were hampered by their heavy clothing. Burk's body has not been recovered.

Slain Man Named In Depot Massacre

CHICAGO, March 21.—(AP.)—A federal agent from the bureau of investigation today said J. George Zeigler, found dead last night in a mysterious "thousand dollar murder," resembled one of the gunmen wanted for the machinegun slaying of four officers and their prisoner, Frank Nash, at the Kansas City Union Station plaza in 1933.

WINTER SLATED FOR 'COMEBACK'

Spring arrived today, with robins singing and pussy willows blooming, but winter was making ready to linger in its lap.

Today the mercury climbed well above the 50 mark, despite clouds that partly obscured the sun.

Tomorrow a cold wave from the Canadian Northwest is due to reach this region and the mercury will tumble to around 20 by Friday, Weather Observer Brotzman indicated. Sub-zero temperatures were reported from Winnipeg today.

The sun crossed the equator on its journey north at 2:28 a. m. today. Days and nights are of equal length at this time. The period of daylight will lengthen until June 21.

Cloudy conditions prevailed in the Mississippi and Ohio valleys today, with a trace of rain in some places. This district may get a sprinkle tonight, the weatherman said.

Japan, U. S. Shake Hands Across Sea

'Good Will' Notes Pledging Peace Exchanged

First Friendly Move Since Roosevelt Took Office

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP.)—The United States and Japan today "shook hands across the Pacific" in a significant exchange of notes mutually pledging peace.

Koki Hirota, foreign minister of Japan, in a formal note to Roosevelt administration diplomatic chiefs here, asserted the Nippon government "has no intention whatever to provoke and make trouble with any other power."

Secretary Hull, evidently scanning reported war clouds in the Far East, based on strained relations between Japan and Soviet Russia, replied:

"I receive this statement with special gratification.

"I am glad to take this opportunity to state categorically that the United States on its part has no desire to create any issues and no intentiton to initiate any conflict in its relations with other countries."

The Hirota-Hull exchange was the first such passage of good will notes since President Roosevelt took office more than a year ago.

In their messages, the diplomatic chiefs of the two nations uttered definite agreements, using the words of Hirota, that:

"No question exists between our two countries that is fundamentally incapable of amicable solution."

Hull concurred in this statement and added:

"If, unhappily, there should arise in the future any controversy between our two countries, the American government will be prepared, as I believe it always has been in the past, to examine the position of Japan in a spirit of amity."

mittee of Railroad Managers, Mr. Whitney concluded:

AUTO PARLEY NEAR

A truce won from automobile union leaders last night, delaying a general strike called for 9 o'clock this morning, gave the chief executive opportunity to confer today with motor car executives.

Senator Couzens (Rep.), of Michigan, said today after conferring with Mr. Roosevelt that the Chief Executive had a proposal ready to offer in an effort to end the dispute. He would not say what it was.

President Roosevelt will confer separately tomorrow with the representatives of auto workers, who have threatened a strike.

Pending tomorrow's conference the President will ask the manufacturers to remain in the city.

Before today's session, Mr. Roosevelt said he was first going to listen to what was proposed.

PEACE OFFER SECRET

Whatever ideas he has in mind for settlement of the dispute he said would be reserved until he had heard the facts in the case.

Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, who has been conferring in New York with the manufacturers, will go with them to the White House.

Gen. Johnson, after his return today from New York conferences with the executives, said:

Meanwhile, it became known that William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, will urge representatives of automobile labor to simplify their demands to two key points before they confer with President Roosevelt.

Green communicated with Detroit by telephone and learned that 30 of the strike leaders would arrive in the capital on an early train tomorrow.

The labor program is to narrow demands to creation of a neutral review board to pass on charges of discrimination against union men and to the immediate selection of employe representatives for collective bargaining.

SEEK TO EASE STRUGGLE

This plan was based on a belief that if reduced to these two points the President would have a much better chance to work out an agreement than with the seven or eight demands so far pressed by the workers.

Authoritative indications were that Administrator Johnson in his New York conferences with the automobile leaders obtained agreement to only one-half of his proposal for strike settlement, namely, creation of the impartial board to pass on grievances.

The executives were represented as standing adamant against any plan for elections in their plants and reiterating their offer to deal with employes' spokesmen, whether union or not, upon proof that the men desired such representation.

ISSUE IN DISPUTE

Green denied today that union recognition was the issue in the auto dispute and maintained that the sole point was whether the employers would grant the right of the unions under the law to exist in their plants.

In response to inquiry at his regular press conference on the government's attitude toward meeting strikers, President Roosevelt replied only one rule prevailed and that was when people were in dire want and lacked food the government was going to try to keep them from starving. He said this rule applied to all people alike.

Asked whether he would seek a renewal of the licensing power under the National Recovery Act which expires in June the President said he had not given consideration yet to this subject but probably would talk it over very soon with Johnson.

Roosevelt Praises Auto Strike Delay

DETROIT, March 21.—(AP.)—William Collins, A. F. of L. representative, today made public a telegram received from President Roosevelt acknowledging notification that the strike of auto workers had been postponed in accordance with the President's request. The wire said:

"I greatly appreciate your decision and will be glad to receive representatives of the 13 unions as suggested. I appreciate the good spirit of your telegram and am looking forward to seeing you on Thursday."

quesne Lodge of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers.

Such an election was sought by Weirton employes, but was blocked by the steel company. The suit filed yesterday by the government resulted from the controversy.

The Weirton workers presented a petition to President Roosevelt last night embodying their demand for sterner action against the Weirton Steel Company, of which E. T. Weir is chairman. The petition urged:

"Get Weir to comply with the NRA within 48 hours or get the Wagner bill (which would outlaw company unions) passed this week or else quit pretending that any immediate or effective action by the government is possible."

WEIRTON SUIT CHARGES

In seeking an injunction against the Weirton company, the government charged the company denied their employes the right to bargain collectively. It asked the Federal Court in Delaware to enjoin the company from what it termed interference with workers' elections.

By taking this action, the government refrained from criminal proceedings. Attorney General Cummings recently said criminal action would be "a last resort."

The only statement from the company, according to news dispatches from New York, was that of Weir, who said:

"I have no comment now, and shall have none later."

SANCTIS OUSTED AS CWA BOSS

Two weeks' investigation into charges of "discrimination" and playing politics on CWA work in South Park culminated today in the dismissal of Ernest E. Sanctis, supervisor and son of F. D. Sanctis, contractor.

The discharge becomes effective tomorrow evening, according to W. N. McDermott, head of the personnel division of CWA.

Complaints against Sanctis were made two weeks ago by workers who contended partiality to some workers, and discrimination against others. An investigator was immediately put on a laboring gang in the park and ordered to report as soon as possible.

Investigation disclosed that the alleged discrimination applied not only to laboring gangs, btu also to operators of steam rollers, CWA officials said. There were only three rollers, but four "rollermen," or operators, were being paid. One did not work, McDermott said.

Appeal Award to Widow In Mine Strife Death

That an industrial policeman who shot and killed Mike Pilipovich during a strike at Arnold City in 1931, was acting for himself and not the Pittsburgh Coal Company, was argued yesterday before the Pennsylvania Supreme Court. The company appealed from a Fayette County's jury decision, awarding the widow $20,000.

At the time of the killing, Pilipovich was conducting a grocery store at Arnold City. When a truck reached a point opposite Pilopovich's store, someone threw an egg at the truck and several men on the truck threw tear gas bombs.

It is averred the superintendent of the company gave orders to shoot, and a gun was leveled at Pilipovich, standing, it is averred, peacefully on his porch. Pilipovich fell mortally wounded.

An action in trespass was then entered by the widow, Mary Pilipovich, against the coal company and the jury awarded her $14,760 pecuniary damages, $5,000 punitive damages and $339 funeral expenses.

Other cases argued were those of the County of Armstrong against Harry B. Rearic, former county treasurer, involving an appeal from an auditor's report; appeal in the case of Josephine M. Koontz for personal injuries against Samuel Messer and the Quarker State Oil Refining Company from the decree of Common Pleas Court of Venango County; Fayette City National Bank against Michael Samberg, appeal from the judgment of Common Pleas Court of Fayette County, involving claims on a mortgage and the case of Quaker State Refining Company against Frank A. Talbot on an appeal taken from the decree of Common Pleas Court of Venango County to restrain the defendant from disposing of letters patent covering an invention it is averred the plaintiff was hired to make.

NRA COAL MEET SET MARCH 26

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP.)—NRA officials announced the much-postponed meeting of bituminous coal operators and their employes to consider possible amendments to the soft coal code has been set for March 26.

The meeting originally was scheduled for January 5 under the terms of the code, but was postponed frequently pending completion by NRA of detailed statistics of the industry's operation under the code.

This information now is available and with it as a guide representatives of the operators and miners will decide what changes, if any, are desierd in the light of existing conditions. It is expected the length of the work week will be the chief topic for discussion.

LABOR BILL HIT BY TRADE GROUP

Chamber of Commerce Board for Defeat of Wagner Measure

Defeat of the Wagner bill, now pending in Congress, and immediate restoration of air mail contracts were urged by the Chamber of Commerce in resolutions adopted yesterday by the board of directors.

Disapproval of the Wagner bill was voiced on the grounds that labor agitators, under cover of the provisions for collective bargaining in the NRA code, and "with the aid of Senator Wagner," are undertaking to compel free workingmen of America to join a labor federation.

MONOPOLY FEARED

Success of such a measure, according to the resolution, would make leaders of the movement "masters of a labor monopoly with unprecedented powers tantamount to dictatorship over all American labor and industry. It read in part:

"Persistence in the efforts to force the Wagner bill through Congress unquestionably will jeopardize the whole recovery objective, raising possibilities of disorder of far reaching and disastrous proportions."

Urging the restoration of air mail contracts, the Chamber asked amendment of pending legislation "to the end that a legitimate, non-partisan and permanent air transportation industry may be developed and promotional or speculative enterprises discouraged."

AIR MAIL CONTRACTS

In its resolution the Chamber declared short-term contracts such as those authorized in the proposed legislation, coupled with the low maximum rates set forth in the bill, offer no inducement for the large investments necessary for sound air transportation.

In addition, the Chamber pointed out no previous experience in air line operation is required of bidders under the proposed legislation, and consequently hazards of the service would increase.

The Chamber also voiced disapproval of the bill's provision eliminating any person or corporation owning an interest in any other aviation activity from bidding on the ground that such restriction tends to hamper the financial development of the industry.

Copies of both resolutions were sent to President Roosevelt and other governmental officials.

ACQUIT LAWYER OF PERJURY

A jury in Criminal Court today acquitted Attorney Joseph B. Weddell, of 1308 North Murtland avenue, on charges of subornation of perjury. He was assessed the costs of the trial.

The District Attorney had accused the lawyer of scheming with Cora Smith, a Negro, to furnish him with a $1,000 appeal bond in a judgment suit last October.

Mr. Weddell had lost a case in Common Pleas Court which awarded a $971 judgment against him in favor of the Lemington Building and Loan Association. In taking an appeal, the lawyer was ordered to post a $1,000 bond.

The jury held there was no evidence to show that the lawyer had prevailed upon the Smith woman to schedule property she did not own as security for the bond.

MITCHELL HITS 'GANG' RULE OF AVIATION

'Primer Stuff,' He Says of Mail Flying

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP.)—Brig. Gen. William Mitchell told the House postoffice committee today American aviation was "hopeless" compared with that of the rest of the world because "it is in the hands of this gang that had control of the airmail."

Mitchell, testifying on the administration's new airmail bill, denied vigorously that assigning the Army to carry the mails was "legalized murder." He attributed deaths to "poor equipment, no flying experience, bad weather, reduced appropriations and 'boneheadedness.'" He testified:

"Since 1926, the development of aviation has fallen largely into the hands of the commercial interests. Our aircraft today is hopeless so far as war is concerned.

"If the military fliers with the equipment they have can't fly the mail, our air corps might as well disband. That mail flying is primer stuff."

WRAPS ONE AGENCY

Mitchell said unless aviation was put under one agency "it will again fall into the hands of these money fellows, and they will continue to do what they have done."

Meanwhile further indication that Democrats are willing to accept the airmail contract cancellation as a political issue if it is presented as such, was given today by Representative Bulwinkle (Dem.), of North Carolina, defending cancellation as the "only thing" that could have been done.

Bulwinkle's speech to the House followed Postmaster General Farley's defense of cancellation last night at a Delaware political rally, and denunciation in the Senate yesterday by Robinson (Dem.), of Arkansas, of the tactics of a firm in which the Mellons, Republican leaders, were interested.

'LIKE TEAPOT DOME'

Replying to criticism of the cancellation, Bulwinkle termed the administration of former Postmaster General Walter F. Brown a "putrid mass of putrefaction" likened only to the "frauds and collusion" of the Teapot Dome scandals.

Turning to cancellation of the contracts without first giving the air mail companies a hearing, he argued that "any contract or agreement between two or more parties always has been and always will be vitiated by fraud."

He said he had "calmly and dispassionately" studied "all of the facts" in the air mail case and to support his argument that fraud was evident he reviewed much of the testimony brought out by the investigating committee headed by Senator Black (Dem.), of Alabama.

POLICE HEADS CLEAR FLORIG

Arraigned before the Police Trial Board today, Lieut. Albert Florig, assigned to the South Side Police District at night, was exonerated on charges of leaving his post of duty without permission of superior officers.

Lieut. Florig was ordered suspended last week by Capt. Edward Moser on grounds that the lieutenant left the South Side district and came to the business district. Although technically suspended, Lieut. Florig was permitted to remain on duty pending the hearing. Supt. of Police Benjamin R. Marshall explained the charges were "too trivial" to remove Florig from active duty.

FILM REVEALS STAVISKY CLUE

International News Service.

PARIS, March 21.—How could Alexander Stavisky, master swindler and central figure in France's sensational $40,000,000 Bayonne pawnshop scandal, who police declare committed suicide, have shot himself both in the brain and in the heart?

This question marked the parliamentary commission's investigation of the Stavisky case today after the commission reviewed a news reel film of Stavisky on his death bed.

The film revealed the head wound, which police said Stavisky inflicted himself with a pistol, and also what appeared to be bloodstains near the heart.

Several members of the commission expressed grave doubts Stavisky was a suicide, echoing charges the swindler was slain to protect "higher-ups" involved in the scandal.

As a result, the parliamentary commission announced it would ask another autopsy on Stavisky's body.

JAIL GLADDENS DUCE PLOTTERS

ROME, March 21.—(AP.)—Two alleged anti-Fascist terrorists 'or whom the death penalty had been asked burst into tears when they were sentenced to 30 years' imprisonment for plotting against the life of Premier Mussolini and setting off a bomb at St. Peter's Cathedral last June.

The two, sentenced late last night, are Leonardo Bucciglioni and Renato Cianca.

Claudio Cianca, son of Renato, for whom the prosecution had asked 30 years, was given 18. The fourth defendant, Pasquale Capasso, won acquittal.

Sobbing, the four brokenly thanked the court for the leniency shown them. Most of the spectators at the trial Friday had expected those convicted to be shot in the back.

BORAH CHARGES STEEL CODE PERILS NRA

Urges Restoration of Anti-Trust Laws As Remedy

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP.)—Senator Borah in the Senate today said the steel code was "undermining the NRA" and urged its complete redrafting, as well as restoration of the anti-trust laws, to protect the small business man, labor and consumers against "economic feudalism."

Calling attention to the Trade Commission reports saying the steel code was under the domination of the big producers and price fixing was being indulged in Borah said there was a "restlessness through the entire labor world" and "this restlessness will manifest itself more generally as time goes on unless these things are remedied."

Attacking "Pittsburgh - plus" method of steel pricing, Borah read letters from Pacific coast firms, indicating they were forced to pay the equivalent of freight charges from Pittsburgh on steel made on the coast.

ASSAILS "MONOPOLY"

Assailing allegedly monopolistic tendencies under NRA, he said whenever there was a rise in the price of labor or wages these "combinations and monopolies take away from the workmen all possible advantages by reason of the raise in wages."

Meanwhile President Roosevelt was studying the commission's report condemning the code.

The commission criticized the code yesterday in a report to the Senate. Among other things, it said the code had permitted the large companies to achieve a dominant position.

REMEDIES SOUGHT

The President made known at his press conference that the price-fixing possibilities under the code were very unsatisfactory.

He wants some method of providing competition to replace the present practice whereby the steel companies file prices with the Steel Institute. He considers that this permits a virtual collective bargaining on prices.

The President also is dissatisfied with the methods of determining steel costs, particularly in regard to steel rails.

He does not think it has been possible to really find out how much it costs to manufacture rails.

2 AUTOS CRASH DOWNTOWN

A fire plug and a large plate glass window were broken when two automobiles collided at Smithfield street and Oliver avenue early today.

Peter Antanaitis, 22, of 182 Carey way, was driving down Oliver avenue, and Nick Totino, 22, of 221 Lombard street, on Smithfield street, when their cars collided, police said. The former's car hit the fire plug, spraying water into the air and flooding the intersection.

Totino's car crashed into a lamp post and hurled the top of it through a plate glass window in the Post & Flagg brokerage office on the corner, according to police.

Totino was charged with violation of the automobile laws when he could not produce an owner's or driver's card, and Antanaitis was held for reckless driving, police said.

Job Insurance Bill Urged by Miss Perkins

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP.)—Secretary Perkins told a House committee today it was only fair that employers help pay in advance "the huge expense of caring for people whom they dismiss often without a thought as to their future."

Advocating passage of the Wagner-Lewis unemployment insurance bill, Miss Perkins said that "the depression would have caused much less tragedy and distress" if unemployment reserves had been built up during the 1930s. She declared:

"In the past, it was the custom for the full risk of unemployment to be borne by the worker and the full burden first by the worker and then by the public at large.

"In the future some of this burden must, in all fairness, fall upon the employers, to whom the workers ordinarily look for jobs and security and small but steady purchasing power."

Miss Perkins termed both profitable and fair the proposed 5 per cent tax on payrolls to be paid by those who hire 10 or more persons except agricultural labor, domestic servants, nurses and teachers. She said it would produce approximately a billion dollars a year and that "the vast federal expenditures for unemployment relief make this billion doubly necessary."

HIGHBALL REVEALS RUTH SNYDER PLOT AGAINST GRAY

Murder of Lover Also Planned, New York Detectives Say

NEW YORK, March 21.—(AP.)—Unrevealed evidence that the late Ruth Snyder plotted to slay both her affinity, Harry Judd Gray, and her husband, Albert Snyder, has been in the possession of the police for seven years, according to a copyrighted article in the New York Daily News.

The evidence, the News says, was a small sample Scotch whisky bottle containing a mixture of poison. Gray had it in his pocket when he was arrested in Syracuse, N. Y.

At the time he told detectives that the bottle contained "just a shot" Mrs. Snyder had given him before he trussed her up and left her with her slain husband. Detectives, as a routine affair, had sent it to Dr. Alexander O. Gettler, city toxologist, who reported it was poison.

The News says that, fearing the introduction of evidence that Mrs. Snyder planned a double murder would confuse their clear cut case again the pair, detectives sidetracked the evidence.

For seven years the bottle containing the poison had been a part of the exhibit at the police museum—viewed by thousands of persons and visiting police each year. Mrs. Snyder and Gray were electrocuted in Sing Sing Prison in 1928 for Snyder's murder.

INSULL'S SHIP AVOIDS PORT

PORT SAID, Egypt, March 21.—(AP.)—The aged seafarer, Samuel Insull, continued to play hide and seek with the world today.

A new dash of mystery flavored his sensational doings when the little ship on which he is traveling to no one knows where failed to show up here. It had been expected last night, but there was no news of it today.

Port authorities maintained a lookout throughout the night for the former American utilities operator and his chartered freighter, the Maiotis.

ATHENS, March 21.—(AP.)—Mme. Couyoumjoglou, wife of a Bagdad date merchant and close friend of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Insull, will be tried for perjury in connection with information she gave regarding the fugitive Chicagoan's secret getaway from Greece last week.

Her Parents Suing Her

MARY ASTOR . . . "NEVER REFUSED . . . SUPPORT MY PARENTS"

Miss Astor, the film actress, sued in Los Angeles by her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Otto L. Langhanke, who declare they are without funds and unable to support themselves. Miss Astor: "I have been supporting (them) since I entered motion pictures in 1920."

MARY ASTOR'S PARENTS SUE

LOS ANGELES, March 21.—(AP.)—Declaring they are without funds and unable to support themselves, the parents of Mary Astor, film actress, have filed suit in Superior Court for maintenance from their daughter.

Shortly after being notified of the suit, Miss Astor issued a denial of her parents' charges, asserting their extravagant scale of living was responsible for their present plight and that they had refused recent offers of money from her.

The parents, in the complaint, alleged Miss Astor, known in private life as Lucille V. Thorpe, owns property valued at $150,000 and earns $1,500 a week.

In a statement, Miss Astor said:

"I never have refused to support my parents and I deplore deeply that so unjust and cruel a charge has been brought against me. As a matter of fact, I have been supporting my parents ever since I entered motion pictures in 1920.

Charged with perjury in the trial of Iggy Schwartz for the slaying of her husband, Andy Garavini, hacker, Mrs. Margaret Garavini was to be given a hearing before Alderman A. M. Maloney today. It was postponed from yesterday.

Mrs. Garavini admitted during the trial that her earlier testimony at a coroner's inquest was false. She had testified that Schwartz, later acquitted, started the fight that resulted in the fatal shooting of her husband in front of the William Penn Hotel last November.

SCHOOL BOARD BANS BUILDING TO JOBLESS

Father Cox, Mayor of Shantytown, Fails To Get Lease

Finding a home for Shantytown citizens and other homeless men is back in City Council's lap today, following action by the School Board rejecting a proposal to lease the vacant Ralston School to Father James R. Cox, Shantytown mayor.

Instead, the board decided, it will lease the school to the city if City Council will pass an ordinance accepting the responsibility for the property. Then, the members made it clear, the city can sub-lease the property to Father Cox.

A lively debate preceded the vote. Demanding the city assume responsibility, members, including Taylor Allderdice and G. W. Gerwig, asked an amendment of the resolution to lease the building to Father Cox.

LEWIN FAVORS PLAN

Dr. A. L. Lewin answered:

"As for the letters, Marshall may be police chief today and a whitewing tomorrow. Smith may be safety director today and nothting tomorrow. But Father Cox has proved that he can handle large numbers of men. During his march to Washington, their conduct was fine.

"I would prefer to deal with Father Cox than the city the way conditions are today. I doubt if the city could afford to pay us a dollar a year."

OFFER MADE TO CITY

The board decided, after amending the resolution, to offer it to the city anyway. A special committee investigating the problem had presented an unfavorable report, expressed by Gerwig:

"We aren't sure the floors can support a home for homeless men, and there is a chance the schools may need the building to store large quantities of supplies. Then there is the question of responsibility."

The board also heard read a resolution from the German-American Federation condemning their grant of the Taylor Allderdice High School auditorium for a mass meeting at which Lord Marley was the speaker.

MINOR RESOLUTIONS

Minor resolutions approved included plans for the improvement of Saw Mill Run boulevard adjoining Overbrook Junior High School property; the exchange of silent moving picture equipment at Arsenal High School for sound machines, and the granting to the University of Pittsburgh the use of the Frick Training School during a six-weeks summer session.

A special resolution authorized the Superintendent of Schools to excuse, without loss of pay, teachers who are called for service as court witnesses.

RULER'S BRIDE SHUNS PUBLIC

HUE, Annam, March 21.—(AP.)—A slim, striking girl bride of 18, who, on Saturday, is to become the Queen of Annam, was shielded from the public gaze today, the second of four days of Buddhist wedding ceremonials.

The youthful Emperor Bao Dai yesterday was wed to the French-educated, convent-reared N'Guyen Huu Hao, a commoner from neighboring Cochin-China.

All the gorgeous pomp of the East attends the ceremonies in this flower-decked city, but only a small part of the impressive ceremonies is witnessed by the public, the rest being conducted in official secrecy behind closed doors.

Accorded only a brief glimpse yesterday of the Catholic bride and queen-to-be, the populace was anxiously waiting for her public presentation.

There had been some discontent manifested at the union of ths Emperor and a Christian bride. Last week it was announced she intended to renounce Catholicism and embrace Buddhism.

Reports from the Vatican, however, said the necessary dispensation had been granted to permit her to marry as a Catholic.

Stork Brings Boy, Director Loses Bet

HOLLYWOOD, March 21.—(AP.)—"Fifty bucks it's a girl," said Frank Capra, prominent motion picture director, to Harry Cohn, producer, when advised yesterday he was about to become a father. Cohn said:

Capra paid. Both Mrs. Capra and her seven-pound son were reported doing nicely at Good Samaritan Hospital.

Secret Police Hot On New Trail in World Spy Plot

PARIS, March 21.—(AP.)—French secret police were hot on new trails today in their broadening investigation of what authorities call the greatest spy ring in history—a ring they say ferreted out naval and military secrets of the United States, England and France.

Fresh angles were uncovered in the first examination of documents seized yesterday when six persons were arrested as a result, authorities said, of revelations drawn from the two American prisoners, Robert Switz and his wife, Marjorie.

Judge Andre Benon, the investigating magistrate, led in a further scrutiny of the confiscated documents today.

Police said more arrests are in prospect—perhaps as many as 25. However, they maintained the utmost secrecy regarding those under suspicion. Including the Switzes, natives of East Orange, N. J., and New York, 16 are in jail.

Judge Benon maintained silence in regard to the American and British ramifications of the plot—ramifications said to have been disclosed by the American couple when the magistrate said they declared the spy syndicate had a New York recruiting center.

While assertedly working in the interests of Soviet Russia and Germany, police believed today the ring may also have dealt with other powers. They predicted an espionage network would be found spread in many countries.

CHILDREN AGAIN IN HOTEL MARCH

Children were to march again today in a parade of striking employes of the William Penn Hotel, it was announced late yesterday at headquarters of the strikers.

About 35 children of striking employes yesterday joined in a parade of strikers which police permitted to circle the hotel once. It proceeded up Sixth avenue to the strikers' headquarters in Wylie avenue.

The children yesterday carried signs reading "Give Our Mothers and Fathers Back Their Jobs." The children will not be used as pickets, the strikers said.

Harry Reich, organizer of the strike, who personally has Communistic affiliations, asserted that unless the strikers are rehired by Saturday they will march into the hotel and seize their old jobs. He said:

"The Regional Labor Board ordered the hotel to take back all the employes who walked out, and gave it until March 24 to do it. The management has made no move to carry out this ruling, but we are satisfied with it, and if the management won't carry it out we will."

WIFE DESCRIBES MATE'S TEMPER

Sausages for breakfast at 4 o'clock in the morning were too much for her husband's delicate appetite, Bertha Marie Reed Kukol, 23, of Dormont, complained before Judge Elder W. Marshall today in her suit for divorce from John Kokol, a young steelworker of Loyalhanna.

The attractive young wife explained that John became so angry he tossed the sausages on the kitchen floor and then made her clean up the mess.

Under examination by her attorney, James B. Wallace, Mrs. Kukol related other acts of alleged abuse and cruelty on which she seeks her divorce.

She said she married Kukol on Armistice Day, 1927, when she was only 16. They have a daughter, aged 5.

Youth Arrested In Lottery Raid

City detectives continuned their numbers raids late yesterday when they arrested Michael Grosso, 23, of 1111 Gilmore way and seized several hundred numbers slips and an adding machine on the second floor at 611 Penn avenue, they reported.

Grosso, alone when the detectives arrested him, was charged with operating a lottery, the report said.

AIMEE 'BOOED' IN DEBATING ATHEIST

Audience Fails to Learn Anything But Has 'Good Time'

Sister Aimee Semple McPherson's debate with Charles Lee Smith, America's No. 1 atheist, in Carnegie Music Hall last night, ended in a draw. At the end of two hours of histrionics, wisecracking and gymnastics, Sister Aimee refused to admit she had been converted to atheism. She said:

"Absolutely not!"

Brother Smith was just as adamant in his refusal to admit he had been converted to religious faith. He said firmly:

"I'm waiting for evidence."

Audience reaction was adequately expressed by two gentlemen as they left the hall. One said to the other:

"Well, did you learn anything?"

The other replied:

"No, but I had a good time."

BOOS AND AMENS

The spasmodic applause, with a scattering of "boos" and an occasional "amen" seemed generally to corroborate this verdict.

Sister Aimee's chief line of defense comprised a string of gaudy illustrations of the popular conception of the evolution of man from the one-celled amoeba to the monkey in the tree. Dubbed "Aimee's clothesline" by her sarcastic opponent, Brother Smith said of it:

"I think it's a washout."

To which Sister Aimee replied in acid rebuttal:

"Every woman knows that a clothesline is to hang things on when they're all wet. The line is mine, but every bit of the wash on it is his (Smith's).

CROWD HOWLS

That brought a howl from the crowd. As did Aimee's refusal to test her faith, at the suggestion of Mr. Smith, by imbibing some carbolic acid or submitting her person to the bite of a hypothetical but first-class rattlesnake. She justified her refusal by saying:

"The devil once came to Jesus with just such a proposition as this."

Dressed in flowing while robes, shoulders covered by a scarlet lined white cape, wearing a scarlet cross and clutching her white, gilt-edged Bible, Sister Aimee alternately ridiculed the statements of her atheistic opponent and quoted voluminously from such so-called scientific preachments as lent themselves to her argument. She said:

"Science has no quarrel with the Bible. Evolution is but a theory. It is a cracking wall in the country—a sinking and leaking ship. These are days when we need faith in God."

To which Brother Smith replied:

"God is a spirit. You live in a material world. Forget about God. Have faith in your fellow men and above all in yourself. Man is a monkey who made good. The earth is a condensation of cosmic rust. When you're dead, you're dead for keeps. If God is all-knowing, He has my address. Let Him look me up. I have nothing to fear if He's half-way decent. He'll say: 'You did the best you could with the brains I gave you. Go on in and have a good time.' I'll take Heaven for climate and Hell for company."

E. L. CORD SONS THREATENED

Disclosure of the asserted plot came after the boys, Charles and William, arrived from school in the East to spend Easter vacation with their parents.

In their report, the motorcycle officers said they were informed by Cord, who was at the train to meet the boys, that he had received letters and telephone calls threatening their abduction.

Annie Downie doesn't believe it.

In the Schenley Apartments where Annie is maid to Mrs Henry Chalfant, Annie had a cablegram today from Dublin, Ireland, which notified her that her ticket had drawn the horse Fortnum.

This should assure Annie of approximately $3,400. And if Fortnum runs in the money Annie's reward will range from $50,000 to $150,000. The race, the Grand National Steeplechase, will be run Friday at Liverpool.

But Annie, who is in her late forties, insisted she was unexcited and had made no plans:

"For the simple reason that I'm Scotch and the Scotch are wary. I don't believe there's any money coming."

Annie said this was the first lottery ticket she had ever bought—that a friend had suggested it.

Germany, France Won't Launch 'Deliberate' War—Knickerbocker

Odds Now 1 to 4 Against Forces Of Reich

Editor's Note: Europe's fear of war makes war this year unlikely, H. R. Knickerbocker writes in the thirty-third article of his series, "Will War Come?"

Germany would face odds of four to one against her if she made war now, Knickerbocker writes, pointing out that she lost the last war when the odds were nearly even.

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER
International News Service.

BERLIN, March 21.—Germany will make no calculated war this year. France will make no preventive war. There will be no planned war in Europe in 1934. An unplanned war could break out tomorrow, but Europe's fear of war makes it unlikely.

These are the conclusions upon arriving in the capital of the Third Reich after a visit to every important center of the continent. They are based upon information, calculation, opinion.

All three may be wrong, but they are the best available, and the conclusions are conclusions which most cool-headed observers ratify.

Briefly, France won't fight today because she won't. Germany won't fight today because she can't expect to win.

This is not fair to German declarations of policy. It is impossible to discount completely the assertions of German leaders that they do not want war, either now or later. On the other hand it is impossible to evaluate accurately the intentions of a nation, and the best intentions change. For the sake of a realistic answer to the question, "Will war come in Europe?" it is better to leave all declarations of intention out and consider only the practical war-making capacity of the one country most widely credited with war-lust, Germany.

Odds Too Great Against Germany

Assume Germany to be all that her bitterest critics say of her: That she is arming as fast as she can, that she wants eventually to conquer the continent if not the world, and that she will start the war to achieve that end as soon as she possibly can. What then is the situation today?

The odds are too great against Germany today for anyone but a mad German to consider making war now against France and her allies. Contrary to a considerable body of opinion abroad, it may be positively asserted that there are no madmen running Germany today.

The racial doctrines, anti-Semitism, internal terror, abolition of democracy and a dozen other aspects of the Nazi faith may be repudiated as evil, but only a blind man could fail to observe that the Nazis are masters of power politics.

They are masters at getting power, keeping it and extending it. They at any rate know that a lost war would be the end of National Socialism in Germany if not the end of Germany itself in its present form. Furthermore, when as and if Germany goes to war, her present rulers will pay close attention to the General Staff.

That organ is the only one that has survived every German upheaval from Frederick the Great to Adolf Hitler. The General Staff learned many lessons from the last war. The biggest lesson was not to strike until victory is probable.

Today victory for Germany would be out of the question. The most profitable way to approach the problem is by comparing Germany's strength in 1914 to her strength in 1934. Main factors involved are four: Allies, trained man-power, armament, and as a special subhead under armament, air-power.

Germany's Strength In 1914 Cited

In 1914 Germany entered the war at the height of prosperity achieved by 40 years' peace. She had all the territory she subsequently lost. She had for her chief ally Austria-Hungary with a vast extent of territory, immensely valuable for its supplies of food. Bulgaria and Turkey helped in the southeast.

Against her were, she knew certainly, France, Belgium and Russia. Germany probably would not have fought had she known in advance that England would enter. Germany thought, too, that Italy was on her side. So she entered the war believing it would be a quick affair with Germany, Austria-Hungary, Italy, Bulgaria and Tur- against only France, Belgium and Russia.

Today Germany, entering a war, would have certainly on her side only herself. Little Austria, and militarly negligi- hardly be depended on to help Berlin. Hungary would thus be separated from Germany by Austria, and militarism negligible. But give Germany the benefit of the doubt and count her allies, Austria with her 7,000,000 population and Hungary with her 9,000,000.

How the continental powers could line up and their actual fighting manpower is indicated in the following table. The figures on trained reserves are most important. They mean the the men who, having served in the army, could be put in the field as trained soldiers within a period varying from 24 hours after mobilization to a minimum of 10 days.

Forces of Europe Ready for Service

No country has submitted data on this all-important point to the League of Nations. The figures given here, hitherto unpublished come from a neutral source of the highest authority. They are at least as accurate as the figures of any general staff.

Country	Active army	Trained reserves	Total	Air forces
France	653,000	6,289,000	6,942,000	38,100
Belg'm	93,000	495,000	488,000	2,000
Czecho-Slovkia	137,000	1,500,000	1,646,000	1,100
	883,000	8,293,000	9,076,000	41,200
Rumnia	240,000	1,485,000	1,725,000	7,000
Yugo-Slavia	141,000	1,200,000	1,341,000	900
	1,264,000	10,978,000	12,142,000	49,100
Poland	332,000	1,645,000	1,977,000	....
	1,596,000	12,623,000	14,119,000	49,100
Italy	325,000	5,659,000	5,984,000	22,000
	1,921,000	18,282,000	20,103,000	71,100
Germny	100,000	*2,500,000	*2,600,000	*
Hungary	35,000	?	35,000	0
Austria	30,000	?	30,000	0
	165,000	*2,500,000	*2,665,000	*

If Germany were to attack France today, France could be certain of Belgium and Czecho-Slovakia, countries whose very existence depend upon French support. Slightly less certain, but only slightly less at the moment, would be the support of Rumania and Jugoslavia. Less certain would be the support of Poland, whose non-aggression pact with Germany has aroused French anxiety, but nevertheless the Polish-French military pact remains formally intact, and if Germany were palpably the aggressor France would still count on Polish help. Italy is in the balance and might remain neutral, but if Germany, starting a war, seized Austria, Italy also might be counted as an ally of France.

Veterans Not Counted As Real Reserves

Germany would have its 100,000 Reichswehr. It would have 90,000 former Reichswehr soldiers, discharged in the course of the last twelve years. It would have all the veterans who served in the war. They are estimated at 2,500,000. But every one of them is over thirty-five. Neither American nor British military authorities count today their veterans from the last war as significant reserves. Men of that age are not included in the figures for trained reserves given in the table.

Leaving then the German veterans out of account, Germany has as most worth counting, the 2,500,000 Brown Storm Troops, Black S-S, and Steel Helmets, under Capt. Ernst Roehm. It may be assumed that the 90,000 former Reichswehr soldiers are now officers or non-commissioned officers of this force. Some highly qualified neutral experts declare that these 2,500,000 men are no better than a semi-armed, drilled but untrained body of potential, as yet embryonic soldiers. Germany claims they are not soldiers at all, but for the sake of obtaining the best possible ratio for Germany at the start of a hypothetical war today, take the 2,500,000 as fully qualified trained reserves.

At the very best Germany would then have in the field within a few days after mobilization 2,665,000 men against 9,076,000 French, Belgians and Czechs.

Likelihood Not Seen Of 'Preventive' Conflict

In all probability she would have to face 12,142,000 French, Belgians, Czechs, Rumanians and Jugoslavs. Probably she would have to face all these plus the Poles, making 14,119,000. Possibly she would have to face the entire combination including Italy which would give a total against Germany of 20,102,000.

Germany's Strength Far Below 1914

How does this compare with the ratio of German to enemy forces when Germany entered the war, in 1914? At that time Germany had a total of 6,400,000 German and Austo-Hungarian soldiers, against 9,500,000 French, Belgians, British, Serbians and Russians, or two to three. Practically, however, since only a few German divisions were used to hold off the unwieldy Russian masses, the actual number of German soldiers engaged on the west front was nearly one to one of the enemy.

She entered the last war at nearly even odds. he would enter a war today at the best odds of one to four. Almost certainly the odds would be one to five. Probably they would be a little worse than one to six. Possibly they might be as bad as one to eight. Certainly, too, the French fortresses could hold off any attack until French mobilization was perfected.

Man-power odds are too great against Germany today. She would not have a sporting chance. To what point, though, could she improve these odds, and how long would it take? Above all, how well has Germany already re-armed?

SALES TAX SEEN AS BOON TO CANADA

Declaring that a manufacturers' sales tax in the United States would be successful and practical, Attorney Dale T. Lias, speaking before a meeting of the Women's Guild of the Third United Presbyterian Church yesterday afternoon said that enactment of such legislation seemed inevitable. The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. M. S. Dennis, Denniston avenue.

Attorney Lias added:

"The American continent has a laboratory where the success of the sales tax may be studied. This laboratory is the Dominion of Canada. The first sales tax in Canada was passed in 1920. It was not properly drawn and was very poorly administered. It remained in effect, however, until in 1924, when the complete system was revised and a new act took its place. There have been a number of amendments since this time, until at the present time the act and its method of working is considered by many as ideal. It has reached this stage after many years of experimenting and trials.

"The necessities of life are exempt from taxation and the small wage earner pays very little, if any tax. It has been arranged so that an article is taxed only once in the course of its manufacture. For example 'pyramiding' or the process of taxing every sale until the finished product reaches the ultimate consumer is not allowed.

"The Canadian tax is an 'invisible tax' and the consumer is scarcely cognizant of its existance although it produces a tremendous revenue."

TAX LEAGUES DEMAND CUT IN COSTS

HARRISBURG, March 21—Demands for consolidation of local governmental and school units will be carried into the 1935 session of the state legislature it was decided here today at the opening of the convention of Tax Justice Leagues of Pennsylvania.

A vote on the legislative program which contains many drastic governmental changes for the purpose of relieving the overburdened taxpayer, was to be held late today.

A vigorous debate on many points of the platform was expected after it had been introduced by I. Leonard Aronson of Pittsburgh. Representatives are demanding aid to landlords through the state department of welfare and elimination of all school taxes on real estate. The platform states that it is the duty of the site to educae every child and to provide uniform education.

CANDIDATES TO TALK

The platform also contained the demand for consolidation of all administrative units, such as townships, boroughs, cities and counties for the purpose of eliminating duplication and excessive costs. It is proposed to have one school district for each county, with one board of assessment levying and collecting all taxes.

Tonight the convention was to hear addresses of gubernatorial and senatorial candidates who have been asked to make known their views on legislation relieving the tax burden of the real estate owner.

Among the speakers listed on the program for tonight are United States Senator David A. Reed; Judge Charles D. Copeland, of Greensburg; Lieut. Governor Edward C. Shannon; Gen. Edward Martin, of Washington, Pa.; Mayor Eddie McCloskey, of Johnstown and Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, wife of the Governor.

SEEK OFFICE CHANGES

Among the other points of the platform scheduled to be passed on today is the demand for abolition of all fee offices. Representatives of the various tax leagues believe there are too many positions and elective offices which call for compensation in fees instead of a salary, according to Mr. Aronson.

The platform also includes the demand for a state constitutional convention for the purpose of modernizing the 60-year-old Constitution to meet needs of the present day.

The platform also proposes creation of a state taxing commission which would serve as a board of review on all budgets and bond issues of local governmental and school units. Such commission has been in operation in Indiana for the last six years.

The convention is likewise expected to go on record favoring taxing of real estate owned by public utilities. The only property exempt from taxation would be those used strictly for religious and charitable institutions and those owned by municipalities.

self how long this nation proposes to let itself be ruled by organized crime and other organizations far removed from the actual mass of the people, which "actual mass" doesn't rule or govern anything.

TWO AMERICANS named Switz, locked up in Paris as spies, have confessed. Universal Service tells a marvelously interesting story of the French detectives' work. Mrs. Switz's hairs were found in a film package sent to Switzerland. Comparing the hairs was intelligent. Finger prints were found on the negatives.

Mr. Switz was stripped naked, his whole body gone over with acids, to make sure that there were no spy messages written on his skin in invisible ink. This was a favorite way of sending messages by spies in the Big War. The French lawyer of the Switzes advised them to confess. They did, and he retired from the case.

THE JUDGE, sitting between husband and wife, keeping them apart, each at one end of a long table, would not allow them to embrace. Said he: "Sit down, tell your whole story now. This is no time for love." The French go about their business determinedly, and keep at it. When the American Switz, whose wife is a Vassar College graduate, fainted under questioning, the French put him under a cold shower, gave him a hypodermic injection, and he went on talking.

If the Americans were really engaged in spying, it was, of course, not on behalf of the United States, which, in international military affairs, is as innocent as a babe unborn, would not know what to do with foreign military secrets if it had them, does not even take the trouble to keep its own military secrets to itself.

REPUBLICANS, monstrously optimistic, say Lindbergh and other critics of the administration have done so much harm that the administration is trying to establish censorship to prevent newspapers sending out news about itself. Associated Press reports that these same Republicans discover that "unless the administration can prevent the people from reading of its maladministration, there will be revolt this fall at the ballot box."

If there is any ballot box revolt, it won't be in the direction of wishy-washy, milk and water Republicans. If the present experiment should fail by next fall, which it will not do, those that revolt would demand something more exciting than another four years of "prosperity around the corner."

CAPITAL STOCK TAX APPROVED

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP.)—The Senate Finance Committee today unanimously approved a capital stock tax of one-tenth of one per cent to take effect July 1, 1935, and estimated it would bring in $95,000,000 in revenue.

The committee also approved a five per cent penalty tax on corporations if earnings exceeded 12½ per cent, as a guard against undervaluations in determining their own capital stock valuations. Both propositions were advanced by Chairman Harrison (Dem.), of Mississippi.

As a partial offset for these new taxes, the committee eliminated the excise tax on soft drinks, which brings in an estimated $6,200,000, but increased the tax on colored matches from two to five cents per thousand to meet Japanese competition, and placed a 25 per cent tax on automatic lighters.

Further excise and nuisance levies were left untouched because Harrison said the committee did not wish to stop proceeds from this source until the new revenue from the capital stock and excess profits levies begins to trickle in after July 1, 1935.

SLOVAKS PASS ON BY-LAWS

Investigating committees were to give their reports at today's session of the National Slovak Society's convention in Moose Temple, Penn avenue.

Yesterday's sessions were confined to discussions of changes in the by-laws. One of the major points of discussion was the advisability of assessing each member belonging to the organization prior to 1924 for a $55 lien. It was decided this rate adjustment, adopted by the previous convention at Lorraine, O., be retained with the condition that when a member has paid up his policy in full, the extra $55 be refunded.

It also was moved that members suspended because of nonpayment of dues caused by financial inability to pay be reinstated, provided their reserve fund covers the premium.

A new ruling provides the organization give mortgages to members directly and not through banks.

One of the motions carried which may affect today's proceedings was the resolution that any officer against whom charges of fraud or misconduct were proven be subject to civil suit.

Thelma Todd Will Fee Suit Settled

LOS ANGELES, March 21.—(AP.)—The widow of an attorney who assisted the screen actress, Thelma Todd, in drawing up her will when she was seriously ill in a hospital here two years ago, yesterday was granted $75 of the $600 she said was due as entered in her husband's books.

Judge Arthur Crum said the services of the lawyer, Bert L. Irving, were worth only $75. His widow, Mrs. Marie Irving, said the books showed he had 11 "conferences" with Miss Todd.

Deafened Here Are Enthusiastic Over New, Easy Hearing Method

The hard of hearing of Pittsburgh are urging their friends, similarly afflicted, to try the bone conduction method of hearing now being demonstrated by Acousticon.

Not since their hearing difficulty developed had these deafened people heard music, the radio and sounds about them so clearly, so naturally and without the least nervous strain. They participated easily, comfortably in group conversations from all angles and at considerable distance. Nothing is worn on or in the ear—only a tiny receiver on the head back of the ear.

Free demonstrations given at Acousticon, 710 First National Bank Bldg., 5th Ave. and Wood St., Pittsburgh—or in your home or office by appointment. Booklet "Defeating Deafness" on request, Dept. 4ST.

80,000 LIONS IN RUSHMORE MOVEMENT

From Boston to Honolulu—a membership of 80,000 Lions today added their strength to the nation-wide competition to obtain the most suitable text for the permanent inscription of America's 600-word epic to be carved in the Mount Rushmore National Memorial.

Tr-state district clubs joined in the enthusiastic participation announced by Roderick Beddow, of Birmingham, Ala., president of Lions International, that his organization intends to hold an auxiliary competition. Its winning texts will be cleared through the regional committee in Chicago, where the international headquarters are located.

Mr. Beddow announced:

"We deeply appreciate the opportunity afforded us by the Mount Rushmore Commission and the Hearst newspapers to take part in this great patriotic movement. We are particularly a patriotic organization and it is only fitting that we should lend a hand to this task. I am confident that from our members there will be submitted thousands of texts for the approval of the judges."

SUPPORTED HERE

Backing up this announcement, Pittsburgh district Lions Clubs leaders announced fullest support. Dr. H. F. Miksch, president of the Pittsburgh club, said:

"We certainly will support this patriotic project. International certainly has joined in a popular movement. It is one every man, woman and child should view as a privilege in that their efforts support the creating of a national memorial that will exist long after all of us."

From the Mount Lebanon Lions comes the assurance of President John E. Furey:

"Whatever International wants, we'll certainly co-operate with 100 per cent support."

Wilkinsburg Lions are preparing to outline their plans, according to President Albert L. Berg, who promises the club will aid the competition without stint. James C. Hornberger, speaking as president of the McKeesport Lions, joins with the other clubs' officers co-operation. Similar sentiment was expressed by James A. Pangburn, president of the Elizabeth Lions, and Attorney Charles P. Lewis, president, Clairton Lions.

DIRECTS DETAILS

While International President Beddow will act as chairman of the Lions' Mount Rushmore competition committee, with the work going on under his direction, G. A. Edgar, secretary of the International office staff, will follow through on details of the competition.

Mr. Edgar said he is forwarding instructions to every Lions Club in the nation and the two chapters in Hawaii to get behind the movement. He said that rules governing the competition will be sent immediately. Mr. Beddow will appoint a national committee among Lions clubs to assist him.

But every person is invited to participate in this great national competition being conducted by the Sun-Telegraph and Associated Hearst newspapers. Fancy writing is not necessary. Choose your words carefully. Remember, your text must not exceed 600 words. But, as President Roosevelt has said:

"You can say anything in 500 words."

Make up your mind that you can write the text that will herald our nation's greatness for all time. And above all, write from the heart. From day to day, there will appear in the Sun-Telegraph instructive articles by authorities on the nine episodes which must be covered in the text. Watch for them. Clip them for future reference.

COUNCIL MOVES TO DESTROY PARROTS

trace every damnable bird you can find.

DR. W. W. G. MACLACHLAN—This is the most infectious disease laboratory workers have to cope with . . . It is probably the greatest epidemic ever known to medical history . . . It makes smallpox look like small bear.

McNAIR BACKS MOYER

Both Council and Mayor McNair ignored the medical fraternity's plea for immediate action. Council deferred action on the parrot ordinance until next week. McNair thinks his health director did a "nice job."

He had a political argument ready in answer to criticism of Director Moyer. He argued:

"Wouldn't we be in fine shape if we had followed Magee's (Councilman William A. Magee) advice and put a medical engineer in there?

"It just proves we need a doctor for the head of the Health Department."

The city's ordinance, according to Councilman Garland, will be presented at Council's regular meeting next Monday instead of calling a special meeting this week. The ordinance cannot pass finally, according to this plan, until next Wednesday.

LEAVES IT TO MARKS

Health Director Moyer answered the Medical Society's resolution by "passing the buck" to his superintendent of the Bureau of Infectious Diseases—Dr. Philip E. Marks. In a letter addressed to Marks, the director instructed:

"In consideration of the resolution passed by the Allegheny County Medical Society, a copy of which is herewith inclosed, you are hereby ordered to arrange for all information and facilities complying with the resolution.

"This will include all material and help needed."

Asked what he meant by "facilities," the director replied curtly:

ORDINANCE DRAFTED

The ordinance is being drafted at the suggestion of Coroner W. J. McGregor as the result of a conference yesterday between himself and President of Council Robert Garland. The Coroner suggested that some legislation be provided which would give the Health Department power of doing whatever was considered necessary to curb spread of the disease. Councilman Garland in a motion to the lawmaking body late yesterday urged destruction of all parrots in the city. The motion passed, and Assistant City Solicitor Thomas M. Brenner was asked to prepare the ordinance.

Shortly afterward City Health Shortly afterward Director Moyer issued orders to all pet shop owners to destroy all parrots, parrakeets, macaws and all other birds of the psittacine family immediately.

BIRDS DESTROYED

Dr. Marks revealed that this order affects only four shops. Twenty shops were served the quarantine order last week, he said, but it turned out that only 11 dealers had birds. Of these 11, Dr. Marks said, 7 already have destroyed their birds voluntarily.

The Medical Society, last night, passed the following resolution unanimously:

"Whereas, the Allegheny County Medical Society recognizes that the present epidemic of psittacosis has reached serious proportions, therefore, be it

"Resolved, that the Allegheny County Medical Society in regular session March 20, 1934, request the Department of Health of the City of Pittsburgh to furnish immediately to the society all available information regarding the present epidemic of psittacosis so that the physicians of this community may better cope with the situation; and further be it

"Resolved, that the Allegheny County Medical Society request the Department of Health of the City of Pittsburgh to immediately provide isolation facilities for the purpose of proper segregation and care of patients suffering from psittacosis and be it further resolved that the Allegheny County Medical Society continue to extend all its facilities to the Department of Health in its effort to control the present epidemic."

EPIDEMIC DISCUSSED

Dr. Alexander, who turned up the first authenticated case of psittacosis in the present epidemic, opened the medical society's discussion by reading a paper on the subject. He outlined the history of the disease and recited his findings. He declared:

"Psittacosis, when once recognized, is not difficult to control. We already quarantine all cases of pneumonia, so the present victims of psittacosis are not an important factor in the spread of the disease. All that is necessary is the elimination of all parrots—not only those that present evidence of being ill—but all birds that have been exposed to the infection, and, had we carried out this plan several weeks ago, this present epidemic would never have occurred.

"I strongly recommend to our director of health that suitable legislation be secured at once preventing further importation or sale of any of the parrot family."

Dr. Alexander expressed as his belief that the downtown department store which was found to have been the original source of the disease was, at the present time, free from any danger of infection.

Dr. Marks, assuming responsibility in the present medical crisis, said:

"Nobody in this audience feels the responsibility for this epidemic as I do myself . . . At the beginning, I realized the impossibility of telling whether a bird had psittacosis by just looking at it, but all this took time . . . I did the best I could under the circumstances."

SEGREGATION IMPORTANT

Dr. Maclachlan, speaking next, declared Dr. Marks "need make no apology." He said:

"Keep in mind this was a full-blown epidemic when it came to his attention."

Dr. Maclachlan, one of the city's outstanding experts on the disease, termed psittacosis as the "most infectious disease laboratory workers have to cope with." He pointed out that there have been six known cases from human contact and declared two such cases are under suspicion here. Segregation of humans infected with the disease, he said, is important.

Dr. Rodgers, of Freeport, who treated three cases in 1930, urged that all the birds be traced and declared this was the most important thing in preventing spread of the disease.

TEXT OF PROPOSED CITY ORDINANCE ON PARROT FEVER

Assistant City Solicitor Thomas M. Benner drafted an ordinance for extermination of all parrots and barring their shipment into Pittsburgh. The measure will be introduced in Council Monday.

The ordinance follows:

"An ordinance prohibiting the bringing into and maintaining of parrots in the City of Pittsburgh, providing for the destruction of all parrots therein, conferring certain powers upon the Department of Public Health and providing penalties for the violation thereof.

"Whereas, for some time past there has been an epidemic of parrot fever or psittacosis in the City of Pittsburgh, causing the death of some and the serious illness of other citizens;

Now, therefore, be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh in Council assembled and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, that to protect the public health from parrot fever or psittacosis, the bringing into or maintaining of parrots in the City of Pittsburgh is hereby prohibited.

"All persons owning or having the custody of parrots shall, within 48 hours after the passage and approval of this ordinance, make a report of the same to the Department of Public Health of the City of Pittsburgh, and said department is authorized and directed to take possession of said parrots and destroy them.

"The director of the Department of Public Health is authorized, if in his judgment certain of said parrots should be quarantined, in connection with the study of parrot fever or psittacosis, to quarantine them under proper regulations to be made by him.

"Any person violating any of the provisions of this ordinance, shall, upon conviction thereof, before any alderman or police magistrate, of the City of Pittsburgh, be fined not less than $50 nor more than $100 for each offense; that is for maintaining a parrot, or failing to report the same to the Department of Public Health for destruction, or for bringing the parrot into the City of Pittsburgh, and upon failure to pay said fine, shall be subject to imprisonment in the Allegheny County Jail for a period not to exceed 30 days."

When attention was directed to the fact that the ordinance referred only to parrots and not to other members of the psittacine family, members of the legal staff declared they would correct the oversight to include macaws, parrakeets and other members of the psittacine group.

RAIL PROPERTY CLAIMS MADE

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 21.—(AP.)—Property owners along the line of the old narrow-gauge Waynesburg & Washington Railroad today had begun a move to get back from the railway the right of way they gave up years ago.

At the time the road was constructed, some property owners sold their right of way while others signed theirs away for as long as the line was kept in operation.

In recent years the railroad, employing only two persons, has been running only about three trains a week over the 28-mile line. The property owners contend the railway is not essential and that they should have their right of way lands returned.

USDAY AND FRIDAY—THE LOWEST PRICES OF THE MONTH

+ ON BROADWAY +

Man About Town.

Elsie Janis' groom (Gil Wilson) disappeared "mysteriously" for several days last week. Has he returned yet? . . . The Jack Dempseys (Hannah Williams) will be a trio in latter July or early Aug. . . . Nancy Carroll and Bolton Mallory will not reconcile—but Nancy says no abrogation . . . Jimmy Durante and Lou Holtz almost came to blows at the Capitol Friday night, because Holtz tried to make a stooge of Jimmy . . . Tony Owen, Chicago mail order house exec. and Dorothy Dare of the Joe Cook folderol, use the phone so much, you can't get a booth! . . . The John La Gattas, he's the illustrator (the good one!) are infanticipating! . . . Social Note: Joseph Freeman, red-itor of The New Masses, is class-struggling on the sands of Miami Beach—but incognito, of course.

The Norman Rockwell drawing on the best known nickel mag is of Elizabeth Chew, Scarsdale society gel . . . The Goodhue Livingston, Jrs. are threeing. He's the "radical" son of the indigo-blooded Republican tribe . . . Julian Mason's attack on the President's policies may win him the coveted post of press chief for the reorganized Republican party . . . The Forbes Morgans are striking out incessantly . . . When The Chief paused at Albuquerque, the Indians at the deppo tried to peddle their knick-knacks to George S. Kaufman, the author, who tried to sell them the 2nd Act of "Let 'Em Eat Cake!"

Jayne Shattuck and Jack Kirkland blend Friday and sail for Seville, Spain, the same sundown on the Roma . . . At 3 A. M. Sunday the Casino de Paree had $7,000.85 . . . Ray Moley is due for an important treasury post . . . Nancy Hamilton in "New Faces" was once Kate Hepburn's understudy—and she now does a devastating and caustic echo of her . . . Vincent Astor is planning a cruise in Russian waters with Averill Harriman and Mary Rumsey aboard the Nourmahal . . . Betty Gillette is trying to make up her mind about marrying R. Rasmussen . . . So they'll be known as "Rasmussen and the Empress?" . . . Richard Arlen will no longer argue about his movie themes. Because those he picked for hits weren't and those he didn't want to do—were . . . Humphrey Bogart's kisser is scratched too much.

George Gershwin's tour of 28 weeks lost 7 Gs—business was swell, but poor routing wasted the profits on expenses . . . You'd never suspect that "Dodsworth" was one of the better shows by hearing that brief episode on the air via the Vallee hour. It just didn't come over, at all . . . The cast of "Men In White" are letting success go to their ankles. They are playing it carelessly like the amateurs most of them are . . . Norman Anthony is launching another mag to replace a recent flopola . . . Frank Morgan will sign for Jed Harris' next . . . R. C. Sheriff's current London hit is "Windfall." It deals with a group of persons, who suddenly get rich via the Sweepstakes . . . But Robert Andrews' book "Windfall" was practically identical in theme—and screened as "If I Had A Million!"

An orchid to "Orchids in the Moonlight" and anybody's version of "Carioca" . . . A glare at waiters who sit you in draughts . . . Orchids to Adele Rogers St. John's vignette: "Never Again" in the current Cosmop . . . And Lennie Hayton's fingering on his melancholy piano . . . Orchids to the zippy new Cotton Club revusical . . . Orchids to Lucille Watson's masterful pretending in "No More Ladies"—and to the Stork Club, always a pet spot.

For the first time in its history—Equity will be warred against . . . On Mar. 23d (the election of the council) the "Peace on Earth" cast and others will demand to know the salaries of the board—and what happens to the interest on Equity's reserve of $400,000, among other things . . . Jules Glaenzer's newest find for the Goldwyn moom-pitchers is Mayola Morrison—the model . . . La Hiff's renovated Tavern features amber lighting—which makes any woman's complexion look kissable . . . The management of "Sailor, Beware!" (Lyceum) serves you any drink—gratis—in the green room.

The Algonquin is doing a terrific trade. They don't know if it's because of Repeal or Louis Bromfield's parties . . . Arthur Kober sails for Spain Satdee after a year in Hollywood. He is going to Madrid, he says, to see a movie . . . The spookiest of the asbestos curtains in town is at the Lyceum . . . Sign seen in a downtown store: "If you don't see what you want—the hell with it!" . . . J. P. Morgan & Co. will announce their withdrawal from security peddling soon after Congress adjourns—they'll be bankers only . . . The Fusionists are figuring on Samuel Seabury or Park Commissioner Moses for Gov. . . . George Cronyn, author of "The Fool of Venus," married his girl Friday last wk—Frances Collander.

Dorothy Flood, who posed with Buddy Rogers (to get his picture on the front pages), will marry Wm. Edenburgh of Los Angeles . . . J. Cannon's caustic crack as a phoney ankled by: "There goes a monument to nothing!" . . . Elinson says that Dillinger probably is on Welfare Island with a "Do Not Disturb" sign on his cell . . . Style experts announce bright colors in men's clothes to "forget the depression" . . . More green in the pockets would help a lot . . . Memo to paste in front of you on your office wall: "Don't worry about what people are thinking of you, for they aren't thinking of you, at all. They are wondering what you're thinking of them! . . . Suggestions to city officials—stop looking so ferocious in the newsreels and screaming like infuriated canaries—people are laughing . . . Definition of a press agent: A second-rater who discovered honesty doesn't pay.

Helene Standish of the Palais Royalookers will sue that guy for breach of promise . . . Tommy Wanamaker, Jr., gave Judith Anderson fifty cases of fancy hooch before shoving off for the coast . . . Jackie Coogan earned 6 million, plus investment, during his movie career and when he is 21 soon he'll wonder what became of most of it . . . Never teach tot stars arithmetic . . . Steffi Duna and the heart, Francis Lederer (alone!), are shrugging shoulders . . . Flash! Funniest item of the week: One of New York's noted beauty experts, is divorcing her groom . . . So he is setting up his sweetheart in competition on the same block!!! . . . This is what Joan Crawford meow'd when she first learned that Doug Fairbanks, Jr., was messing around with Gertrude Lawrence: "Oh, well. He always wanted mothering."

'Operator 13' Big Film

Studio talk already insists that the new Marion Davies film, "Operator 13," will be one of the big pictures of the year. It will be almost the first important story of the Old South to be filmed since "The Birth of a Nation." There have been two Lincoln pictures, one produced by Al and Ray Rockett in 1924 and the other by D. W. Griffith in 1930, but these stories dealt primarily with the northern phase of the Civil War.

The scene of "Operator 13" never shifts further north than Washington, and, although Miss Davies plays a Union spy, her adventures take her into Southern territory, many of them into the colorful social life of Richmond.

Producer Lucien Hubbard, a native of Bellevue, Kentucky, has been working day and night with writers and research men to get the Robert W. Chambers novel into screen form and to insure authenticity of atmosphere. He predicts that a grand ball, to be shown in the film, will be one of the most spectacular scenes to come out of Hollywood in a long time.

Connie Goes Showy and Annoys

By JIMMY STARR

HOLLYWOOD, March 21.—It doesn't make any difference, but Pert Kelton has installed an electric fan in her car, and W. C. Fields has put a dictaphone in his. Just to keep a record (pun intended) of his jokes.

* * *

Constance Bennet climbed aboard her social high-horse the other night when she entered the Tingle-Tangle Theater (with 18 acts of the stuff they used to call vaudeville) some moments after the performance had started.

Connie TIMED her entrance so as to disturb most of the patrons, and two acts later made one of those ELEGANT EXITS, also timed to annoy the cash customers. 'S funny, but I don't suppose Connie ever heard of a gesture called professional courtesy.

* * *

Boulevard Snoops—Ann Harding has gone in for FANCY uniform for her chauffeur . . . Earl Carrol is STILL advertising for his brown beret which was BLOWN off somewhere near the Roosevelt Hotel . . Eddie Robinson and Director Archie Mayo are MAKING FACES at each other over closeups on "The Dark Tower" set. If the argument continues, Archie will be WORN away to a mere 200 pounds.

* * *

Dorothy Tree says she's solved the income tax problem. She's going to give the Government her income and take the tax! . . . Thelma White figures that she, too, should leap back to Broadway to be rediscovered by movie scouts . . . Will Rogers was at his BEST (and that's awfully good) at the Academy Awards dinner. One crack was that "Anybody who's been with Harry Cohn as long as Frank Capra should get an award for that alone."

* * *

Dorothy Dix was holding forth on the set at Educational. She loudly declared that she did not smoke, drink or neck.

"Well, what do you do?" asked Andy Clyde.

"I tell lies!" flipped Dot.

* * *

Dishing up Hot Stuff . . . It's SO certain you could almost make a bet that Ruth Chatterton and hubby, George Brent, have reached the SNIPPY stage. In fact, gossips and close friends claim it's strictly ICY between the two. Ruth still likes ex-hubby, Ralph Forbes, but he seems deah, deah! over Lucile Ball, a dancing cutie . . . Janet Gaynor's TERRIBLY intrigued with a certain star, but he's married.

* * *

Romantic Note: Frank Orsatti is carrying on from where George Raft left off with Marjorie King . . . Gloria Swanson has been night-clubbing it with this and that one! . . . Lady Carlisle is BOUNCING around the cinema village all hours, having the HYSTERICAL giggling time of her life . . . Paramount asked Alice Joyce to return to the screen. Although she said thanks, expressed regrets and stated that she was too busy being Mrs. Clarence Brown, there was a sad tone to her voice . . . That's Hollywood.

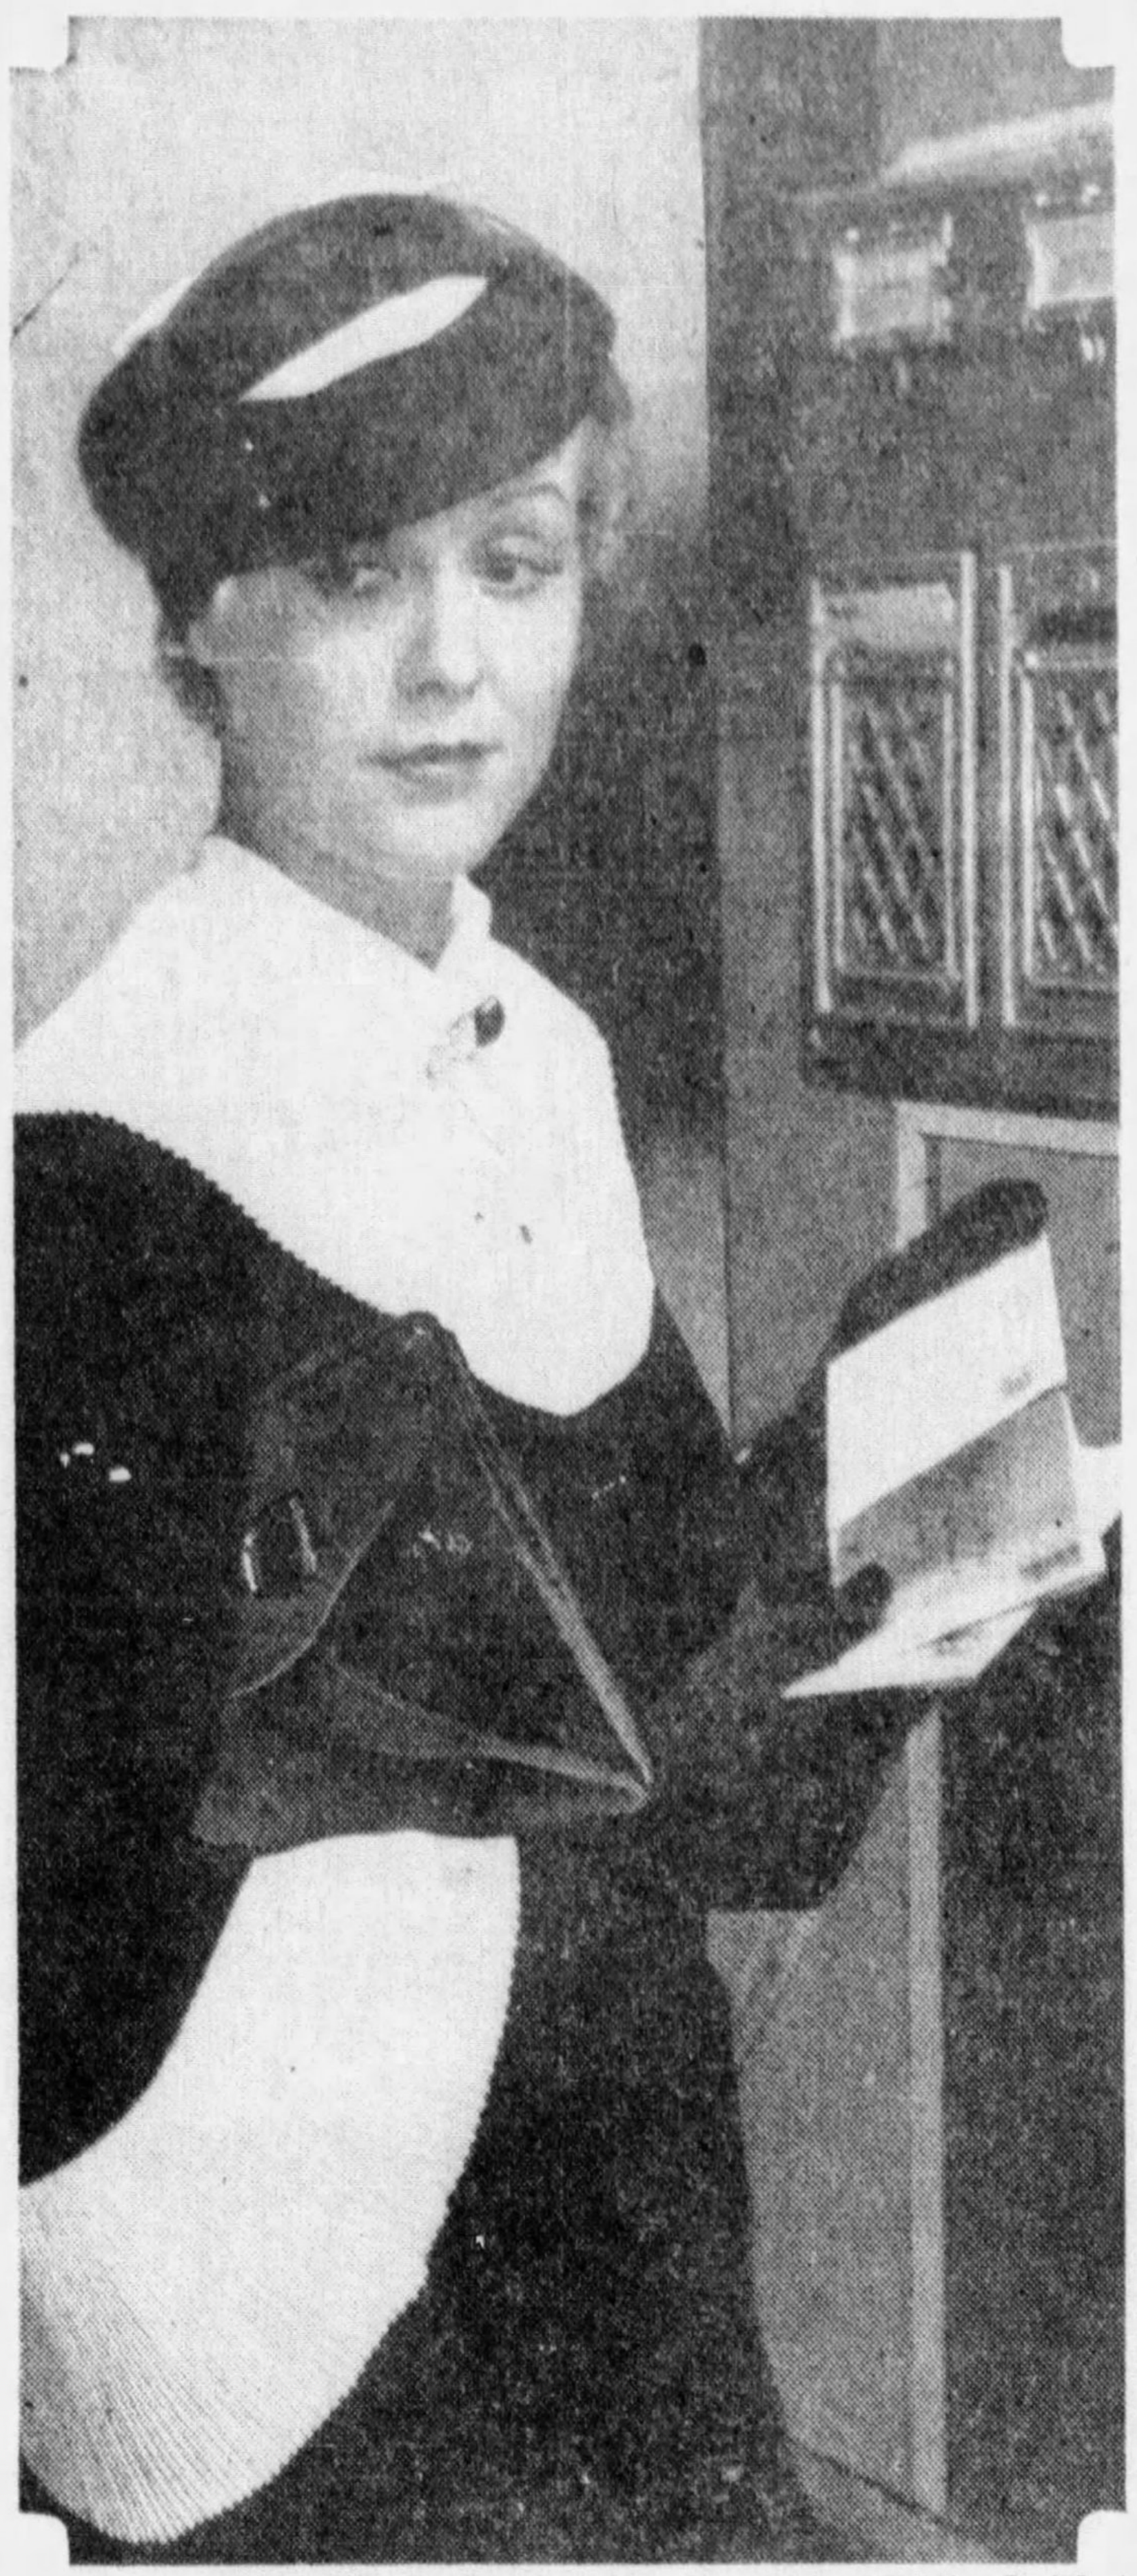
In Double Bill



Gloria Stuart has the leading female role in "I Like It That Way," comedy drama in double feature bill to open Friday in the Davis and Regent, along with "The Crosby Case."

Contralto and Baritone To Sing Friday

Rose Bampton, Metropolitan Grand Opera contralto, and Nelson Eddy, baritone, will be joint stars for the closing Art Society concert in Carnegie Music Hall Friday evening, March 23. Miss Bampton was last season's "find" at the Metropolitan, where she made her debut in "La Gioconda."

Her program here will include songs by Hugo Wolf, Brahms, Strauss, as well as a group of English songs by Winter Watts, Roger Quilter, John Alden Carpenter and Frederic Hart. In Mr. Eddy's group will be "Ode From Ossian's Poems," by Francis Hopkinson and songs by Saint-Saens, Massenet, Messager and Meyerbeer. Miss Bampton and Mr. Eddy will join in a duet "Dunque io son," from "The Barber of Seville," by Rossini.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"David Harum" has had such firm audience appeal that Manager Cool of the Fulton, which has been packing 'em in since this latest Will Rogers starring vehicle opened last Thursday, has decided to keep the comedy for a second week, opening tomorrow.

New York, which has had too much of a monopoly of plays this season, will have to take a back seat for the road on the new Rudolf Friml operetta, "Annina," coming to the Nixon Easter Monday, with Maria Jeritza, of grand opera fame, as the star. The new musical play, which recently had a most successful premiere in Boston, is in Philadelphia at present, and is heading for Chicago. According to Frank McGrann, in advance of the production, pronounced by Boston critics to be the best the House of Shubert ever has done in the operetta line, cannot continue its tour beyond May 21 because Mme. Jeritza is due in Europe in June for engagements on what we travelers call "the other side." Which means that New York will have to wait until Autumn to see and hear the noted operatic star for the first time outside of the sacred precincts of the Met or a concert hall, inasmuch as Mme. Jeritza has never appeared in operetta in America, although she has sung in such productions in Europe. The box-office sale for Jeritza and "Annina" will open next Monday.

'Ray! The Nixon is going to have productions for two weeks in succession. "Richard of Bordeaux," with Dennis King in the title role, is booked for the week of April 9.

Among the sets being designed for "The Taming of the Shrew," now subtitled "A Shakespearean Apertif," to be staged by the Y Playhouse March 24 and 26, are a roof garden on an apartment house and a tourists' inn. The clothes'll be modern, too. Wonder if they're going to call Petruchio "Pete"? Laurence London designed the sets and David Cornman is directing. The Playhouse 'phone is Mayflower 6500, in case you want to order ducats.

William Roos, back from California, where he worked some in pix, and some in the Pasadena Community Playhouse, will be among the leading actors in "The Silver Wedding," new play by Carroll Fitzhugh, to be given March 27 and 28 by the Civic Playhouse. Others will be Wilmer Swartley and Dorothy Kaufman.

Braddock Is to See Coward Comedy

The Community Players, Monongahela Valley little theater group, will present Noel Coward's comedy, "Hay Fever," Thursday and Friday evenings, April 5 and 6, in the Carnegie Auditorium, Braddock. The play is being directed by Morton Frank, with Mrs. J. H. Shontz as his associate. It will be the organization's first three-act production. Members of the group hail from Braddock, North Braddock, Rankin, Swissvale and Pittsburgh. Officers are Morton Frank, president; Mrs. H. Litman, vice president; Paul D. Carr, Jr., treasurer; Alice Hall, secretary, and W. W. Ring, business manager.

All in a Day

Ambition

THEY SAT on the fire escape and looked up at the stars. The boy and girl were both thinking. But their thoughts were not alike.

"Gee," said the girl, "I hate that candy factory. I've only been working there two days and I hate it already. When I was a little kid, I used to dream how wonderful it would be in a candy factory. But now I wish—"

"Tell you what I wish," growled the boy. "I wish I could go to college, that's what. It's the only thing I ever wanted real bad, and mom says she doesn't think she can send me. Say, Gertie, you don't know how much I really want to go. I'll never by happy if I can't."

If I ever went to high school like you, I'd think it was swell," Gertie returned wistfully. "Isn't there anything else you really want, Jim—about us, I mean?"

Jim hesitated.

"Oh, yeah," he said. 'Sure. Only I want to go to college first. Gee, if mom could manage somehow to let me go." He shrugged hopelessly. "But I guess there's no use talking about it. I suppose I won't ever get to go. We simply can't spare the money."

Jim couldn't see into the future, of course. He couldn't know that, a scant few months later, he and Gertie would again be sitting on the fire escape—this time saying goodby.

He was going to a small college in the Middle West. Tuition was fairly cheap there, and he might very possibly get a chance to work on a farm during his summer vacations.

"I'll write often," he promised. "But don't forget your promise to drop in and see mom very often. She'll be awful lonesome, and she's been so swell to do all this for me. I'll miss you, Gertie; miss you loads.

"But it won't be so very long. I'll come back to the city as often as I can and, after I graduate, we'll be able to get married. It'll only be four years."

The girl nodded bleakly. Four years! It sounded like four centuries to her.

Jim didn't get home often during those four years. The fare was more than he could manage, and his summers were spent working. He wrote regularly at first. Then his letters became less frequent. Those that Gertie did receive told her little. He was well and happy. He was studying hard. He'd be home for good now in three years. In two years. Next summer.

In the meantime she went on working in the candy factory. Went on hating it. During certain seasons of the year she earned a fairly good week's salary. At other times it was hard going.

She met other men with whom she might have gone out now and then. They meant nothing to Gertie. Nothing meant much except Jim. She labored over her letters to him. She counted off the weeks until he would be coming home. She was very, very happy when only days remained until that time.

She had hoped that Jim would want her to be with him during the graduation exercises, but he mentioned nothing about it in his letters. That wouldn't have been so bad, but neither did he say exactly when he was coming home. A new fear nagged Gertie.

When she tore open the letter that he sent during his last few days at college, the girl became a little faint. The letter was completely matter-of-fact. He had been offered a job in a small town not far from the college, he wrote. A good job. He thought it would be wise to accept it.

"I'll be home during the summer," he wrote, "to see you and mom. Give her my love."

That was all. Gertie was sure the world had ended when she read those lines.

Jim came home sooner than he had anticipated. His mother was badly hurt in an accident, and the boy was sent for. By the time he arrived she had lapsed into a coma from which she never recovered.

Gertie hardly recognized the boy who had been her sweetheart. He was strange and grim. She knew, of course, that his grief had changed him. He couldn't be expected to think about things like their marriage, their dreams, their plans . . . .

A week after the funeral he told her that he was going back.

"There's nothing to keep me here now," he said. "And I've got my job to think about."

The girl faced him with stricken eyes.

"But Jim," she faltered, "what about us? You haven't forgotten what we—what we talked about that last night before you went away. About getting married, and all like that."

Jim's mouth worked nervously. His hands twitched. "Gert," he said with difficulty, "I feel like a rat saying this. Only it wasn't really my fault. The last four years have changed me a lot. I'd go through with it in a minute if I thought it would make you happy. But it wouldn't

"You see," he explained, "there's a girl I met in college. I never could make you happy when I love her. If I had never met her, things would be different. So this time it's goodby for good. I hope you'll meet somebody who'll really make you happy. You deserve it."

Gertie stumbled as she walked away from him. Her tears were so thick she couldn't see. She didn't blame Jim. People did change, with education and a new enviroment. And he had been away four years.

Four years! She shrudderd as she thought of it. Four horrible years of slaving in a candy factory for a reason that Jim would never know. For Jim's mother had been the only one who knew that it was Gertie's hard-earned money that had paid his college tution during those four years. . . . .

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Bright's Disease Is Not a Hopeless Affliction

In olden days, Bright's disease was considered a hopeless affliction. I am glad to say that this is not the case today. Extensive study and research have made possible a better understanding of this disease. New instruments and laboratory tests enable the physician to to detect the disorder in its early stages. With proper treatment, diet and care, many cases, heretofore considered fatal, are actually cured.

Dr. Copeland

I do not mean to imply that Bright's disease is not a serious ailment. It still continues to be a menace to the health of the nation, but it is believed continued progress will be made in the campaign against it. As in other diseases, many cases will be prevented and certainly prevention is more important than cure. Our hope as a race lies in preventive medicine rather than curative medicine.

Bright's disease is the term applied to inflammation of the kidneys. As a rule, it afflicts persons beyond middle age, but it is also encountered in children and young adults. In many instances, it can be traced to some childhood infection, such as scarlet fever. It may follow pneumonia, grippe, influenza, excessive use of alcohol, faulty diet and unhygienic living. Often it is difficult definitely to determine the underlying cause.

Unfortunately, the sufferer from this disorder is usually unaware of the disturbance until serious damage has been done to the kidneys. The early symptoms are vague and often overlooked. As the disease progresses the victim complains of shortness of breath upon the slightest exertion, fatigue, headache, loss of appetite and general feeling of discomfort.

If the trouble is neglected, the kidneys become permanently damaged. Eventually they may be unable to do the work necessary for health. When this stage is reached, the disease is very serious.

I cannot overstate the importance, the great value, of periodic urinalysis. Tests should be made at least twice a year. In this way, many unsuspected cases of Bright's disease are discovered. They aid the physician in recognizing the disease long before serious damage to the kidneys has occurred.

Remember, that not all disorders of the kidney are Bright's disease. But if it is, to be certain of cure there must be immediate medical attention. Early recognition means early cure and escape from serious and disabling disease.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Serve Guest of Honor First

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

To settle an argument, please tell me who is served first at a dinner party given at home? Does the host (or the maid, if there is one) serve the hostess first, or is the guest of honor the first to be served? D.

The woman guest of honor is served first, whether the serving is done by the host or by the waitress. This gives added compliment to the guests of honor. If a waitress is serving, she passes the serving dishes first to the woman guest of honor, and then serves the guests in the order in which they are seated. If the host is doing the serving, he serves first the woman guest of honor, then the other women and men.

At the Opera House

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am going to a Sunday night concert. Does this call for formal evening dress for my husband and myself? I personally do not think so, but I want to make sure. G.

You may, if you wish, wear formal evening dress to this concert, or you may wear a dinner dress or street clothes . . . you will find every type of attire at this concert, but mainly informal dress. Even in boxes at these Sunday evening concerts we see informal dress—not at all like the formal attire of the occupants of these boxes on other evenings!

Deciding that the way to trap the mob is to find out by a process of elimination just which flat was the one where Wilson was detained, X-9 has already visited two of the places.

The third flat was on the fourth story of the former headquarters of the notorious Limpy Briggs gang, on Lewis street routed by police only a few days before. Briggs and his henchmen had been forced to leave wall tapestries, rich carpeting on the floors and stairs and other evidence of the luxury with which they surrounded themselves.

Contrasted to the halls, the rooms on the fourth floor proved as squalid as those Wilson had described as his prison. There was no running water in the rooms, the windows faced on the street and there was little furniture.

The banker had complained that his guards talked little and that the noises made by people going up and down the stairs were practically the only sounds he had heard during his enforced four-day stay. After looking over the Lewis street premises, X-9 went out and called the local police chief.

"Please send a couple of men to meet me at 84 Dickson street," he said, "in about 10 minutes. That's the spot where a gang held Wilson, the banker, while negotiating for the $100,000 ransom."

What clues caused X-9 to decide that the Dickson street place was the hideout, eliminating the Lewis street house and also the other two flats he had previously visited?

CROSS STITCH MOTIFS PATTERN 664

Easy With Step-by-Step Guide

Silhouettes—decorative—smart—useful on many things if they are in cross-stitch. Pictures, pillows, a decoration on a dainty runner, vanity set or teacloth—are a few of these uses. Here are some unusually pretty silhouettes to brighten the home for spring. Can't you see them dressing up some dainty organdie or a more sturdy gingham? The garland can be combined with various of the motifs to make a picture.

Pattern 664 comes to you with a step-by-step guide which greatly simplifies the use of the pattern. In it is shown, by means of illustrations, on what to use the motifs, how to embroider them, how to make each article; color suggestions and material requirements for each article. The pattern contains a transfer pattern of one motif 5x8 inches, two different motifs each 5x6 inches, two similar motifs 5x6½ inches, two garlands 4x6 inches and a two-inch basket.

Junior Patrol Mail Box

He escaped from a jail, it is reported, where he was being held on a murder charge, by carving a wooden gun. Some of his jailers put up their hands, did as he told them. Soon he got real guns and machine guns, too. Now he is free, and police think he has robbed several banks and kidnaped people to shield his escape from the scenes of these crimes.

Now officers of the law are afraid that he will try to rescue one of his "pals" who has been condemned to death for a cold-blooded murder. Soldiers guard the jail. It doesn't seem possible, fellows, that a gang of thieves and murderers could cheat, and steal, and murder half across our country and get away with it, does it?

Such men are our enemies, fellows. No one is safe while they are free. Probably their minds are foggy, so that they no longer know right from wrong. Really, they have no courage, except the desperation of rats in a trap. Let's hope that they are arrested soon.

A new captain today is Virginia Wallace, of 249 Blackstone street, who is already a member. But today she sends eight new pledges along with her badge number and her friend's badge number so that she has 10 members altogether, and so we are sending her an armband right away. Here's her letter:

PUPPETS CHEER LEPERS WITH 'SLAPSTICK'

BY DIXIE TIGHE

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, March 21.—Puppets with a slapstick sense of humor made the lepers on the Virgin Islands laugh . . . and the echo of that laughter is recompense to Sue Hastings, who fashioned the marionettes and journeyed with them to the tragic Isle of St. Croix.

Returned from this land of prolonged, unsightly illness, Sue Hastings brings stories of the intervals of happiness that come to these people from the efforts of the United States government. Miss Hastings and her versatile little wooden actors were sent to the colony as a part of the government's recreational and educational project there. Talking of her trip today, Miss Hastings said:

"When the bright-faced, gaily-costumed puppets spilled to the ground in their skit, 'A Bicycle Built for Two,' the lepers shouted with joy—they liked this comic tumbling scene much better than the esthetic attempts of the puppets. The children, too, liked the bicycle number and preferred it by far to Cinderella. So with a return visit in mind, I am 'teaching' the puppets to rough it."

While at St. Croix Miss Hastings visited at the home of Gov. Paul Pearson. But when Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was scheduled to arrive Miss Hastings and her troupe moved out hastily. She explained it:

"Virgin Island carpenters are slow—they idled away their time so long that the separate little house planned as special quarters for Mrs. Roosevelt and her party was incomplete on Mrs. Roosevelt's arrival. So we made a hurried exit, but before we left we hung new drapes at the paneless windows and added new touches of color to the guest room for Mrs. Roosevelt."

Judge G. L. Schramm To Speak at Forum

There'll be little festivity except concerts and school plays and informal affairs until after Easter. But Easter's so near—just a week from Sunday—that Pittsburgh's smart set can be patient from now until then. Of course next week, Holy Week, is the least socially important week in the whole year.

There'll be all sorts of interests, though, to offset the few eventless days remaining betwen now and Easter's release. For one thing, we'll have all the gay affairs of the post-Easter season to anticipate.

Through the Spyglass

VIEWING THE NEW

You little shoppers who want to learn the names of the shops whose items are listed in this column day by day . . . call GRANT 6500 . . . and ASK FOR THE SPYGLASS. Or send in a stamped self-addressed envelope for your reply. THE SPYGLASS is always on the alert, peering out new "finds" . . . and you will be answered promptly!

* * *

And so to thoughts of what's-to-be-done-about-this-Easter-clothes-problem! Far be it from us to try to cover the matter here and now . . . but we have made a stagger at one or two items which should be helpful.

Beginning with something that can be used as a pick-em-up for a new frock you'd like to disguise at times (pretending to own TWO new ones).

This white pique quick-change artist transforms the whole tops of frocks. Down the front it goes . . . down the back it goes . . . in a deep V-plastron with your willowy neck poking through top center. And then the fun begins . . . for there is a wide grosgrain two-tone ribbon running like a streak straight down the front hitting the point of the V . . . and then dividing and going 'round your waist until it meets the back V point, and ties! Five different color combinations in the ribbon . . . decide which you want. And after all this is said and done . . . one lonely dollar buys it!

* * *

Now we look you right in the eye and ask "are you the race-horsey type, or are you built for durability?" Because . . . if you're the first you can just go and find your own duds (for the present) . . . we have the under-5 foot-6 inchers on our mind today.

To you of the smallish stature, wideish waistlines we bring an armful of smartness, slenderness, AND savings! Namely, redingotes. Redingotes built to fit you of size $16\frac{1}{2}$ to $26\frac{1}{2}$ . . . and NOT matronly ones either, praise be! Wait 'til you see yourself in the swanky brown, black, or blue crepe coat with a singing Spring print under it (colors to match the coat, and white). Wait 'til you fling the bertha-like collar outside the coat and knot a bow loosely as if you didn't care! Then you'll see yourself as other SHOULD see you. These are $14.95.

* * *

OR . . . have yourself a wool redingote with a printy bit of a frock peeping from beneath it. The coat is the popular diagonal woolen, with a side-closing . . . the frock a pure-dye printed silk which can be washed. And the colors are navy, brown and black. Sizes 16 to $26\frac{1}{2}$ . . . and also priced at the gladdening sum of $14.95.

* * *

And as to your raving tresses . . . hair, to you . . . we have that all figured out too! Because of course a permanent MUST be had, and of course worrying your little noodle about where, when how and what kind. Hence we have personally stood over this new permanent and watched the process to find . . .

That it's a great achievement in the permanent waving line. Your little wig-lets are washed and then liberally lubricated with nice smelling oil . . . and when sufficiently drippy, they have a heated clamp popped onto them and there you are. No wires, no electricity, no painful winding and pinching and poking! Above all . . . none of this hay-foot, straw-foot result that so often occurs when hair comes out of a permanent. The oil keeps it soft and fine, lustrous and naturally pliable (normal hair is pliable, NOT brittle.)

Too . . . judging from the way this shop is maintaining a high batting average in the number of permanents it gives every day . . . we should say that OTHER women have found this a wise method!

* * *

However . . . if you aren't in the market for a permanent this time . . . you'll doubtless be IN NEED OF one of the scalp treatments which are making history. For, this is the time of year when scalps are not all they should be (what with the end of the winter et al) . . . and something must be done about it.

SO . . . we say, hie your little selves in for one of these treatments . . . costing you $2, and being well worth it. The formula going thusly: Your hair is brushed, steamed for five minutes to open the pores, a pine oil is massaged into the scalp, then you're shampooed with a new shampoo which works wonders and then some! As a final gesture . . . ointment is used if you have dry hair . . . and a tonic if your hair is normal. Talk about being completely renovated! Talk about sprucing up for spring! Here's how!

True Love Is Often Injured By Unpleasantries

The COURSE OF TRUE LOVE NEVER RUNS SMOOTH.

It is something like a golf course. We have all seen one of these, and looked at the ups and downs, the rocky ravines, the gaping vales in which the ball may expend its energy.

And there is only the putting green which is smooth and easy.

There always seems to be squabbles where the heart interest lies. Adjustments have to be made. Character differences weighed in the balance. Quick tempers have a way of liking the even going dispositions. The red head may care for the ash blonde, and so on. Yet if the affection is a genuine one, and if thought as well as emotion is brought into action, all may be as bright and full of sunshine as that perfect day in June the poet describes.

Look through the tales of love which are immortal. So many of them have their briars. Romeo and Juliet. How we have pondered over that one. How we have thronged in at the theater door to watch it. Yet have you ever considered what might have happened if these two young hearts had been less suspicious, and more trustful? Have you ever wondered the outcome, if Romeo had not been so willing to let tragedy creep in and play a leading role?

A beautiful story, gone wrong. Emotion undisciplined. And then the unfortunate denouement.

No setting sun should lag to an end, without a lover's quarrel patched. Yet such is not always the case. Pride comes in, and what a big whack it does cut out of good old commonsense. Words said in anger, are gone over and over by the injured party. They are made twice as big as they were ever meant to be.

Then, too, there is that mean old desire to be the one who WINS OUT. And that isn't love at all!

QUARRELED WITH FRIEND

Dear Miss Brunot:

My boy friend and I have had one big and terrible quarrel. It was coming on for a long while, but neither of us was smart enough to ward it off. He is so jealous. If I speak to another fellow, he flies into a rage. And I have tried to make him see he isn't the only man in the world. He is a fine big fellow. Six feet tall, dark and smart as a whip. But he is simply bugs where I come in.

We went to a dance, and I wanted to learn a certain new step, and one of the fellows knew it better than either he or I. So he and I danced a lot together. This made my boy friend hot under the collar. Going home he insisted I had made a fool of him. And what I didn't like was the ugly things he said about the other fellow. He said he was a sissy, and none of the fellows who were real guys paid any attention to him. That it took a silly girl like me to notice him at all. This made me mad, and one thing led to another. And now he won't even speak to me.

Mother wants me to make up with him, because our two families are very friendly, and they've both been awfully pleased with our going together. I don't know what to do.

CAROLINA.

You tell me all about what this boy friend said about the other fellow. But you fail to mention what you said in retort. And I'll wager it was plenty.

CARES FOR GIRL

In New York City at the present time, tongues are wagging. And all because one of the richest young men in America has fallen out with a very rich young girl. They were to be married. Everything was ready. And then, like a thunder clap, there was a separation. And both are trying to forget.

And I would say the whole difference was merely that both young people were too hot headed. Too proud. And too sure of themselves. And both families, just as your family and that of your boy friend, are disappointed.

It is too bad, I say. And to you, Carolina, I suggest you get the young fellow on the carpet right away. Don't let grass grow under your feet. He cares a great deal for you, but now that big bump of masculine pride is paramount with him, and he won't give in. Don't care a rap what he said about the other fellow. He didn't mean it, anyway, for it was his jealousy that was talking, not he.

His description as you give it, makes me think him a fine young man. One not to lose. A fellow who hasn't any fire in him at all is a poor matrimonial risk. And if I read you correctly, you wouldn't be happy with such a husband. Dancing well is very important socially. But it isn't everything, and never lose a real honest-to-goodness sweetheart over a few little new steps.

Also when this quarrel is patched up, learn something from your experience. And the next time you and your boy friend begin squabbling, remember the time worn adage, and one for all girls to know, that of SILENCE IS GOLDEN.

A Sequel to Heart Of a Wife

Madge Fears Harm Will Befall Husband or Boys

Was Katherine making some momentous decision in replying to the letter she had said she meant to answer while she was waiting for Junior and Roderick to come home from the midnight drive to the beach, which I had permitted them to join?

This was the question that raced through my startled brain when her old flush and fluttering eyelids gave me the intuition that the letter, which she said she had delayed answering too long, was from Hal Meredith.

At any moment less tense than the present one, when all my fears were fused upon the possible actions of Lee Chow, I should have found much food for startled and apprehensive thought in this idea of the possible answer Katherine might send to Hal Meredith.

For I was pretty sure what this latest letter from the brilliant alienist had contained; another plea that she should break the anomalous bond that held her to the husband who, I feared, had deserted her in spirit if not in fact.

Her decision, I pondered, would affect me closely. But I brought myself up with a round turn. I had neither time nor inclination at the moment to consider Katherine's problems, or indeed my own, save as they involved the safety of my children and my husband.

TRAINED NURSE

Having made sure that Baby Faith was safe and could be in no possible danger for the remainder of the night, I was wild to get down to the tower floor and keep watch for the return of the gay party which had driven to the beach by moonlight.

"As always you hearten me immeasurably," I told her. "I am glad you were awake, and that I haven't it on my conscience that I roused you out of sleep."

"My dear, stupid child!" she said affectionately. "So you forget that I am a trained nurse, who can turn sleep on and off as you would a faucet? You need never be afraid of waking me. I can be asleep again in five minutes, if I choose."

It was no idle boast. She has proved it more than once in our life together. Lillian is another who, in her own expressive language, can "waken with the fire alarm, slide down the greased pole, dressing on the way, and tumble back into bed again, sound asleep before the hay sags under the weight." I envy them both this facility, born of long training. Sometimes I can emulate, but not always.

"I'll just lock this door now," Katherine went on, as we bade her good night. "I'll be right here, so the boys won't have to wait when they come up."

"I shall bring them up myself," I said firmly, and my father waited until we heard Katherine turn the key in the lock before expostulating with me.

REASSURED BY DAD

"My dear child!" he said then. "You don't mean that you are going to sit up for those children, do you? I cannot permit it. You are altogether too fatigued. I myself will sit up for them.

"Go into your room now, and go to bed. I will go over the house at once and see that every door and window is secure, so you need not be at all nervous. And you know that the boys are perfectly safe with the Underwoods, Mr. Veritzen and Mrs. Arlen. They are in the biggest and safest car of all, and Itto is a wonderful driver."

"Yes, I know the truth of everything you have said," I returned, then added obstinately, "but I can't help it, father. I cannot sleep until those children and Dicky come back safely again."

"Very well!" My father capitulated suddenly. "I will take you down stairs. But isn't there some way that you can lie down until they get back?"

"Of course there is," I told him. "The couch hammock on the screened veranda overlooking the driveway is a perfectly comfortable bed. The night is unusually warm for this time of year—one of our wonderful Long Island autumn nights—and there are plenty of blankets. I shall rest beautifully there, and be able to keep watch until they come back—if they come back." I added with a sudden sob in my voice.

Household Hints

Apples soaked in cold water to which a little lemon juice is added will retain their color during cooking.

Ivory keys of pianos, ivory knife handles, or ivory ornaments, can be easily cleaned free from yellowing stains if rubbed gently with a solution of lemon juice and water. Use equal parts of each, and use only lukewarm water. After cleaning, wash in lukewarm soapy water and dry very thoroughly.

Roughen the soles and heels of a small child's new shoes with a nutmeg grater, and many a fall will be avoided.

You will find that brushes and brooms will last longer and do their work better if they are washed every six weeks in a solution of two tablespoons of household ammonia in one-half gallon of water. Let the bristles stand in the solution for half an hour, then rinse thoroughly and dry in a cool place.

FAIRY TALES
IT'S ALL SO WONDERFUL— AND TRUE!
SUCH BUNK!
FAY KING

By FAY KING

The imaginative powers of youth were once exercised and developed by the reading of fairy stories and fascinating tales of adventure.

Many a renowned author and otherwise successful person has listed such books among the first read and the inspiration of childhood.

Children knew they were just stories and not really true.

Of late years it has been thought such stories are not good for children, and some parents have deprived their children of the pleasure that comes from reading those books.

But there is a much more dangerous fiction that children read and believe these days. Exaggerated tales about persons in public life which they take as absolute truth.

Much of the discontent of youth may be laid to its belief in this new "fiction."

How to Play
How to Win

Another Howell Top

A beautiful example of card reading and superior technique in Dummy play occurred in a recent Howell game in New York City. Mr. M. D. Maier, one of New York City's leading younger stars, was the Declarer, and he succeeded in making five-odd in hearts on a hand on which several other Declarers could not even make four.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♡	Pass (1)	2 N T	Pass
3 ♡ (2)	Pass	4 ♡	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—East's failure to overcall made the Declarer's play considerably more difficult.

2—Although the heart suit is rather weak, North, with his 5-4-3-1 distribution, is wary of a final notrump declaration.

Against the contract of four hearts with Mr. Maier as the Declarer, East very deceptively opened the deuce of clubs. Since a diamond discard could be used, Mr. Maier finessed the Queen, despite his own singleton. After the Queen held, the Knave of spades was led from Dummy and passed around to East's Queen. East now led the club King, and Mr. Maier, not suspecting the distribution, quite properly went up with the Ace; then, when West ruffed with the heart deuce, he over-ruffed in his own hand. The play of the Ace of clubs is undoubtedly correct; the safety play of a low club cannot be of any advantage, since if West has a singleton club, the chances are he will have at least four trumps, and this trump holding must be weakened in some manner.

Mr. Maier now led a spade, which West won with the Ace, returning the diamond Queen. This trick was won with the diamond Ace, and the Ace of hearts was now cashed. Now knowing that East originally held seven clubs and at least one heart, the Declarer boldly cashed his diamond King and led another heart, finessing the Knave in his own hand. Now feeling fairly certain of his count on the hand, he played out his two top spades, discarding diamonds in Dummy. West, of course, had to hopelessly follow suit, and East had no trumps with which to prevent the discards. Mr. Maier now led out his last diamond, ruffed it with Dummy's last trump, and won the last two tricks with the King and nine of hearts.

The moral of this hand is that an accurate count of the opponents' hands will save from one to two tricks for the Declarer almost invariably.

GLOBE TROTTING

Hello, Ladies and Gentlemen:

Here's what I found out today about Pitcairn Post No. 256, American Legion. They have organized 72 sons of the members of the post into a squadron, whose duties are to help any cause whereby disabled vets, their orphans, or widows of veterans are benefited.

Right now they are behind the drive to gather silks for the Veterans' Hospital, Aspinwall, and promise a good supply in a short time.

Listen, squadron members, after you get the supply collected let me know and I will send for silks or have the hospital truck pick them up.

This organization of boys sounds like a good idea, one that other veteran organizations might want to adopt.

* * *

Mrs. Barzen, McKeesport—All 10 amendments were passed during the last election. The amendment concerning welfare of the blind was among them. It goes into effect June 1.

* * *

Mildred Landman, Uniontown—The superintendent of Pittsburgh Public School is Dr. Ben G. Graham. His office is located in the Board of Public Education Building, Bellefield avenue.

Notes About Radio Stars, Stations

By AIRCASTER

Maurie Wetzel, NBC production man in Chicago, was in town yesterday making a tour of the pioneer station's studios, and he told me something about his methods of producing the Phil Baker program and others.

One thing that he wouldn't divulge was the name of "Beetle," but we all know by now, I suppose, that he's one Hank Ladd.

Hank isn't in the studio during Phil's broadcast, but projects his hollow-sounding voice into the studio, and thus over the air, by means of a public address system.

That is to say, (so that people may not be able to see him, and know who he is) Hank, in an adjoining studio, speaks through a piece of tubing into a microphone, and his jibes at Baker are transmitted into the show by mean of a loudspeaker.

* * *

Maurie, who handles also the piston ring program on which a weird voice tells you to beware of smoke in the exhaust of your car, revealed the fact that the ghostly voice is not that of a radio actor, but is C. L. Menser's . . . the head man in the Chicago production department of NBC.

LONG DISTANCE

Fred Webber is keeping up an 11-letters-a-year correspondence with a man named A. Gordon Lee down in Capetown, South Africa.

Fred doesn't know the man except through their letters, but Lee wrote last year and told the announcer that he shaves every morning (6:30 in Africa) to music from the Chatterbox announced by Webber (11:30 p. m. in Pittsburgh).

It takes one month and three days for letters to travel between the two points.

* * *

It's a safe bet that Ed Schaugency, KDKA's newest announcer, will be the first Pittsburgh announcer to see a robin this year.

Ed, who opens the station at 7 in the morning with the Musical Clock, lives down in Beaver Valley, and has to get up at 5 to catch a train.

UNCLE SAMMY

Sammy Fuller's commercial Kiddies Klub programs feature picture drawing contests for the youngsters, and school teachers are finding themselves so deluged with requests from their charges to show them how to draw such things as fish, chicks, clocks, etc., that whole classes are being assigned the drawings required by the contests.

* * *

Good-looking Tommy Riggs is being swamped with requests for autographs by the fair patrons of the Downtown Style Show, from which he broadcasts five days a week at 12:30 p. m.

And incidentally, NBC, New York, has an eye on Tommy.

SPECIAL RECIPES HELP TO INVALIDS

Tempting Dishes May Possess Proper Vitamins

If you have an invalid in the house, you know what a task it is to prepare appealing meals. Sick people don't seem to like the usual foods. And for them it's doubly important that they get the right quantity of vitamins A, B, C and D.

One of today's prize winners comes from just such a "no-appetite invalid." Mrs. Zollars writes:

"I have been in bed almost four years. As I have a very poor appetite, I watch your column and often find recipes that make me really hungry. For myself, I cannot eat any meat but chicken, so am sending you the recipe for a dish that never hurts me. I thought it might appeal to someone else who can have chicken but no other meat."

How about you? Do you have problem-answering recipes? If you do, send them in to Prudence Penny, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. She awards one $5 prize and 10 $1 prizes to the best recipes received. No recipes, due to the many submitted, are returned.

Five Dollar Prize Winner

MRS. M. DAVIDSON,
55 Pasadena Street.
PILAN ALA TURQUE
(First Part)

One cup rice.
One-fourth cup butter.
Three cups chicken broth.
One-half cup tomato puree.
Two stalks parsley (chopped).
One onion (chopped).
One teaspoon salt.

(Second Part)

One-half teaspoon paprika.
Three tablespoons flour.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One-half teaspoon pepper.
One cup chicken broth.
One-half cup tomato puree.
One cup cooked chicken.
One cup cooked ham.

Put rice over a quick fire in a quart or more of cold water, and stir until water boils; let boil three minutes and drain by pouring cold water over it through a sieve. Melt butter in pan and add rice, stirring until butter is absorbed into rice, add broth, tomato puree, parsley, onion, seasoning and cook over boiling water until liquid is absorbed and rice is tender. Melt butter, cook in it the flour and seasonings. Add broth and puree and stir to boiling point. Then add the coarsely chopped chicken and ham. Let this get very hot. Ham and chicken if so desired may be thinly sliced. Make border of rice on serving dish and turn meat into center. Serve at once.

CANADIAN COMBINATION

Three or four-pound piece of smoked loin of pork (Canadian bacon).
One tablespoon powdered mustard.
One and one-half pounds green beans.
Twelve small round potatoes, peeled.
Water.

Wipe Canadian bacon with damp cloth. Rub powdered mustard thoroughly into meat. Brown a tablespoon of butter in heavy iron pan or kettle and brown the meat in this on all sides. Add one-half cup water, cover tight, and let simmer slowly for one hour.

Add green beans cut in diagonal pieces, a little more water, and simmer one-half hour. Add peeled onions and potatoes (and more water if necessary). Cover again and simmer another hour.

Be sure to add only enough water to keep the vegetables steaming nicely without losing their form. Cooking time is two and one-half hours. When cooled the rich juice will jelly around the meat, making it easy to slice. A two and one half inch cut of ham may be substituted for the pork.

MRS. FRED MARTIN
5514 Wilkens avenue.
CHICKEN BOUILLON

Two quarts of chicken broth.
Three raw eggs.

Remove all fat from broth and allow to cool. Beat egg whites slightly and add crushed egg shells to the whites. Gradually add both to chicken broth. Stir constantly until broth reaches boiling point, then allow to boil five minutes. Remove from fire and allow broth to stand a few minutes to settle, then strain through thin cloth. Season broth and serve either hot or chilled with crackers.

MRS. M. O. BENESCH,
541 Shaw Avenue, McKeesport.
GRANDMOTHER'S FRUIT CAKE

Cream well six ounces butter (three-fourths cup) with six ounces sugar (three-fourths cup). Add six yolks of eggs, one after the other, stirring thoroughly after each addition. Stir into this six ounces of flour (one cup) and lastly four whites of eggs, whipped until they hold a peak. Butter tin, over this, to cover, place buttered paper with edges raised about one inch all around. Pour mixture over it, spreading it out evenly. Over it all sprinkle chopped candied fruit (all kinds, mostly cherries). Just before placing it into oven sprinkle granulated sugar all over surface. Bake [illegible]. When cool cut into squares about two inches large. When using fresh fruits sprinkle generously with cherries or any other small fruit. Cake may be made either with or without one teaspoon of baking powder.

MRS. ANDREW BOBBY,
939 North Darral avenue, Farrell.
COOKED SPAGHETTI SAUSAGE PIE.

Two tablespoons flour.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One and a half cups milk.
Three carrots (sliced and cook).
Three onions (boiled).
One can cooked spaghetti (or you may cook spaghetti yourself).
Two cups soft bread crumbs.
One egg.

Shape the sausage meat into patties and fry gently until done. Place in a greased baking dish. To three tablespoons of the sausage fat add the flour and blend. Add the salt and one cup milk, and cook, stirring until thick.

In the baking dish place half the carrots and the onions, quartered. Cover with gravy and cooked spaghetti. Soak bread crumbs in remaining milk and egg for five minutes and place on the spaghetti. Place the remaining carrot rounds in a ring on the baking dish and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F., for 45 minutes.

MRS. LLOYD SOULE,
518 Second avenue, Johnsonburg.
PECHE BOURDALOUE

One-fourth cup sugar.
One tablespoon flour.
One-half teaspoon salt.
Two and one-fourth cups milk.
Two egg yolks.
Three-fourths cup crushed macaroons.
One-half teaspoon vanilla.
Six half peaches.
One half cup caramel sauce.
One and one-half tablespoons sugar.

Mix the one-quarter cup of sugar, flour and salt. Moisten well with one-quarter cup of milk. Scald remaining two cups of milk. Add milk gradually to beaten egg yolks. Then add sugar slowly, stirring constantly. Cook over hot water in a two-quart double boiler until the custard thickens, stir constantly during the cooking so that the custard will be smooth. If there are any lumps, beat the mixture until smooth. Add the crushed macaroons, allow to stand until cool, add vanilla.

In individual dessert cups, in which the dessert is to be served, pour a layer of the custard. Lay in the half peaches, one to each cup, over these lay the remainder of the custard. Then pour in the caramel sauce, still hot, adding it carefully so that it remains on top of the custard. Sprinkle lightly with the one and one-half tablespoon sugar, using not more than one-fourth teaspoon to the cup. Chill in refrigerator for two hours. As the caramel sauce stands it crystallizes slightly, so that the dessert has a sugary crust at the edges. The sugar sprinkled over the sauce helps to start the chystallization.

CARAMEL SAUCE

Three-fourths cup sugar.
Three-fourths cup boiling water.

Melt the sugar in a frying pan, stirring constantly. At first the syrup will be colorless, but gradually it will become a golden brown. Add the water slowly, stirring. Cook until the syrup is reduced to about one-half cupful. While quite warm pour over the custard. Serves six.

RUTH COCHRAN,
Concordia Home, Marwood.

Add one ounce of white mustard seed, one ounce of celery seed and one of small ground mustard. Cover well with vinegar and boil 20 minutes. While cooling the mixture, mix one tablespoon of turmerie with a quarter of a pound of granulated sugar, and stir thoroughly into pickles. Bottle and seal.

Get the Habit of Drinking Hot Water Before Breakfast

Millions of folks bathe internally now instead of loading their system with drugs. "What's an inside bath?" you say. Well, it is guaranteed to perform miracles if you could believe these hot water enthusiasts.

There are vast numbers of men and women who, immediately upon arising in the morning, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This is a very excellent health measure. It is intended to flush the stomach, liver, kidneys and the thirty feet of intestines of the previous day's waste, sour bile and indigestible material left over in the body which if not eliminated every day, become food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels, the quick result is poisons and toxins which are then absorbed into the blood causing headache, bilious attacks, foul breath, bad taste, colds, stomach trouble, kidney misery, sleeplessness, impure blood and all sorts of ailments.

People who feel good one day and badly the next, but who simply can not get feeling right are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store. This will cost very little but is sufficient to make anyone a real crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

Just as soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and freshening, so limestone phosphate and hot water act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. It is vastly more important to bathe on the inside than on the outside, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do.

G. O. P. Regulars Still Hunting a Candidate

By MARK SHIELDS

Mr. Shields

Though three candidates have announced, Republican organization leaders in Western Pennsylvania still have not the slightest intimation that any one of them will be the choice of the state leadership in the gubernatorial primary.

Pittsburghers in close touch with Eastern Republicans indicate that there was a continuing effort to rally organization strength behind Judge Robert E. Lamberton of Philadelphia. He was one of six recommended by the Philadelphia Citizens' Committee Monday. If Judge Lamberton is supported endeavors will be made to picture him as an independent, the claim being made that he was elected to City Council and as Sheriff on independent tickets, and opposed to the Vare leadership.

Lieut. Gov. E. C. Shannon's announcement of candidacy has not so far enlisted the active support of any element of professional politics except as such politicians are found in soldier ranks. The Shannon entry was caused by the insistence of soldier leaders, including Col. Samuel D. Foster, Recorder of Deeds; Capt. Robert S. Cain, County Treasurer, and Col. Robert G. Woodside, County Controller.

They conferred with Gen. Shannon Monday night and told him he was jeopardizing his chances by delay. For weeks these leaders and others have been urging the General to announce, and a week ago were much depressed, feeling that he had permitted too much water to run under the bridge while other candidates leaped into the limelight.

* * *

Hope Shannon Boom Can Be Reinflated

Now they have hopes that sentiment for Gen. Shannon, buttressed by a general approval of his candidacy among soldiers, can be inflated.

The Lieutenant Governor's announcement has ended the possibility that State Chairman Edward Martin will become a candidate. The two army men are close friends, and had a virtual working agreement that if one ran the other would not, but would join in his support.

If Gen. Shannon should not become the organization candidate Gen. Martin would be in a peculiar position. As state chairman he would be expected to throw in his aid with the organization choice. As a brigadier in the guard, and on the score of long soldier friendship, he would be expected to back Gen. Shannon.

Former Senator Joseph R. Grundy might not be unfriendly to Gen. Shannon, though he would prefer Attorney General William A. Schnader, so long as State Treasurer Charles A. Waters is not to be a candidate.

Gov. Pinchot and Gen. Shannon also have gotten along well, despite mutual coolness when they took office. Indeed, some organization leaders have insisted that Gen. Shannon is too close to Pinchot to be acceptable to them.

Where the present situation places Senator David A. Reed is something of a conundrum. There was vigorous opposition to indorsement by the Citizens' Committee of his candidacy against Gov. Pinchot, and doubts of his popularity were expressed in language which should disturb the Senator's friends.

Moreover, listed among the stoutest supporters of Gen. Shannon are men who are skeptical about his chances in November, if nominated, should he be coupled on a ticket with Senator Reed.

* * *

Fear Reed as Drag in The November Election

Prominent in this list is Capt. Cain, who on past occasions has spoken in bitter criticism of Senator Reed. Col. Foster, while a regular in politics, has expressed himself as preferring Mr. Pinchot to Senator Reed, so far as either influences the Shannon candidacy. Neither of these gentlemen has any love for Governor Pinchot. Both have played politics with party groups that are affiliated with Senator Reed.

But their chief concern is the election of Gen. Shannon, and to that they subordinate every other consideration.

The belief is prevalent now that it will be April 2, the last day for the withdrawal of nominating petitions, before there is even a semblance of clarity as to the stand of the Republican organization on the governorship. It may be delayed even until the middle of next month, after the various candidates have had a couple of weeks on the stump.

Democrats opposed to the Guffey-Lawrence leadership last night gave a mild foretaste of what is to come in the Democratic primary at an organization meeting of the Allegheny County Democratic Club. There were some sharp barbs directed at Mr. Guffey from various speakers.

Attacks were made on the procedure followed by the state committee which indorsed a slate at the direction of Mr. Guffey, and election of committeemen of "independent thought" was urged. This wing of the party intends to back a candidate for county chairman against David L. Lawrence.

John B. Sweeney, of McKeesport, is president; Maj. E. Lowrey Humes and C. G. Llewellyn are active forces, and John W. Patterson, brother of Judge Frank P. Patterson, is a director. Patterson supported Mayor William N. McNair in the last municipal election.

Clash On Extending Contract; Traction Board Facts Wanted

The Traction Conference Board, much in the limelight in Mayor McNair's recent political maneuvers, has been called by Council to aid in deciding whether a two-year extension of the Pittsburgh Railways Company contract should be approved.

A conference was set for tomorrow, after a majority of Council members turned an unsympathetic ear to a resolution to approve the contract under four conditions proposed by Councilman Walter R. Demmler.

DEMMLER PLAN OUTLINED

Stating it would take nearly two years of study to intelligently pass on traction problems, Councilman William A. Magee led the opposittion to the resolution. Councilman John J. Kane was its chief defender.

Demmler had suggested having the Railways company pay $250,000 of its debt to the city outright and $25,000 in quarterly installments; the introduction of a three months' cancellation clause; 50-cent passes for school children during school hours, and co-operation in study of the traction situation.

Dominating Council table, Magee chided his fellow members for wasting time in getting to the traction problem. He stated it was too late now to do anything but approve the contract extension.

Kane said:

"The only danger I see in continuing the agreement is that at the end of a year and nine months we'll be right where we are today—with nothing done."

BOARD TO GIVE DATA

When Kane asked what was the matter with the cancellation condition, Magee said it was no use putting that in, as it would only disrupt the service to cancel the contract—and result in no good.

When Councilman John J. Gallagher asked how the city was going to get back the $988,000 owed it by the company, Magee stated the company hadn't been making any profits in the past two years and wouldn't in the next two.

He said the Traction Conference Board could furnish all the data needed for Council inquiry.

Councilmen Demmler and Gallagher took Kane's part; John M. Houston remained neutral, while the others inclined to Magee's line of argument.

M'NAIR FILES FOR GOVERNOR

Petitions to put the name of Mayor William N. McNair on the primary ballot as a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination were filed this morning in Harrisburg.

Mayor McNair said he had no intention of withdrawing, but intended to make no active campaign for the nomination. Petitions in his behalf were signed in Allegheny, Cameron, Adams, Clarion, Luzerne, Jefferson, Greene, Lancaster, Dauphin and Washington counties.

With the Mayor a candidate, four men, including George H. Earle, of Philadelphia; Judge Charles D. Copeland, of Westmoreland County, and Judge E. C. Bonniwell, of Philadelphia, will be seeking the Democratic nomination.

Showdown on Finley Slated in Council

Naming of Negro As Magistrate Also To Be Voted On

The feud between Mayor McNair and a group of the Democratic organization is becoming more bitter as the Mayor continues his effort to shift Director Ralph E. Smith from the Safety Department to the chairmanship of the Traction Conference Board.

Smith has friends among the Democratic regulars and they are coming to his assistance.

CLASH SEEN MONDAY

City Council has decided to have a showdown Monday on the removal of Charles A. Finley to open up a $12,000 position for Smith on the traction board.

Council will vote at that time on the Mayor's selection for police magistrate for the Hill district, Charles E. Jackson, Negro, of 5630 Howard street. Tomorrow afternoon Council will hear the Assistant District Attorney who prosecuted Jackson in an embezzlement case, describe the evidence that resulted in a conviction and a suspended sentence in Criminal Court.

The Mayor says he is attempting to protect Smith from a reported movement in Council to impeach the Safety Director on the ground of mismanagement of his office. He has hinted that if the Jackson appointment is not confirmed, that position may be open to Smith.

NEW NAME ENTERED

A new name has been brought into the Traction Board picture by the Mayor. He said:

"Percy Williams has asked me to send his name in for the Traction Conference Board. You see, when a man already has a job, it's not such a big letdown if he doesn't get another."

Williams is chief city assessor and was for a time secretary to the Mayor.

The motion in Finance Committee to send the Finley removal back to Council for action was made by William A. Magee, who said dryly:

"I'd like to see it expunged from the record."

Councilman John J. Kane also opposed the Finley ouster. He said:

"I think Smith will make a good safety director without interference from his bureau heads and the Mayor. He is not so well qualified for chairmanship of the traction board."

Council President Robert Garland opposed the removal of Finley.

Councilman Charles Anderson declared in favor of action on both the Finley and Jackon appointments rather than have them lie in Council. The Mayor has said he will await Council's decision.

New York Paupers Can Still Carry $3,000 in Jeans

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

In this town they rob you in the poorhouse.

That's certainly scalloping the edges on graft. The boys cilpped an old pauper for three thousand berries. In return they gave him a sled for Christmas.

Our statue of civic virtue represents a fat thug stepping on a woman's face. The only criticism we have to make is that he ought to be wearing spiked shoes.

What was a pauper doing with three thousand dollars? Well, when you go to the New York poorhouse you are still in the high rent district.

BOY, 4, FOUND ON VOTE LIST

A 4-year-old boy, a woman dead three years, and a family that moved to Boston, Mass., were on the registration books of Leet Township for 1933, Leo A. Riordan, chief county investigator, charged today.

These and other irregularities on the township books, Riordan said, were the result of an investigation conducted into the township's assessment by investigators from the county office.

Listed among the errors found by Riordan's men were the following:

Still on the books were the names of a well-known family which moved away a year ago and now lives in Edgeworth; one man who moved away two years ago; three women who married aliens; a woman who moved to Pittsburgh six months before registration day; three persons with first naturalization papers only, and five without any naturalization papers.

One man, without naturalization papers, had been voting for 20 years, Riordan declared.

M'NAIR PUSHES JURY BATTLE

Mayor McNair and nine other attorneys today sent a petition to the Allegheny County Bar Association requesting a special meeting next Wednesday to discuss abolition of the grand jury system.

Mayor McNair struck out as champion of the anti-grand jury system last week after he had been summoned before the grand jury here in connection with the investigation of a robbery case. He is to speak on the anti-grand jury movement today before the Business Men's Club of Beaver Falls in the Brodhead Hotel.

'Stickers' Stick Entrants In County Spelling Bee

First Person to Trip 'Falls' on Bicycle Early in Race

It took 896 words and two hours and a half to eliminate the 79 district winners at the finals of the county-wide spelling bee for adults last night at Schenley High School.

The first word to be misspelled was "bicycle," just 14 minutes after Theodore Siedle, professor of education at the University of Pittsburgh, started to pronounce.

The first several hundred words were familiar to the spellers; the next were difficult ones of ordinary use; the next group thinned the ranks and a final batch of rare words ended the match.

Some of the missed words were metaphor, archipelago, predecessor, heinous, garnishee, ellipsis, initiate, etymology, erysipelas, chyle, aqueous, dactylic, chyme, peaceable, resuscitate, mandible, osseous, lineament, vacillate, supersede, abacus, guimpe, soiree, hydrocephalus, grosgrain, renaissance and jardiniere.

Others were gauche, aileron, chalcedony, cinerarium, asphyxiation, sclerotic, synecdoche, onomatopoeia and cuneiform.

Among the last misspelled words were dengue, calligraphy, gneiss, bivouacked, desuetude, cochlea, iridaceous, loess, intumesce, entrepreneur, xanthous, solfeggio, mofette, protogynous, breccia, kieselguhr, exorcism, bigarreau and aneurysm.

Smith Fires Police Janitor in Mystery

Dismissal was made in a letter delivered last night by a police radio car to O'Brien's home, 108 Pius street. O'Brien said no reason for dismissal was given, and he planned an appeal to the Civil Service Commission. He has been with the department 10 years.

LAWYER SECOND AS 79 VIE FOR HONORS

Sun-Telegraph to Send Victors to State Championships

To Mrs. R. H. George, mother of four children, goes the honor and title of Allegheny County's Champion Speller.

Mrs. George, who lives on the Thompson Run road, Ross Township, won the old-fashioned spelling-bee, sponsored by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, last night at Schenley High School.

The crowd of 500 spectators gave her enthusiastic applause as she "spelled-down" the last of her 78 competitors and was proclaimed the winner. On receiving her championship crown, she declared:

"My, but I am surprised! I entered the contest just for the good time I thought I would have. I had no idea of winning."

Ted Epstein, 27, of Idlewild street, an attorney and WCAE radio announcer, won second place. He was the representative from Westinghouse High School. He was downed on the word "rhigolene."

Mrs. George and Epstein will be sent to Harrisburg for the state finals April 4. All expenses of the trip will be paid by the Sun-Telegraph.

Third prize of $25 went to Ross Pancoast, 25, of 801 South Millvale avenue, who represented Peabody High School. Pancoast is district representative for a commercial credit company. "Ptarmigan" was the word he misspelled.

Miss Gertrude Stacel, of Beaver street, Leetsdale, won fourth prize of $15, missing the word "psychopannychism." She is a clerk for a contracting corporation.

Overjoyed at winning fifth prize of $10, Miss Edna Walrath, of 2501 Mercantile street, McKeesport, said:

"I hope it helps me to get a job now as a stenographer—maybe some boss needs a fair speller."

Miss Walrath, who is a McKeesport High School graduate, went down on the word "omophagia."

Dr. C. E. Dickey, superintendent of county schools, presided. Certificates were awarded the five winners by C. W. Peters, assistant county superintendent.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 20.

To Editor Sun-Telegraph:

Will Rogers.

Just like to show you what our cousins are doing in the way of toting the mail: "London, March 16.—The British postoffice showed a profit at the end of this fiscal year, ending Feb. of seventy million dollars. Last year 57,000,000 postoffice profits are applied to to the reduction of taxes." We lost 150 million a year. Who's looney now? They also run the telephone and telegraph, so when you say "A government can't run a business," you mean our government can't run it. So don't forget to always put that word "our" in there. Jim, this is no reflection on you and your P. O. gang, it's on our lawmakers, who wont' charge for a letter, paper, or crate of eggs what it costs to carry it, be it by plane, boat, train or mule, and charge accordingly.

Yours, WILL.

NEW INVENTION AIMED TO BALK MILK BOTTLE THIEVES

Burglar-Proof Device Patented by Man In Glassport.

There will be no more milk bottle "snitching," if Allen F. Pforsich, Glassport Municipal Building custodian, can tell the world about his new invention.

The United States government has taken official note of the question—"How to keep milk bottles on the front porch?"—by issuing a patent to Pforsich.

His answer is an inexpensive and simple container to be built in the wall or window of a house, equipped with two doors.

Pforsich also explains his container will prevent the milk's freezing in the winter and protect it from the sun in the summer.

County Acts to Abolish Alley Polling Places

Objectionable polling places in alleys and garages will be removed, and, if necessary, vacant land rented and new polling places built by the county, County Commissioner C. C. McGovern ordered.

And hereafter, when redistricting of voting districts is to be done, Director John M. Henry's Department of Elections will do the work, and outside lawyers will no longer be given the $150 to $200 fee, which Henry yesterday declared was a "racket."

But the polling place removals, McGovern declared, must be done before the primaries. He said to Henry:

"We're going to take voting places out of alleys and garages where women do not want to vote.

"I don't want to hear of the desirable places. But in the bad spots, if you can't find a school or a desirable place, we'll rent a piece of land and build a new building on it."

In approving a reduction of a legal fee for a sub-division from $200 to $150, McGovern added:

"These hamburger lawyers can go out into the highways and by-ways and find some district that needs a polling place, get themselves approved for a high fee. We have an expensive election bureau. Why don't we find these and do it ourselves?"

Henry asserted:

"I agree with you. It's a racket."

Henry asked authority to ask the court for the reduction in the fee, and it was granted.

AUTHOR TO ASK AID IN FIGHT ON LEAGUE

The rallying call for active opposition to participation, by this country in the League of Nations or its World Court will be carried to thousands of patriotic Americans by radio this afternoon by Dr. Louis Joffe, world traveler, author and lecturer.

Dr. Joffe's reasons why the United States should remain aloof from European entanglements will be given over station WCAE at 5:20 p. m. as one of the features of the nation-wide campaign of the Pittsburfh Sun-Telegraph and the associated Hearst newspapers.

Hundreds of names were added to the petition being prepared by this newspaper for presentation soon to members of Congress opposing a movement reported on foot to force entry by this government into the League of Nations.

PETITIONS FILED

Three separate petitions, one containing 102 names, were received today from Latrobe; two large petitions were sent in by protestants of Freedom and one each from California, Wilmerding, Beaver Falls, New Kensington and Canonsburg. These supplement hundreds of petitions sent in by individuals. Another came from the Loyal Women's Class of the Knoxville Christian Church.

Indorsing the campaign of the Hearst newspapers, E. S. Wycoff of Beaver wrote:

> "I don't see why anyone that loves their country should want us to meddle in European affairs when it has cost us billions and we have got nothing but grief and hatred in return."

'HAPPY' TO AID

Mrs. George Lzecskay of Johnston avenue, sending in a petition wrote:

> "I happily enclose one of the petitions against participation in the League of Nations and World Court, bearing 10 names.
>
> 'This was one time I had no difficulty in getting every member of my family to harmoniously agree in one certain matter."

A copy of the petition is published in this edition. Blank petitions are available at the office of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Telegraph Square; the downtown branch office at Fifth avenue and Market street, or they may be obtained by writing or telephoning the League Court Editor, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Get blank petitions at once. Sign them. Ask you neighbors, friends and associates to sign them and see that they are forwarded at once to the League Court Editor.

LAKES TO GULF ROUTE OPENING

CHICAGO, March 21.—(AP.)—The lakes to gulf waterway, connecting Chicago and New Orleans, will be open to navigation Friday.

The northern stretch of the waterway, between Peoria and Chicago will be opened that day. The southern link from New Orleans to Peoria has been open since March 1.

However, a bridge at Morris, Ill., its presence assured by an order of the war department until August, at least, will prevent large tows from using the waterway.

A new bridge is being constructed at that point, and petitions were filed in local courts for an injunction restraining destruction of the old bridge until completion of a new one.

VILLAGE FREE OF TAXES

Free of municipal taxes since 1931, the village has, in fact, $98,288 on hand in cash and owns $48,000 of its own bonds, its total outstanding indebtedness, according to the treasurer's report.

Largely responsible for the showing is the municipal electric light bureau which last year, its thirty-fourth year of operation, increased net earnings and began 1934 with $49,321 in cash on hand in addition to having a plant, debt free, inventories at $109,237.12.

STOP THAT COLD THE FIRST DAY!

A cold once rooted is a cold of danger! Trust to no makeshift methods. A cold, being an internal infection, calls for internal treatment. A cold also calls for a COLD remedy and not a preparation good for a number of other things as well.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is what a cold requires. It is expressly a cold remedy. It is internal and direct and it does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels, combats the cold germs and fever in the system, relieves the headache and grippy feeling and tones and fortifies the entire system. Anything less than that is inviting trouble. Get Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine at any druggist, 30c and 50c. Ask for it by the full name and accept no substitute on any pretext.

PETITION AGAINST PARTICIPATION In the LEAGUE of NATIONS and World Court

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE UNITED STATES SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES:

We protest AGAINST the United States participating in the League of Nations or in the World Court of the League of Nations, with or without "reservations."

We petition our Federal Government to keep our United States "free from foreign entanglements," as the Father of Our Country wisely enjoined.

We urge our Congress at Washington to keep our government from meddling in foreign affairs, and to keep foreign nations from meddling in our American affairs.

As loyal American citizens, we ask our loyal representatives to keep our country out of foreign conflicts and complications and to keep foreign conflicts and complications out of our country.

"I KNEW WHICH LOW-PRICED CAR TO BUY—I helped build ALL THREE!"

READ THIS CERTIFIED INTERVIEW WITH B. V. FRIEDMAN OF DETROIT, MICHIGAN

"Let the other fellow drive without Hydraulic Brakes and a Safety-Steel Body"

WE HEARD that Mr. Friedman practically lived in his car . . . driving sometimes 12 hours at a stretch . . . averaging 150 miles a day in his business. We went out to see him.

We asked if he "looked at All Three" before buying Plymouth.

"Looked at them? . . . Mister, I've helped build All Three! I know them inside out. And just to make sure, I drove each one 100 miles."

This owner says he demands two things above all others in a car. He wants comfort and he wants a car that's safe!

Naturally Plymouth's Floating Power engine mountings and Individual Wheel Springing appealed to him. No more engine vibration . . . and no more bumpy rides to tire him out or to injure the delicate radio apparatus he carries in his car.

And, of course, anybody who knows cars as he does is sold on Hydraulic Brakes and Safety-Steel Bodies. "I'll let the other fellow drive without them," he says, "but I'm not taking chances . . . I want the safest car I can get."

There's not much we can add to Mr. Friedman's convincing story. But we urge you to do this—"Look at All Three before you buy." This year there's a surprising difference in low-priced cars. And you don't need to be an expert mechanic to see the difference!

Any Dodge, De Soto or Chrysler dealer will be glad to demonstrate Plymouth—any day.

1. "I was born in the 'Motor City.' Detroit's my home town, and I've worked in the shops of 'All Three.' You bet I know the low-priced cars inside out!"

2. "But just to make sure—I drove 'All Three' of the low-priced cars 100 miles each over the toughest roads I could find. Believe me, Plymouth has 'em all beat on performance. And I'm sold on Plymouth's Hydraulic Brakes and Safety-Steel Body, too!"

3. "I operate Broadcasting Cars. And Floating Power engine mountings cut out vibration that would ruin our delicate radio equipment. A vibrationless car also means a lot in comfort to a man who's in a car as much as I am."

4. PICTURED ABOVE is the De Luxe Plymouth 4-door Sedan. Plymouth prices begin at $495 f. o. b. factory, Detroit, Michigan, and are subject to change without notice. For the smallest extra charge in the industry (only $10 extra on De Luxe Sedan) you can get improved Duplate Safety Plate Glass throughout your car.

M'NAIR FREES 8 'DRUNKS'

To Robert Boyd, 23, no home, he said:

> "You'd better get off the booze and see the minister of the German Lutheran Church here in East End."

His suggestion to John Vogel, 48, no home, was to get permission from the city to cultivate a garden plot.

Vogel said:

> "I have no seeds."

The Mayor replied:

> "That's all right. We get the seeds from Pinchot. He has a lot of seeds."

The Mayor dropped into the station to get someone to take him to his office in an automobile and presided at the hearing for Magistrate Charles F. Papale.

LABOR TROUBLE FEARS HIT STOCKS

NEW YORK, March 21.—Labor trouble fears dominated the financial markets today and most speculative categories exhibited a heavy tone.

Presidential intervention in the motor and rail situations brought hopes of an early adjustment of existing differences, but traders generally showed an inclination to step out of the picture until further reassurances are received from Washington.

Brokerage opinion was rather bearish as the Chief Executive prepared to confer with the automobile manufacturers this afternoon and with union leaders tomorrow. Whether a compromise can be arranged was a question widely debated.

Stocks failed to follow through on their yesterday's rally and losses of 1 to around 3 points were suffered by leading issues. The activity expanded moderately on the decline. Intermittent rallies failed to get far.

Commodities, including grains, cotton, rubber and silver, eased. Bonds were hesitant. International dollar rates recorded insignificant changes.

Shares of Homestake Mining on the first sale in several days, yielded some 20 points. United States Smelting was off more than 3 and others down 1 to more than 2 included General Motors, Chrysler, du Pont, American Smelting, Allied Chemical, American Telephone, United States Steel, American Can, Case, Bethlehem Steel, Liggett & Myers B, American Tobacco B, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Western Union, Santa Fe, Union Pacific and New York Central. The oils, alcohols, aircrafts and utilities were fractionally lower.

Mixed sentiment in Wall street over the revised stock exchange control bill was reflected in a sharp drop in the price of exchange memberships. The announcement was made that two seats had been sold, one for $110,000 and the other for $105,000. The last previous sale was on February 3, at a price of $190,000.

Although the financial district, as a whole, saw little good in the revamped control measure, in some quarters it was thought that, with a few more changes, it might be made workable. Most brokers, however, were in accord with the statement made by Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock Exchange, that "this bill is destructive and not constructive."

Commission houses reported that, in addition to worries threatened over strikes, traders were concerned about potential difficulties in the steel industry which might result from charges of the Federal Reserve Commission that its orders on price-fixing had been violated.

Estimates of freight car loadings for the past week, based on the reports of some 20 leading carriers, indicated a gain of about 20,000. The seasonal increase would be in the neighborhood of 5,000. An aggregate of around 600,000 loadings would mean an advance over the same week last year of nearly 40 per cent.

Although the January earnings of the railroads, estimated on the reports of more than 60 companies, were the best since 1931, it was believed in some banking circles that they would fail to cover the fixed charges by approximately $12,000,000.

COTTON PRICES IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, March 21.—Cotton futures opened irregular, unchanged to 7 points higher, with steadier Liverpool cables offet by liquidation. March, 12.05c; May, 12.12c; July, 12.22c; October, 12.38c; December, 12.43c; January, 12.46c.

Near months were steadier on a fair trade demand while Liverpool bought the distant positions. Contracts eased from 12.12 to 12.04 and October from 12.38 to 12.27 with the general list 2 to 6 points net lower at the end of the first half hour.

LIVERPOOL, March 21.—Cotton—Receipts, 25,000 bales, including 15,600 American. Spot in limited demand; prices 6 points higher. Quotations in pence: American strict good middling, 7.14; good middling, 6.84; strict middling, 6.69; middling, 6.54; strict low middling, 6.39; low middling, 6.14; strict good ordinary, 5.94; good ordinary, 5.64. Traders Encouraged by Market's Firmness at Levels Above Previous Low Points

Among those who give considerable weight to technical factors in mapping the course of their market operations, the feeling is that the action of the market is quite encouraging. They point out that stocks have encountered resistance on each subsequent decline since last October at prices slightly higher than on the preceding recession. On the current setback, for instance, industrials have met support at 98.99 compared with the January low of 96.48, December low of 93.70, the November low of 86.83 and the October bottom of 82.20. Rails likewise have developed resistance this time around 46.9 against 39.7 on the January dip, 37.9 in December, 35.27 in November and 34.0 in October.

Taking a list of 18 representative stocks, it is found that 11 such issues have developed resistance at a higher price level on each successive decline and that four others failed by only nominal margin to qualify in the same category. This action, allowing for the type of stocks included, is accepted as evidence of the good quality of demand for equities around prevailing lows.

Steel ingot production for the week ended March 19 is placed at a shade over 48 per cent of capacity, in the compilation by Dow, Jones & Co., Inc. This is unchanged from the previous week and compares with 47 per cent two weeks ago. United States Steel is estimated at about 42 per cent as against a little under 41 per cent in the week before and 41 per cent two weeks ago. Independents are credited with a rate of 52 per cent compared to 53 per cent in the preceding week and 51 per cent two weeks ago.

The bottom fell out of the market for stock and curb exchange memberships today as the result of the battle over federal regulation and the unabated Wall street opposition to the revised Fletcher-Rayburn bill.

Two big board seats were sold, one for $110,000 and one for $105,000, representing a maximum break of $85,000 from the last sale of $190,000 on February 1. The next best bid for seats, it was learned in informed quarters, was $83,000, which was under last year's low of $90,000. The bottom price in recent years was $68,000 in 1932. Curb memberships lost nearly half their value. A seat was sold for $22,500, down $17,500 from the last transaction.

Wall street was hopeful that President Roosevelt would be able to bring capital and labor in the motor industry to an understanding of their differences. But traders were in a cautious mood. Motor executives, who left last night for Washington, took some of their legal talent along. It was pointed out that interesting legal interpretations of parts of the recovery act might result.

The drop of 25 cents in steel scrap here is a sign that steel mills are growing cautious about taking on additional supplies. This can be due only to the automotive strike threats, for normally at this time of year and with current good business prospects before them, the steel mills could be counted upon to bid actively for scrap supplies. While scrap is regarded as a business barometer by some, in this particular instance the decline may not be important nor lasting. Any lift in the heavy clouds overhanging Detroit would undoubtedly bring a quick reversal in scrap.

Exchange Seats Take Sharp Drop

NEW YORK, March 21.—Arrangements have been made for the sale of stock exchange seats at $110,000 and $105,000 respectively. The last previous transaction was at $190,000.

A seat on the New York Curb Exchange sold at $22,500, a drop of $17,500 from the previous transaction.

WEATHER AIDS BUILDING

Although important construction projects are of limited number, there has been a moderate improvement in demand for building supplies, according to trade sources. This has been attributed to a pickup in the construction field incident to more favorable weather.

LOCAL MARKET SOFT, GLASS REACTS

Prices backed down moderately on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today as traders continued to stand aside in the face of threatened labor disturbances and offerings were taken on a scale down. Nervousness was evident on the "big board" following yesterday's vigorous rally on the President's intervention in the strike situation. Volume of trading held to about the rate of the past two sessions, and recessions were credited to absence of buying interest rather than to pressure for sale.

Possibility of suspension in the automotive industry was given as the reason for a sharp drop in Pittsburgh Plate Glass, which opened more than two points under its last previous sale, recorded on Monday. The company has been operating its automobile safety glass department almost at capacity recently. The heavy industrial and machinery shares were dull and hesitant, but there were no conspicuous movements in that section. Fuels remained quiet.

PAYROLL INDEX SHOWS GAIN

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP.)—An increase of 6.1 per cent in factory employment during the month ended February 15, and a payroll increase of 12.6 per cent, were reported by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Secretary Perkins said approximately 373,000 workers were added to the payrolls of factories during the period, but the total gain in employment was only 345,000. This was due primarily to declines in private building caused, the secretary said, by bad weather. There were small declines in retail trade and a number of other groups.

The greatest gain was in the automobile industry, where 70,000 workers were reported added to payrolls.

The department's index for all employment during the period was 73.5 per cent of the 1926 average as compared with 69.3 in January.

The secretary reported agricultural implement manufacturing showed a gain of 14.9 per cent and that in the machine tool industry there was a 15 per cent rise.

Automobile Sales Gain in February

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP.)—February factory sales of automobiles manufacturered in the United States were shown by the census bureau today to have totaled 235,376 vehicles, compared with 161,086 in January, 106,888 in February, 1933, and 117,418 in February, 1932.

Of the February total, 190,253 were passenger cars, 45,096 trucks, and 27 taxicabs.

Auto Heads Fear Long Strike

By B. C. FORBES

A LEADING motor manufacturer declared to me:

"If the men go out, I wouldn't be surprised if the strike lasted three months or more."

Mr. Forbes

"We are determined to make a stand against every factory and other establishment in America being made a 'closed shop.' If we were to bow to the American Federation of Labor, every other industry in the land doubtless would have to knuckle under to it.

"We do not feel that we are fighting the automotive industry's battle only. We are fighting the battle of other industries which have not yet been brought under the dictation of the American Federation.

"We are fighting, too, something even more important. We are fighting for liberty for American wage-eearners—in addition to liberty for ourselves.

"We are entitled to the support of the leaders in other basic industries whose workers have never chosen to enroll under the American Federation leadership and to pay dues to American Federation unions or officials."

He added:

"If we should by any chance find ourselves compelled or coerced into giving in, and then find ourselves forced to pay higher wages for shorter hours, what would we do? There is only one thing we could do; we would simply have to raise prices for our cars. We believe that the motor industry is already paying higher rates of wages than are received by the mapority of people who buy cars, including farmers.

"If public opinion, or Washington, or the American Federation compel us to increase our costs, then the bill will have to be footed by all buyers of cars and trucks."

A three months' nation-wide strike throughout the entire automotive industry!

That isn't pleasant to contemplate.

WHAT WOULD be some of the more immediate consequences?

The steel industry would at once have to reduce seriously its total wage distribution.

The tire industry would be badly hurt since the production of tires to equip new cars and trucks would cease.

Every state in the Union and almost every line of business would be more or less affected by the stoppage of demand for all the raw materials and parts entering into motor vehicles—from cotton to glass and hundreds of things in bettween.

The oil industry would in time feel the effects.

So would the revenues derived by all the states from new-car registration fees and licenses.

The decrease in employment caused among scores of industries would gravely diminish purchasing power, thus injuring retailers of every description as well as doctors, dentists, etc., because of the inability of many people to pay bills.

Advertising would be suspended.

Many thousands of dealers and salesmen would be well-nigh ruined.

Federal revenues would shrink through diminution of income and corporation tax payments.

A THREE months' automotive strige might entail still more serious influences and results.

It might transform the hopefulness and confidence already inspired under the Roosevelt regime into apprehension, might incite grave disturbances, might wreck recovery and culminate in—who knows what?

LABOR LEADERS doubtless regard it as their duty to go to the very limit in seizing the new power, the new advantages, the new privileges conferred by recent legislation and decrees.

How automotive executives interpret their responsibility has already been outlined.

WOE TO any faction, either in labor or in industry, which may be adjudged guilty by the public of endangering the processes of recovery now making gratifying progress.

(Copyright, 1934, B. C. Forbes.)

SECURITIES ACT CHANGE SEEN

WASHINGTON, March 21.—A limited revision of the securities act of 1933, particularly as regards the liability clause, would be acceptable to some administration officials, according to word reaching Senatorial circles.

No final decision has yet been reached as to the exact scope of the changes, but it is understood there will be no attempt whatever to alter any of the fundamental policies laid down in the present act.

Alterations thus far contemplated have revolved around the present unlimited liability clause with a view to exempting some company officials who are now held liable for the acts of others over whom they exercise slight if any control.

REAL ESTATE TAX RELIEF SOUGHT

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, March 21.—Throughout the country it has become essential to devise ways and means of relieving real estate of an excessive tax burden.

Mr. Rukeyser

Aside from the obvious remedy of eliminating economic waste and thus reducing municipal expenditures, there remains the broader problem of redistributing more equitably the cost of conducting modern cities. The quest has led to the adoption or at least the consideration of other onerous taxes.

As an alternative, there is increased interest in raising public revenues by charging fees for the rendering of specific services to individuals. This device has been proposed in a recent report of the Bureau of Municipal Research in Los Angeles. Dr. Richard T. Ely, veteran economist and head of the Institute for Economic Research, told me that he thinks the levying of fees offers a sensible way out, though he thinks that fees should be merely supplemental to reduced fees on real estate. As an expert on land economics, Dr. Ely is convinced that existing taxes on real estate in the cities are destructive in amount.

As an illustration of fees, Dr. Ely referred to the precedent set by the state-owned University of Wisconsin, which transformed nominal fees from students outside the state into substantial fees, bringing several hundred thousand dollars each year into the state treasury.

The proposal to re-examine the possibilities of extending fees is suggestive, and should be closely studied by municipal fiscal officers.

STEEL OUTPUT UNCHANGED

NEW YORK, March 21.—Iron Age says:

"The labor crisis in the automobile industry finds steel production undiminished. While new business from the motor car builders has dropped materially, shipments against past commitments have held up surprisingly well. Whatever recession in demand is traceable to the difficulties confronting the automotive trade has been offset by heavier orders from the railroads and other sources.

"Failure of presidential intervention to avert a clash between organized labor and the automobile industry might be followed by rather general suspension of steel shipments to motor car makers, with resumption depending on severity and duration of the strike. The plan of attack of the American Federation of Labor is to order strikes only in plants where it believes it has a majority of the employes within its ranks. But there is little doubt that if the strike should gather momentum it would spread to other plants with the possible exception of the Ford Motor Company and might finally extend to other industries, including steel.

"Meanwhile, steel production is unchanged from a week ago at 48½ per cent of capacity. The Chicago rate is off two points to 47 per cent of capacity, but operations at Pittsburgh and in the Philadelphia district have risen one point each to 32 and 34 per cent respectively.

Retired Navy Man Dies in California

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 21.—(AP.)—Lieut. Com. Charles Clark Ammerman, (M. C.) United States Navy, retired, Elmira, N. Y., died here yesterday after a brief illness. He and Mrs. Ammerman were visiting their daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Pace.

After 21 years in the service, Ammerman retired in November, 1932. He was 65 years old.

Associated Gas Stock Profits Revealed

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Profits of $19,000,000, growing out of security deals in the Associated Gas and Electric system, went to companies personally owned by the heads of that system, H. C. Hopson and J. I. Mange, according to evidence before the Federal Trade Commission.

The profits were made on sales of securities to associated subsidiaries, Examiner Charles Nodder testified under examination by Chief Counsel Robert E. Healy. They were "to a certain extent, rescinded," in several instances, last year, after Nodder's investigation began.

Associated poured $176,000,000 into the purchase of its own stock, through a subsidiary, in the four years before the market crash. Its purchase accounted for nearly 70 per cent of all trading in Associated "A" on the New York Curb.

While these purchases were being made the price was moving up. From 20½ in January, 1925, it climbed to a 1929 peak of 72⅝. Associated's increasing purchases amounted in 1929 alone to $152,000,000. The stock sells now around $1.50 a share.

Stock bought by Associated was resold to permanent investors, a premium being paid to dealers where the investors agreed to hold it at least four months. The investor army has grown to 254,000.

In the biggest personal company deal, a profit of $12,500,000 was recorded, according to Nodder, through purchase of nearly 500,000 shares of "A" stock in 1929 around $50 a share. The personal company "turned right around and sold these shares to General Gas and Electric Corporation at 66."

General Gas was an Associated subsidiary, as was the corporation from which the stock was purchased by the personal company.

Profits were invested in Associated securities. In their rescinding, these securities were handed back to Associated at no cost. They had depreciated so much meanwhile that their market value was only a small proportion of the original profit, Nodder reported.

Associated, in a press statement by W. A. Hill, declared "no cash has been withdrawn from the system by means of these transactions."

"Apparent paper profits have been completely foregone, and in several instances corporate stockholders have voluntarily assumed large losses, to the distinct financial benefit of Associated Gas and Electric Company.

AMERICA SEEKS CHINA'S VIEWS ON SILVER

By LEWIS HANEY

Professor of Economics, N. Y. University.

NEW YORK, March 21.—The silver question is up again. The House, by a large majority, has passed a bill to accept silver at 25 per cent above its true value in payment for exports of our farm products. A bill for the government purchase of a billion-and-a-half ounces of silver has been under active consideration.

And to cap the climax, Prof. Rogers is to take a jaunt to China to find out what the Chinese think about silver.

With the exception of Prof. Rogers' jaunt, which seems to be a new deal experiment, all this is old as the hills. Always in prolonged depressions there comes the demand for "more money," and always the advocates of silver arise and urge government silver purchases, bi-metallism, etc.

In 1878 the Bland Alison Act brought government purchases of several million dollars' worth a month, until $378,000,000 had been coined. Then, in 1890, purchases were speeded up, the celebrated "Sherman Notes" being issued in payment.

Despite this, silver kept declining in price, and the government's purchases nearly brought the treasury to bankruptcy, so that during the panic of 1893 the buying was stopped. The "free silver coinage" agitation continued, but was finally killed with the defeat of Bryan in 1896.

Then again, under the Pittman Act of 1918, the treasury bought silver at $1 an ounce when it was worth under 70 cents (1920-23).

Always the arguments are the same. It is said:

"We need more money. It will inflate prices, and thus help farm debtors. It will stimulate trade with China."

As to China, I don't need to go to Shanghai to find out the facts. They are plain and known to all economists. China exports more merchandise than she imports, therefore, although a silver-using country, she pays for our small exports to her in the foreign exchange which she gets for her own exports. She does not pay out silver. She actually imports silver!

Actually, the lower the price of silver is, the greater the advantage in trade China has. To raise the price of silver in China would lower commodity prices there and cause "deflation."

As to our needing more money it is clearly not true. You and I, as individuals, may be hard pressed for funds, but the Nation has more money than ever. We even have more gold than we know what to do with. When was there ever so much money in the country, or so much unused credit, or such low money rates?

Leaving the silver mint interests and speculators out of consideration, what the sincere silver advocates want really is monetary inflation. They want the government to buy silver at $1 and to make two dollars out of that amount. They want soaring prices, which necessarily means unstable prices.

It can be stated bluntly that all history and economic law show that bi-metalism is a practical impossibility. Bi-metalism (trying to use two metals jointly as a single standard) is utterly impracticable.

The plain fact is that silver is not a good standard of value. The supply is enormous, and subject to such wide fluctuations in value as to make its use sure to cause very unstable and fluctuating price levels. It is so bulky as to be an undesirable means of settling balances.

I can honestly say that I find not a single sound argument for government purchases of silver. Even the silver-producing business is so small as to make it unimportant. As to selling our goods for silver at 25 per cent above its value, why not cut our prices directly and "dump" our products without further disrupting our monetary stability?

OIL ALLOWABLE INCREASED

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP.)—Secretary Ickes today set the national allowable crude oil production for April and May at 2,366,200 barrels daily, an increase of 83,400 barrels over the March allowable of 2,282,200.

The allowable will become effective April 1.

The increase was authorized to meet the usual increased spring demand.

Each of the 18 oil production states was allowed a larger production, the largest increase—32,800 barrels—going to Texas, the heaviest producing area.

The second largest went to Oklahoma, given an increase of 20,000.

O'Connor to Speak Before Bond Club

So much interest has been shown in what Hon. J. F. T. O'Connor, comptroller of the currency, and Dr. William D. Gordon, secretary of banking for the State of Pennsylvania, will say in their speeches on the national and state banking situation, that 600 reservations have been made for the banquet of the Bond Club of Pittsburgh at the William Penn Hotel tomorrow night.

Capt. "Al" Williams, celebrated American flying ace, and now manager of the aviation department of the Gulf Refining Company, will speak on the present trends in aviation.

Dr. John G. Bowman, chancellor of the University of Pittsburgh, will be the toastmaster, and Leo C. Griffith, president of the Bond Club, will deliver the address of welcome.

Weirton Case to Test NRA Legality

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

Business Editor.

THE ACTION of the Federal government in requesting an injunction to restrain the Weirton Steel Company, subsidiary of the National Steel Corporation, from violating the collective bargaining section of the National Industrial Recovery Act represents the first attempt to test the law in the courts.

Up to the present time the administration has shied away from any court tests of the NRA program. The general impression has been that the outcome of such a case in the courts would be doubtful. It has been thought that the government was unwilling to prejudice its entire recovery campaign by taking a chance that a portion of the law might be declared unconstitutional.

At present, however, the recovery program is well enough under way so that an adverse court decision would not be as serious as it might have been six months ago. A considerable period of time probably will be required to bring the case through the Supreme Court, and NRA probably will have accomplished its major purpose by the time a final decision is handed down.

* * *

Case May Clear Up Many Disputes

THE WEIRTON STEEL case also may clear up many of the uncertainties surrounding the much disputed Section 7A of the National Industrial Recovery Act.

Doubt about the interpretation of this section has been responsible for most of the labor trouble which has been impeding recovery progress. It is difficult to see how the fight over company unions can be satisfactorily settled unless the courts are permitted to clarify the meaning of the law.

If the NRA or some similar program is to become a permanent part of our economic system, the constitutional rights of employers and employes will have to be established with at least some degree of clarity. If this is not done, our future industrial history will be marked by continuous repetitions of strikes such as the ones now upsetting business.

* * *

Automobile Strike May Have Been Influence

THE FACT THAT the case was brought against Weirton just at this time when labor troubles in the automobile industry are at a difficult stage may be significant.

The administration may be using the case against the Weirton Steel Company in order to increase the strength of its position in dealing with the automobile companies. It is quite likely that the suit was brought against Weirton in order to make the automobile people understand that the administration would not hesitate to use severe disciplinary measures when necessary.

PIRATES SEEK SECOND WIN IN ROW OVER BRUINS

JAMES J. LONG'S SPORTS COMMENT

Imagination Tricks Ruth. Fooled by Unchanged Ball. Newkirk Impresses Yanks. ◆ New York Corners Flags. Walker Cup Loss Seen. Grid Charges Resented.

George Gibson's contention that the effect of the National League's new ball on hitters and pitchers this year will be largely psychological, that if the sphere had been changed without public notification the players would not have detected any difference, is borne out from a reverse angle by a report from the Yankee training camp in St. Petersburg. It says Babe Ruth strongly approves the "new" ball. After finishing his final turn in batting practice, Ruth blurted out: "Boy, when you hit that new ball we're going to play with this year, it sure does take a ride. I've just been hitting it high and far, like no other ball I ever swung at in my life. You certainly can send it on a long journey."

Babe Ruth

The Babe's remarks tend to show that, as Gibson argues, it's all in what a player imagines or believes. The kick in the Ruth yarn is that there is no change at all in the American League ball, except that the stitching is wholly red instead of the former red and blue. The only shift is in the National League, which has adopted the American's livelier pellet for the sake of uniformity. The ball that Ruth pronounced the liveliest he ever had swung against was exactly the same as the one he batted against last year. The Babe had heard about a livelier ball in the National this year and concluded that the change applied also to the American. And because he merely THOUGHT the ball was livlier, he imagined he was hitting it farther.

ANOTHER THREE-FINGER SLAB STAR LOOMS

There is a growing belief in the Yankee camp that there was a great deal more than a run of good fortune in the fine pitching record Floyd (Blondy) Newkirk made for St. Paul last year in spite of having only three fingers on his hurling hand. Getting a real chance in the majors after being shunted around the Yankees' chain-store system for four seasons, Newkirk is making an impressive showing, and Joe McCarthy's players are beginning to place some credence in the reports of the last year or two that the blond slabman may turn out to be another Three-Finger Brown.

Paul Krichell, the scout who found Newkirk at Illinois College in 1930, and who is helping to coach him in the Yank camp, declares there's no kidding about that Second Brown stuff. He insists that Newkirk will be not only a great fastball pitcher, but that his mangled hand enables him to make the ball do a lot of tricks beyond the powers of the average flinger. Newkirk pitches with two good fingers and a thumb. He has no little finger on his pitching hand and only the stump of the third finger, the result of an accident while working in a Gary steel mill in 1925 at the age of 16.

NEW YORK CLUBS LONG DOMINATE GAME

With Bill Terry all set to make a try for a pennant repeater with his Giants in the National League this year, and the Yankees rated as certain contenders in the American, attention is drawn to the fact that baseball has been dominated by New York clubs since 1920. Counting Brooklyn's pennant victory of that year, some part of the World Series has gone to the metropolis in 10 of the last 14 seasons.

Bill Terry

After the Dodgers' first-place finish in the National, the Giants and Yankees proceeded to hog the pennant glory and the World Series for three years in a row, 1921-22-23. The Yanks slipped in 1924, but the Giants went on to a fourth-straight flag. The Pirates and Senators took away the show in 1925, but in 1926 the Yanks started another three-year run of flag success. Following a break in 1929-30-31, the Yanks won both a pennant and the Derby in 1932, and last year the Giants grabbed the double honors. In the last 14 campaigns the Dodgers won one pennant, the Yankees seven pennants and four World Series, and the Giants five pennants and three World Series.

SARAZEN PREDICTS LOSS OF WALKER CUP

Though admitting that few will agree with him, Gene Sarazen thinks the United States will lose the Walker Cup, emblematic of international amateur team golf supremacy, to Great Britain this year. He points out that the American team will not be nearly so strong as it was in 1930, the last time a Walker Cup team was sent across the Atlantic. Bobby Jones was at the peak of his game that year, and the team included also Francis Ouimet, George Von Elm, Don Moe, George Voigt, Dr. Willing and others who were at their best. But on the 1934 team, only Ouimet will remain of the all-star group that played over the Royal St. George's course in 1930.

And what Sarazen views as more important is that the matches will be played over the old course at St. Andrews, and there is no golf course in the world that is more difficult. Gene says it will stop the best of golfers until they become accustomed to the course and the changing winds that sweep off the North Sea. Sarazen himself expects to have another try at the British Open this year. Densmore Shute, who won the crown in 1933, does not plan to defend it, but Gene says he would like just one more shot at the title and hopes to keep it in this country. Sarazen won the British Open in 1932 and the United States Open the same year, setting a new low medal score in taking the two championships.

HARVARD'S SIGNING OF WALSH DEFENDED

Insinuations by certain cynics that in signing Adam Walsh as line coach after he was released by Yale, Harvard aimed to get inside information on Eli plays and personnel, have brought indignant denials from the leading football men in touch with the Eastern situation. They recall that Harvard managed to beat Yale very neatly last fall without any "inside" information, and argue that for one thing Yale has abandoned the Notre Dame system; for another, most of the New Haven men Walsh taught have graduated or will be there only one more season, and that furthermore Walsh, a sportsman of the highest type, wouldn't lend himself to such "espionage" any more than Harvard and Head Coach Casey would countenance it.

Adam Walsh

Casey and Walsh have been close friends for many years. Casey admired the play of Walsh's Yale lines in their Harvard games, and when he learned that Adam was free quickly made him an offer as a means of improving his coaching staff. Frank Ryan, of the Harvard A. A., says the opinion of practically all football men is that Casey made an excellent choice, and the undergraduate reaction to Walsh's appointment has been enthusiastically favorable.

Pittsburgh's entry in the National A. A. U. hockey championship tournament, which gets under way in Madison Square Garden, New York, Friday night, left town this morning for the East, with a stopover scheduled for tonight at Hershey, Pa., where the locals will meet the Hershey skaters of the Eastern Amateur League in a return battle.

A week ago, Hershey defeated the All-Stars here at Duquesne Garden, 8 to 2. While the locals have but slight hopes of turning the tables in tonight's clash, they will be out to make a better showing and to gain valuable experience for the national championships.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE EVER-CHANGING LAND—The Newman homestead, located a few miles from Hollis, Okla., has had a hectic history, indeed, in that it has been governed by two foreign countries, one republic before the United States, and then under innumerable subdivision—one district, two states, five territories and five counties. France first had it from discovery until 1763, then it was under Spain until 1800, when France took it again. In 1803 it became the District of Louisiana under the United States, and, in 1805, was changed to the Territory of Louisiana. Then, from 1805 to 1812, it was under the Territory of Indiana. Thereafter it came under the Territory of Missouri, Territory of Arkansas and Indian Territory. During a dispute over river boundaries it went to Old Mexico, then in the Republic of Texas, and then it came into the Union. Disputed again, it was included in Oklahoma, Greer County, instead of Greer County, Tex., and since then has been in Harmon County and Childress County. BLACK WHITE MAN—What is one of the most curious medical anomalies on record is that of S. H. Robinson, of Greenville, O., who turned from white to black in the short space of five months. Robinson, born of white parents in the year 1854, became a carpenter by trade, at which occupation he worked for many years. At the age of 27, the sight of his left eye became impaired, and only a few months later his right eye entirely failed him. He then went to Cincinnati for eye treatment and within a few days his skin began to change color, the change being so rapid that in five months he was as dark as any native of Africa. Puzzled, Cincinnati physicians finally pronounced the disease as melanosis, which cost the patient's life at an early age.

TOMORROW: THE TREE MAN.

DuBois Team Faces Catholic Champs

CHICAGO, March 21.—(AP.)—The drive for the National Catholic High School basketball championship, a title that has a habit of landing in Illinois or the basketball hotbed of Indiana, opens at Loyola University gymnasium tonight with 32 teams from 14 scattered states entered.

Cathedral High, of Indianapolis, which routed the field with a band of brilliant sharpshooters last year, is the defending champion and will open the five-day tournament tonight by tangling with the St. Catherine passers from Du Bois, Pa. Joliet (Ill.) High meets Quincy (Ill.) Academy in the second contest with St. John's Cathedrals, of Milwaukee, paired against St. Stanislaus High, of Bay St. Louis, Miss., in the third and final game of the night.

Tomorrow the tournament will get under way in earnest with Central Catholic, of Pittsburgh, and Catholic High, of Little Rock, Ark., playing the first game.

LOS ANGELES, March 21.—The toast of the Pirate and Cub camps today is an auburn-haired country kid from Shawnee, Okla. But Cy Blanton has not changed the size of his hat, for Cy, like the Waner brothers of his home state, is not the kind that spoils. He is bound to come in for a lot of adulation if he continues in the pitching stride he displayed yesterday as he turned back the Chicago flag contenders in the last four rounds of a fight with the Pirates.

In making it possible for the Buccos to beat the Bruins, 7 to 5, Cy fanned no less than six of the enemy in his four rounds. The last worthy to bite the dust was none other than the illustrious Chuck Klein, who saw enough runs on the sacks to deadlock the game when he came up in the ninth with two out. But so far as Chuck was concerned, smoke was in his eyes.

CY SHOWS STUFF

Blanton, working like a young Matty, carried a fast ball, a lot of speed, a screwball and a swift "downer" to the slab as he took up the task in the sixth. His "downer" is an old-fashioned drop of the kind used by Matty and other curveball stars. Cy has a distinctive overhand motion for each of his pitches, and the farmer boy surely did make the city slickers look like selling platers as he brushed them aside.

It is hardly more than speculation to hazard Cy's destination, but if he deals off a few more exhibitions like that of yesterday he may be a Pirate starting pitcher before April has run its course. The strikeout king of the Western

HUNTINGDON NEXT FOE FOR SOUTH IN STATE TITLE PLAY

LOCAL PASSERS TOP SOMERSET BY 46-16

By JULIUS LEVIN

The South High School basketball team, or squad to be more specific, champion of the City League and District VIII representative in the P. I. A. A. eliminations for the state basketball championship, successfully passed its first hurdle in the fight for the Pennsylvania title last night when it humbled Somerset High School, champion of District V, 46-16, before a crowd of 1,200 in the Pitt Stadium pavilion.

As a result of its one-sided victory, South qualifies to meet Huntingdon High School, crowned champion of District VI last night when it defeated Johnstown in a playoff game at Altoona, 19-10, next Friday night at Altoona.

While South was breezing its way to an easy triumph, Erie East, champion of District X, was having a tough tussle defeating Bradford High School, champion of District IX, 26-25, in an inter-district battle at Warren, Pa., the victory qualifying Erie East to meet New Kensington High School, W. P. I. A. L. champion and title-holder in District VII, in the Pitt Stadium pavilion Friday night. New Kensington drew a bye in the first round.

The defending state champions from Lower Merion, representing District I, were eliminated from the title race for this year by Palmerton, of District XI, at Allentown last night, 18 to 16. Coal Township, of District IV, put out Luzerne, of District II, at Wilkes-Barre, 34 to 24, and at Lancaster, Reading won the District III crown, beating Lititz, 50 to 27.

WINNERS MEET TUESDAY

The winners in the South-Huntingdon game at Altoona and the New Kensington-Erie East battle in the Pitt Stadium pavilion will meet in the western regional final on Tuesday. If either South or New Kensington reaches the regional final, the game will be played in the Pitt Stadium pavilion, but if Erie East and Huntingdon are the survivors, the contest likely will be played in the Penn State College gym, at State College, Pa.

The game in the Pitt Stadium pavilion last night was nothing more than a workout for the Orioles, and they had no trouble winning their seventh successive battle in the home court of the Pitt Panthers. They have yet to suffer their first setback on the Pitt floor. Four victories were scored there last season and three so far this season.

Grover C. Washabaugh, congenial coach of the local champion, used every member of his squad, and for those who thought the first five starters were tough to spell, let alone pronounce, the subsequent five substitutes provided the official scorers a harder workout than either of the contesting teams.

The Somerset quintet was un-

DUKES TO CALL OUT NETMEN FRIDAY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

With advent of spring today comes notice that college tennis will front and center here on Friday of the current week as Coach Grant Siverd calls his Duquesne varsity and freshman racquet squads to a pre-season meeting on the Bluff. The Dukes, rejoicing in the possession of two asphalt courts, will follow precedent in getting under way earlier than their local rivals, though Dr. Dave O'Loughlin, new Pitt mentor, and B. P. Hoover, perennial leader at Carnegie Tech, are expected to have their followers out shortly after the Easter holiday.

The veteran Siverd enters this year upon his eleventh season at the helm of the Bluff net host. He is thus dean of the Hill sports staff, his start as volunteer head of the Red and Blue tennis activities antedating that of Chick Davies as boss of the Duquesne basketeers. Siverd has enjoyed considerable success in turning out winning teams on the Hilltop, this despite the fact that he has seldom been endowed with much in the line of experienced material. The coming campaign finds him with only Bill Purcell, a senior, and Frank Serany and Roy Getty, juniors, remaining from the 1933 squad.

Siverd and his aides, Sam Keller, Julius Boise, and the writer, will be forced to develop from the ranks of last year's reserve and frosh talent performers capable of replacing Cliff Soisson, who was graduated last June, and Joe Thompson, who, it is said, received his sheepskin last month at the midyear commencement. Little can be predicted as to the make-up of the new Duke edition except that Serany looms as most likely candidate for the No. 1 post.

President J. Phillips Davis, of the Pittsburgh Tennis Association, is expected home today from Philadelphia where he attended yesterday a special conclave of the Middle States L. T. A. sanction and schedule committee. Davis should bring with him important news and dates awarded for tournaments listed in P. T. A. territory.

BUTLER RELAYS NEXT STEP FOR PITT TEAM

By JESS CARVER

For the third week in a row, Pitt's track and field squad, or the touring members thereof, head into the Middle West again Saturday. The destination of the Panthers, who have been making a splendid showing in their excursions into the tall corn belt, will will be Indianapolis and the Butler University Indoor Relays.

The Panthers' crack mile relay quartet of Freddie Kiger, Chuck Groat, Harold Connelley and Bill Keller, which has shattered a record in both of its last two appearances, at the Central States championships at South Bend two weeks ago and the Armour Tech relays in Chicago last week, will go after the Butler University mile championship and mark. Coach Carl Olson has high hopes of having his lads break 2:22 for the distance. The lads will face almost the same opposition they ran into in the Armour Tech games. Naturally they'll be favored to win.

FLEMING TO RUN

Other stars who will make the Western trip will be Arvil Fleming, speedy Negro dash man and hurdler; Emil Bonavita, shot-putter; Joe Pelucha, pole vault star; Jim Guay, hurdler, and Ken Wagonhouse, star miler.

Fleming ran against the great Ralph Metcalfe at South Bend two weeks ago and finished a close second to the Marquette flash. He won the 70-yard hurdles at Chicago last week and finished second in the 70-yard dash. This week's dash calls for only a 60-yard sprint.

Glenn Cunningham, Kansas mile record-holder, will run in a special mile race, his principal opposition likely to be Ray Sears, of Butler, who set a new American two-mile record last Saturday. Wagonhouse also will oppose him.

INDIANA STRONG

Indiana University is sending 20 of its track squad including Charles Hornbostel and Ivan Fuqua, to defend the team title the Hoosiers won last year. Notre Dame has entered the largest squad, 27 men, and Illinois listed 24. University of Michigan, with the versatile Willis Ward, is expected to be a strong contender for team honors.

Five Western Conference schools, Illinois, Michigan, Indiana, Chicago and Purdue, have entered.

News From Baseball Training Camps

NEW ORLEANS.—(AP.)—Not to be outdone by Mel Harder and Clint Brown, each of whom predicts he will win 20 games this season, a third pitcher for the Cleveland Indians opines he can win 20, too. He is Oral Hildebrand. Wes Ferrell, still a holdout, is the only Indian missing.

TAMPA, Fla.—Joe Morrissey, lone holdout of the Cincinnati Reds, is dickering with the Boston Braves with permission of the Reds' management. Manager Bob O'Farrell has his squad pretty well lined up, indicating the infielder's chances for a steady berth on the team are getting slim.

SANTA BARBARA, Cal.—It's going to be "hard-boiled" Lew Fonseca from now on. Exasperated at the listlessness of several players, the White Sox pilot, usually a soft-spoken person, has issued a "hustle or get out" warning.

FORT MYERS, Fla.—The Philadelphia Athletics are looking for some way to acquire punch. Inability to bring in the runners has figured in four of their five defeats. There'll be a lot of batting practice today.

BRADENTON, Fla. — Leo Durocher's easily-injured right knee is causing some concern to Cardinal officials. The Cardinal shortstop reinjured the knee yesterday and will have to take it easy for several days. The signing of Outfielder Ernie Orsatti left the Cardinals with two holdouts, Pitcher Flint Rhem and Outfielder George Watkins.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla.—The ax fell for the first time in the Browns' camp today when Howard Mills, southpaw pitcher, and Catcher Jack O'Flaherty were notified to report to the San Antonio club, the Browns' Texas League farm.

SARASOTA, Fla.—The younger pitchers at the Red Sox camp will get their chance to strut their stuff Friday when the Sox meet the Newark club of the International League. Johnny Merina and Jimmy McCloskey are expected to face the minor leaguers.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Ray Starr, purchased by the Braves from the Giants last year, is the first of the Tribesmen on last season's payroll to be turned lose. He has been released outright to Minneapolis.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—On their showing to date, the New York Yankees' new infielders, Shortstop Bob Rolfe and Second Baseman Don Heffner, will do. In four games each has accepted 22 chances without an error. Rolfe likewise has been pounding the ball at a .388 clip.

LAKELAND, Fla.—After beating the House of David club, 13 to 1, the Detroit Tigers hustled out on the diamond today to brush up for the Athletics, who will be here tomorrow. Manager Cochrane used recruits and stringers against the Prophets yesterday.

ORLANDO, Fla.—Hack Wilson, Brooklyn's holdout outfielder, finally has reported to the Dodgers' camp but he hasn't signed a contract. Hack went into a huddle with Business Manager Bob Quinn but emerged without agreeing to terms.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—The New York Giants' three successive defeats by the St. Louis Cardinals leave Manager Bill Terry unperturbed. He said:

"We might have won all three if I had let my regulars stay in, but I've got a flock of rookies and the only way I can get a line on 'em is to put them under fire in exhibition games."

WINTER HAVEN.—The Phillies are awaiting the Dodgers with open arms today, confident that they can give the Brooklynites a drubbing. The enthusiasm results from yesterday's game with the St. Louis Cardinals. After three scoreless games, the Phils broke loose and won the game 12 to 7.

U. S. NETTERS HOLD LEAD

NEW YORK, March 21.—(AP.)—Lester Stoefen and Gregory Mangin, champion and runner-up in the national indoor championships last week, had given the United States a 2-0 lead over France in the international team matches today, but only after 10 sets of gruelling tennis.

It took the two Americans nearly five hours to subdue Christian Boussus and Andre Merlin in the opening singles matches at the Seventh Regiment Armory last night and give the United States a chance to clinch the series in the doubles tonight.

Mangin had to overcome a one-set deficit to outpoint Boussus, 8-10, 7-5, 5-7, 7-5, 6-2, in the opening match, and Merlin gave the giant Stoefen just as much trouble before the Californian could win at 3-6, 6-3, 6-2, 7-9, 6-4.

Y TEAMS CLASH

The Downtown Y. M. C. A. Ramblers play the East Liberty Y. M. C. A. Business Men's team and the Butler Y. M. C. A. opposes the East Liberty Y. M. C. A. in volley ball games on the East Liberty Y floor tonight.

Dukes Begin Spring Football Practice

The first day of spring today brought the first day of football practice for the year at Duquesne University. Coach Joe Bach took one look at the balmy weather this morning and ordered all hands on deck at 3 p. m.

Athletic Director Christy Flanagan, who also is backfield coach, was to make his first appearance in grid togs for the Dukes at this session.

BIRCH, MURPHY MAY CLASH

Charley Murphy, all-America college basketball center of Loyola University, Chicago, in 1930, who played against the Dukes here, is one of the stars of three teams of Catholic Order Foresters which will play three local teams in an intercity engagement on the Duquesne University floor Saturday night, beginning at 7:30. The games will be staged under the direction of Holy Family Court No. 755, of Lawrenceville, which played in Chicago last year.

The visiting Foresters, numbering about 60, will arrive Saturday morning and will remain over for sight-seeing and a banquet on Sunday at the William Penn Hotel, where headquarters will be established.

Paul Birch, star of the Duquesne University floor varsity, is expected to play for one of the three local teams. If he is pitted against the towering Murphy, one of the best college centers to perform here, an interesting duel should result.

CITY LOOP MAY CLOSE ROSTER TONIGHT

By TOM BIRKS

Some idea of just how the City Baseball League eventually will shape up for the coming season should be obtained after tonight's meeting at the Hotel Henry. Tonight's confab will be the third to be staged by the circuit. President Everett Sweeny is in hopes that a six-club loop will be formed. So far, Books, the defending champions, Homewood, Dormont and Whitaker are in line, with four other clubs angling for the remaining berths.

WHITAKER QUESTION UP

The big question facing the managers at the session tonight is the status of the Whitaker club. The City League, since its inception, has made it plain that clubs playing in the circuit cannot be a member of another league.

This is a logical rule. The schedule usually calls for three games a week. In the early part of the season, postponed games and ties clutter up the card and marke it difficult to keep the league moving.

This season, Duttch Ackerman, sponsor of the Whitaker club, has announced that his team will play in two leagues, the the City and the Pittsburgh Independent circuits. Whether the City League, with only four clubs in its class, can force Whitaker into line is problematical.

If Ackerman can build up his club to City League standards, then it will be too strong for the independent league. The clubs in independent circuit are all strong, but if they are capable of competing with Whitaker on its last season form, then they belong in the City League.

It will be interesting to see the reaction of the managers at tonight's session. The Pittsburgh Independents, Twenty-fourth Ward Club, Mt. Oliver Business Men, and a club from the North Side are applying for berths.

COUNTY LOOP SET

The Allegheny County League closed its roster last night. Director Al Underwood supervised the posting of forfeits by eight teams at the Penn Lincoln Hotel, Wilkinsburg. The teams and representatives present were included: Parmelee, Dinny Moore and Walter Earley; Turtle Creek, W. Heiston; Iroquois, John Mueller; Tarentum, L. Marmo; Hillman, Jack Collins; Du Plate, Art Fallon; Homestead, Dr. W. J. Lamb, and Mellon Stuart, Dick Ridge and J. Cors.

The Kroger club was given 24 hours to post its forfeit, else the league will be closed with the eight clubs named.

Ten franchises were granted to clubs in the South Hills Baseball League at a meeting held last night when the following clubs posted forfeits: Banksville, Beechview, Mt. Lebanon Reds, Tenn Pitt, Eighteenth Ward, Fink A. C., Williams Club, St. Anns, Gonzales and Snowden.

SOUTH PASSERS EASY VICTORS

able to do anything against the Orioles' defense, and its own team was ineffective in checking the speedy local passers as they rang up points with monotonous regularity.

Eddie Spotovich, brilliant center of the South Siders, played no more than 16 of the 32 minutes of action, but in those 16 minutes he piled up sufficient points to lead the point-getters with 17 markers, represented by seven baskets and one foul. Eddie Czlapinski and Miskevics did the feeding to perfection. Eight out of the 10 players injected into the game by Coach Washabaugh broke into the scoring column.

The Beechwood School, champion of Section I, ascended the basketball throne of the Pittsburgh Grade Schools yesterday when it defeated Frick School, champion of Section II, in the championship game at Fifth Avenue High School, 28-20. Beechwood, in reaching the final game, eliminated McNaugher School, of the North Side, defending champion. As a result of its victory Beechwood will receive the Fintex Trophy. It was Frick's second straight defeat in the finals, having lost to McNaugher in last year's championship game. The lineups:

Babe Ruth Learns of Many Training Camp Changes

By BABE RUTH

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 21.—The day we started training, I mean the day the Yankee infielders and outfielders joined up with the batterymen who had reported a week earlier, I must have autographed 300 books and baseballs. And I guess I posed for more than 100 pictures for people who brought along their own cameras. Besides that, there were all sorts of poses for the news photographers and movies, and speeches for the talkies.

All the Yankees were called on for signatures and photos, as I was. And on the bench later somebody remarked that the autographed business was interfering with the training. It wasn't exactly a complaint, merely a passing remark.

Well, it all helps to make baseball popular, so that is why the players are so willing to do it. It is a development of the past few years at training camps, just as it is at ball parks. When I started to play ball nobody seemed to care for an autograph, and there weren't so many photographers at the training camp. This fad for signatures means that people are interested in the ball player and the team. The photograph helps to advertise both.

TELLS OF OLD DAYS

Art Fletcher, who starred with John McGraw's Giants for many years, starting about 1908, was telling me how things have changed in training camps since he broke in as a major leaguer. Fletcher said:

"It wasn't all Florida and California then, as it is now. In fact, I don't recall that any big league team went to California for some years, and only two or three came to Florida. Now there are 11 in Florida, three in California and only two elsewhere. Texas was the leading state for training when I started, two clubs usually trained at Hot Springs and some in Georgia. There isn't a big league team this year in Texas, Arkansas or Georgia.

"We didn't team up for spring series then, or play a flock of exhibition games with other big league teams. Our exhibition games were with the teams of the various cities which we visited. I guess that probably is the reason so many big league clubs went to Texas. There were plenty of home teams to play down there. Now the big league teams move around and play at each other's camps, and some of them pair up for tours back home.

DIFFERENCES MANY

"There are a lot of other things quite different. The players do not have much weight to take off nowadays, and some of the boys came in quite heavy then. Another thing was that all the players and all the writers stopped at one hotel, and there was a lot of fanning in the evening. Now a lot of the players and several of the writers live in apartments or bungalows away from the hotel where the club makes its headquarters.

"We always had two teams in the training camp when I first joined the Giants. The first team would be playing an exhibition game one place and the second team in another. We often made the homeword trip in two groups, each having a schedule of games. We rode from town to town in trolley cars many times. Now the teams go in big busses or in trains. Some players travel in their own cars."

We hear every so often that there is nothing new in baseball, but I guess there is.

JONES AWAITS COMEBACK TRY

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 21.—(AP.)—Under circumstances that make this golfing affair one of the outstanding sports events of the year, Robert Tyre Jones, Jr., emerges from retirement tomorrow to match strokes with the pick of North American amateurs and a crack brigade of professionals.

For official purposes, it's the Masters' invitation tournament. There's $5,000 in prize money, including $1,500 for the top professional. It's to be over the regular 72-hole route, with one round scheduled for each of the next four days, at the beautiful Augusta National Course designed and built under the personal supervision of Jones himself.

With a few notable exceptions, such as Gene Sarazen, National P. G. A. champion, and Johnny Goodman, National Open champion, all the great figures of American golf have accepted the invitation and challenge to renew a rivalry with Jones that was broken off in 1930.

To many observers, it appears Jones has jeopardized his chances by taking over too much of the responsibility of host to one of the biggest golfing parties in years. Bob has attended personally to detailed arrangements, joined all social gatherings and played at least one round of golf daily with professional rivals.

Whether this was responsible or not, Jones lacked anything like his usual control yesterday, for paired with Ed Dudley, Bobby took a sound lacing from Paul Runyan, the professional ace of the winter season, and Horton Smith. The Jones-Dudley combination was beaten, 6 to 5.

Sports Shorts

M. J. Simon's Play On today won the Lincolnshire Handicap at Lincoln, England, with J. McLean's Obesity second and Pierre Wertheimer's Quartz II third. The only American horse in the race was Victor Emanuel's Totaig, which was unplaced.

Marietta College has entered the intercollegiate rowing regatta at Poughkeepsie on June 16. Navy, Columbia, Penn, Cornell, Washington, California and Syracuse also are expected to compete.

Yale asserted its conviction today that its dognaped mascot, Handsome Dan II, is being held in the home of a Boston debutante, and the Elis are organizing an expedition to bring Handsome Dan and his hostess back to New Haven.

C. Grayson's El Puma and J. S. Sumner's Musing ran a dead heat in the seventh race at Tropical Park, Miami, Fla., yesterday.

Herman Boescher, 79, one of baseball's old guard, died at his home in Buffalo last night. He was a former major league player, umpire and manager.

The National League leads the American League 7 to 5 in inter-league games played thus far in spring training competition. The Yankees are the American League leaders and the Cubs, Giants and Dodgers have contributed most to the National League cause.

CARIDEO TO STAY

ST. LOUIS, March 21.—(AP.)—The coaching tempest in the University of Missouri teapot was stilled when the board of curators reappointed Frank Carideo as head coach of football ending August 31, 1935.

HANDBALL PLAY NEAR FINALS

Semi-final contests comprise this afternoon's bill of hostilities in the city class B doubles handball title tournament in progress since Monday on the courts of the Y. M. H. A. The feature fray of the penultimate card is listed in the lower sector of the draw wherein Dr. Phil Lapidus and Dr. Sam Alpern, veteran Y. M. H. A. combine, will battle their clubmates, Dave Olbum and Sam Gladstone, in a joust that looms as very much of a toss-up and certainly as just as torrid a tussle as any the final may produce.

In the upper half of the bracket, Bill Kern, Pitt grid coach and A. M. A. junior singles glove premier, pairs with husky Vin McGuinness to bear P. A. A. colors into combat with the Y. M. H. A. luminaries, Joe and Harry Berman. Both affairs are scheduled for 7:30 o'clock.

In yesterday's lone engagement, the Bellefield brother act of Joe and Harry Berman eliminated the youthful Keystone pair, Frank Koubek and J. Parker Smith, 21-11, 21-14. The remaining semifinalists had advanced to their present status the previous day.

Garden Bike Track Under Construction

Construction of the big wooden track in Duquesne Garden, on which the city's first international six-day bicycle race will be staged beginning at midnight Sunday, was begun by 70 carpenters today.

Willie Spencer, veteran rider, who is to direct the race here and who is supervising construction of the track, says the saucer will be the biggest ever built for bicycle racing. It is to have straightaways of 250 feet and will be 100 feet wide and banked 52 degrees at the turns. The straightaway on the largest track ever before used was 220 feet.

Ray McDonald, of Scotland, and Frank Elliott, of Vancouver, B. C., have been added to the list of entries, which includes some of the leading six-day riders of the world.

For the first time in history the UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON at SEATTLE will be represented in the NATIONAL INTERCOLLEGIATE AND A. A. U. championship meet this year. The meet will be staged in COLUMBUS, O.

Guaranteeing the players a minimum of $100 apiece for the INTERNATIONAL HOCKEY LEAGUE playoff series and accepting the resignation of MANAGER MICKEY ROACH, officials of the SYRACUSE HOCKEY CLUB averted a threatened strike of the players.

LOCAL WOMAN GOLFER FACES TEST TODAY

PINEHURST, N. C., March 21.—(AP.)—Jean Bauer, Providence, R. I., and Edith Quier, Reading, Pa., were victims of upsets in the first round of match play in the thirty-seventh annual women's North and South golf tournament here yesterday. Charlotte Glutting, New Jersey star and tourney medalist, advanced to the second round by defeating Mrs. Karl Scheidt, of Philadelphia, 4 and 3.

Today Miss Glutting meets Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes, District of Columbia titleholder, who eliminated Mrs. R. H. Barlow, Bryn Mawr, Pa., 2 and 1.

Deborah Veery, Worcester, Mass., pulled a surprise in defeating Miss Quier, 1 up.

Miss Veery today faces Mrs. S. F. Wadsworth, of Pittsburgh, who advanced to the second round at the expense of Marion Miley, of Lexington, the Kentucky state champion. Mrs. Wadsworth won, 1 up, despite her opponent's strong rally on the incoming nine after being 5 down at the turn.

BLANTON HERO AS BUCS WIN

Hal Smith and Leon Chagnon will heckle the Cubs this afternoon in the second game of the series. Manager Grimm is expected to counter with Pat Malone and Guy Bush.

Pie Traynor's triple with two on in the first inning gave the Buccos an early advantage as the Bruins and Buccos opened their series at Wrigley Field. Birkoffer ran into a little trouble in the second round and before the inning was over the foe had discounted the three runs made by the Pirates in the two frames.

CUBS TIE COUNT

Recruit Ward worked against Birkoffer, the score being tied at four-all when the starting pitchers made way for Blanton and Tinning. The Pittsburghers scored twice in the seventh to put the game on ice.

Chillysauce

Lefty Grimm has finally given his beloved Cubs a strong dash what they always have lacked—speed. Augie Galan and Tut Stainback, Coast League sensations, can fly on the paths. Galan is a turn-around hitter and an excellent lead off batter. He may run Billy Herman or Woody English onto a dugout seat. Galan was a second-sacker with the Seals.

Stainback is a natural. He is almost as strong as Cuyler in physique and apparently is just as fast as Cuyler was when Kiki joined the Buccos a dozen years ago. If he stays in the league he will show as a righthand batter who really carries the mail to first base. The Angel graduate threatens to guarantee a long rest period for Babe Herman and Riggs Stephenson. Besides his other assets, Tut is said to be one of those hawks who throw strikes to the plate and third base.

Speaking of chasing star athletes to dugout Manager Grimm has designs in this direction. Lefty says his bad back is cured so he aims to give Dole Camilli a close run for the first base job in the event the coast leaguer is retained. Grimm says his trouble was not lumbago, but a misplaced vertebrae.

Red Lucas is having a terrible time with his girth. The Nashville veteran is one of the hardest workers in the squad, and he watches his diet, yet he is overweight. Red gave up his tonsils a few months ago which may account for the excess baggage.

Wally Roettger may turn out to be more than a gift edition. The big outfielder is earnest about making good with the Buccos. He is in fine shape and his bat is throwing sparks.

When John Harris, of Pittsburgh, came to the park for his workout yesterday he was accompanied by George O'Brien, Ricardo Cortez and Regis Toomey, the three movie stars also took part in the drill.

Ex-Dukes Defeat House of David, 40-22

The Ex-Dukes and the House of David basketballers will stage the third game of their barnstorming series at Connellsville tonight, with the Dukes seeking to make it three in a row over the invaders.

In the second game of the series last night, played at Indiana, Pa., the Ex-Dukes defeated the House of David tossers, 40 to 22. Art Feldman again led the attack of the Ex-Dukes, flipping seven field goals and three fouls for a total of 17 points. Kline, visiting guard, had three goals and one foul for seven points. The lineup:

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Karl Ogren vs. Tony Bruno and Dick Sisk vs. Billy Miller, 8 rounds each, Milwaukee.
Al Salbano vs. Gus Campbell, 10 rounds, Beaumont, Tex.

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Mose Butch and Freddie Miller may meet again in a 15-round battle for the N. B. A. featherweight title. Lew Raymond, who staged the non-title bout between the pair, at Motor Square Garden, Monday night, already is trying to close the match and has Butch's consent. Miller has promised to give him an answer within a few days.

Butch was around yesterday little the worse for the tough 10-round shindy in which he came close to pickling the champion in both the seventh and eighth rounds. He was loud in his praise of Freddie, rating him the best man he has boxed, and he has been in there with Al Brown, Fidel LaBarba, Eugene Huat, Tommy Paul and other good ones. He said Miller is a very good puncher and very smart.

YAROSZ TO RETURN

We are going to see Ted Yarosz fight again very soon, probably in the opening show of Duquesne Garden the first week in April. Teddy's trip to California is off, at least for the present, Johnny Indrisano having ruined it by beating Chick Devlin and Vearl Whitehead, the two Coast fighters the San Francisco and Los Angeles promoters wanted Yarosz to meet. Teddy is not interested in fighting Indrisano, Young Terry or any other Eastern fighters out there when he can get more money fighting them in the East.

Matchmaker Raymond is angling for Ben Jeby, former champion, as Ted's opponent. The pro boxing season at Motor Square Garden was concluded with the Miller-Butch show. Raymond may operate all summer in Duquesne Garden if the place can be properly cooled for boxing, with the exception of staging a few big shows at Forbes Field.

AIR FEUD TODAY

Local officials of the Allegheny Mountain Association, of the A. A. U., are in Philadelphia today for a meeting with the State Athletic Commission at which the battle between the A. M. A. and Dr. W. D. McClelland, local member of the commission, will be discussed. The A. M. A. will be represented by William S. Haddock, president, and John T. Taylor. James Lodge, of the Pittsburgh Boys' Club also will attend.

Daniel J. Ferris, national secretary of the A. A. U., is scheduled to attend the meeting in support of the local officials.

DUCKS STAKES CARDED

By PHILIP GRABOWSKI

The Aldine Industrial Duckpin League is going to hold its first annual sweepstakes tournament April 26, a week after the regular season concludes. The tourney is to be run on the handicap system, that is, each bowler will be given 80 per cent of the difference between his average and that of the leading average man in the circuit.

Jules Jauquet, star pinster of the league-leadin Federal Reserve Bank team, is the leader in the individual average department with a mark of 182.15 for 72 games.

STRIKES AND SPARES

Even though the Army team is leading by a margin of two games, four other teams stand a chance of finishing on top in the Second Ward Duckpin League, which has three more bowling nights left. The Army crew has won 11 of its last 12 games. F. Leuch, Splash Gallegher and William McCole have been turning in some fine performances.

The Kaceys won three games from Langes, the Realty, Ambassador, Barber and Fort Black teams, captured two games from New Deal, Jolts, Colonials and Colonials No. 2, respectively, and the Carsons took a pair from the Plasterers in Squirrel Hill Community Duckpin League matches.

The Kims, Sams and A. J. Hasers scored clean sweeps over the Heinauers, Big Reds and B. & W. in the Roxian Duckpin House League. The Lafayettes won two out of three from the Federals. In the junior loop, the Ab Fishers won two from Roxian, the Forests took a pair from Postoffice and the Federals snagged a couple from the J. P. Ruperts. Dan Driscoll rolled 256 to top McDermott's season mark by five pins.

The Metropolitan Tenpin League rolls again tonight, Iron City vs. Braddock Colts, Fort Pitt vs. Aspinwall, Auditorium No. 1 vs. Silver Toppers, Muck Brothers vs. Elba, Roxian vs. Brookline, Old Anchor vs. North Side Elks, E. M. Tuckers vs. Forward, Nuss vs. Ko Ko Mo Kids, P. A. A. vs. K. A. C., St. Michael's vs. Lawlor and Old Reliable vs. Auditorium No. 2 is the schedule.

Wilkie Lachendro, star pinman of the Central Pittsburgh League, will be in the McGlenn's lineup when they clash with the Stanleys in a South Pittsburgh Duckpin League match next Tuesday.

Cigaret Starts Fire, Gasoline Endangered

A cigaret dropped into a driveway at the Carter Service Station, Seventh street and Broadway, West Park, last night, started a fire that caused $1,000 damage to four gasoline pumps and nearly destroyed two automobiles, according to Fire Chief Albert P. Smith.

Firemen battled for an hour to prevent the flames from reaching gasoline tanks. The cars were owned by C. Andrews, Ninth street, and Paul Marko, Fifteenth street, both of Stowe Township.

Constable George Chilcott and Guy Paul, both of McKees Rocks, arrested Friday night at a meeting of the borough council, were discharged when arraigned on charges of disorderly conduct before Justice of the Peace James Westwood in McKees Rocks last night.

The disorder at the meeting began over Chilcott's presence behind the railing in the council chamber. Paul had a revolver and a permit issued for 1933. At the hearing it developed that the permit had not yet expired.

Chickie's Daughter

By ELENORE MEHERIN

CHAPTER XXIII.

"You can't be casual about sex, Pippin. It would be lovely if we had this joyous attitude! It would probably be right, too. But our whole industrial civilization is against this South Sea Island dream of yours."

"No! Men do things because they're driven."

Synopsis

Pippin, pretty daughter of Chickie, falls in love with Kevin McPike. Pippin and Kevin's sister, Kathie, are fast friends. Pippin is thrilled by the first real kiss she ever had—from Kevin. When Kevin goes to Europe to pursue his studies, Pippin meets Bill Lodge, a young ensign. He says he loves her, but Kevin is first in her thoughts. At a friend's home, Chickie meets Barry Dunne, the man who caused her so much sorrow. Chickie is afraid she will have to tell Pippin of her past. Pippin goes to a party with Bill, but after returning seems unhappy. She tells her father what she heard about her mother, and that she thought him responsible. David explains to her what really happened and Pippin is again happy. Chickie tells Pippin the real story of her life. Pippin goes on hikes with Gregg McClintock, senior at college. Jon, her brother, talks to Pippin about Gregg's intentions.

Now Go On

"Of course! The only way to get rid of a temptation is to yield to it, as Oscar Wilde points out. Makes it nice for the men. But Jon, do you think girls are lovely white statues with no emotions of their own? And they can't know how a gnawing hunger drives? You're wrong! We have a tiger, too."

Pippin's voice burned through the purple dark. The dark came in waves and pressed about them. Above it, in a starry sky, the mountains loomed titanic, imperturbable with a still, majestic calm. She felt shriveled and her heart hot. She thought, bitter:

"Why do I say these angry things? Helena has told Jon. Now forever he'll see me hurled from the terrible precipice!"

And Jon thought, stunned:

Dangerous Attitude

When Pippin sat quiet a long time, with none of her usual flash, Jon flung himself into the cockpit. He leaned forward and said in a wretched way:

"You think I want to hurt you, Pippin? That I want to smear this affair of yours with Gregg? I don't. He seems to be a nice chap. He's probably just as decent as I am. But this casual attitude you talk of and that so many girls today actually adopt is the most dangerous and deadly thing in the world.

"It's all right for cheap people, or for hard, sophisticated types. People who want beauty in their relations can't be flippant about the most fundamental thing on the face of the earth. They can't have this shallow attitude to their emotions. A girl like you would simply go down forever."

In the red glow of his cigaret, Jon's face glimmered white and haggard. Pippin searched his eyes. She said musing:

"What has happened, Jon? If you're losing your hair over one little kiss, you'll be bald by Monday of next week. I've gone out with 10 fellows since I entered college last year. I've kissed all but two of them. I like to kiss men. I can't see any harm in it.

"I intend to keep on kissing. After all, I'm 18 and alive. I'm not a candidate for a nunnery so far as I know.

One Standard

"You kiss girls. You like to do it. Would you be pleased if I began to worry that you were turning into a libertine?

"Don't be a hypocrite and pretend there are two standards—one for you and another for me."

"I'm aware," said Jon, bitterly, "that there's one standard. The girls at Boston put it tartly—'Equal rights for women—one immorality for all!'

"They're right! Why shouldn't we be free to express ourselves? Men do. I'm fed up on this masculine arrogance—they can do as they darn please, but we're to remain pure as angels yet luring as sin."

Jon lit another cigaret smoked it to the end. Pippin sat forward, her arms folded, her mind seething and her heart hard. Why was he fighting with her like this! They'd always talked—but as equals. Jon said wild, daring things. He, too, dreamed of a free, gay, gypsy world. Was it all changed because he had seen that light, delicious kiss?

"Why are you so furious, Pippin?"

"It gets me down to have you and Edward and Mary and Helena all on your knees with anguish for fear we'll go wrong. But you can go off and get tight some night and pitch it all overboard and think yourself none the worse. No hearts will break."

Pippin Indignant

Said Jon, his teeth snapping:

"We don't throw it away that carelessly. I'm not preaching anything. I'm not still practicing."

"You're pretty young, Jon."

"Nearly 20. It's plenty old enough. You do me wrong, Pippin. I'm not worried over a few kisses. And I believe in a single standard. I think you've a right to do anything, I do. But it ought to be inevitable. I never mean to get cheap about it. What's the use of teasing yourself along and making it shoddy and second-hand when the real thing comes? That's why I'm against this casual talk.

"I knew a girl last year. She started out to be brave and free. Very courageous and high minded. Wanted to live the full life. She's had three love affairs. All expressed completely. She hasn't found the right man. She's still looking for him. But her whole attitude to life has dwindled! She's just a sensation seeker now. In another year, she'll be nothing but a husk. It's too bad for a girl to be taken in by this freedom stuff."

"Yes, it is," said Pippin, flatly. She felt the tumult in Jon's mind but she couldn't soften.

As they chugged back through the impenetrable mountain shadows, she thought with mute cold resentment of the veiled warning Jon had given—tease yourself along—make it shoddy and second hand.

She burned under his judgment. "Does he think I have no soul of my own . . . No stopping but spill out recklessly every wild impulse? Why is he so sure of himself? He carried Betty home on his shoulder! He kissed her. I suppose she didn't kiss him back and how!"

It was Saturday. David had arrived.

He put letters in Pippin's hand.

She ran to the little dressing room, fire in her heart. The first letters from Kevin in three months. How wild she had been against him—how desolate! Here they were—four of them.

Kevin's Letter

She read. Tears rushed to her eyes . . . a little warm stream gushed over the ice of her anger.

Again and again she read these paragraphs:

"So I've been a true prophet, and they're rushing you off your feet? Kathleen writes that you're quite the rage—half a dozen dates for every night. It's your due, sweetheart, but you must remember what you promised. I'm sending you this snapshot. It flatters me, I know. Look at it well and forget the others! Once in a while, anyway, or it will be a sad old fellow who comes jaunting home again.

"Why don't you get David to take a trip here? He should! You're old enough to appreciate it. Say, sweetheart, could we have fun climbing these old Alps!

"Summer is just beginning. The countryside is beautiful. We took a trip down the river in a rubber boat that we folded and packed on our backs. It was joyous. People know how to live here. They don't get swamped in the wild lust for possession. I keep thinking of you because you have a gypsy heart and would delight in an excursion like this. Come and see me sometime—sweetheart, dear—and we'll jaunt off on the merry tour together.

"I send you these kisses—two of them. Tell me, are the others from the others just as sweet?"

Jon Sorry

She stole out through the back door, going softly over the pine needles till she came to the top of the hill. She looked at the thousand stars gleaming so clear, so pure in the black fields of the sky. She couldn't endure their beauty. She felt her heart melting and suddenly leaned against a tree and wept.

In the dark she heard Kevin's voice. She raised her face, her eyes closed, and felt Kevin's kiss on her lips.

When she came back an hour later, Jon was on the porch. She went up and looked into Jon's eyes. There was a troubled shadow in their golden light. She linked her arm in his, saying lightly:

"Beautiful night, Jonny, darling!"

"I'm awfully sorry I butted into your affairs, Pippin. You got me all wrong. I just got thinking of things that happened last year. Got excited, I guess."

Pippin thought:

"Oh, I know what excited you, Jonny, darling!"

But he went on:

"You're beautiful, Pippin. It's enough for a fellow to look at you. And it would be too awful if anything happened to hurt life for you."

"I'm not going to let that thing happen, Jon. Did you think I'd be casual about love? I'd never look at a man again if I thought it would spoil that. I know what love can be! I know the thrill and glory. I want it all new and different—beautiful as the dream. I'm going to be worthy of it."

WASHINGTON, GIST, LEAVING FORT LE BOEUF

In the preludes of the French and Indian War, youthful Maj. George Washington played a leading part. He was sent (Oct. 31, 1753) by Gov. Dinwiddie, of Virginia, officially to the French commander at Fort Le Beouf with an inquiry, but really to reconnoiter the Ohio-Allegheny territories. Proceeding through Logstown (40 miles below Pittsburgh on the Ohio), Chief Half King with two other Indians joined him. With a sealed answer from the French, Washington started back in early December. Forced to dismount at Fort Venango (today's Franklin) with faithful Gist, they continued afoot under incredible hardships. Crossing the Allegheny, Washington was swept off the raft by ice. Seizing a log, he struggled to an island (today's Washington Island, Lawrenceville, Pittsburgh). With benumbed limbs and frozen clothes they walked over the ice of the river next day. Escaping a treacherous Indian guide they reached Williamsburg, middle January, 1754.

FRENCH FORT DUQUESNE AT THE FORK OF THE OHIO (1754)

The expected unsatisfactory answer of the French commander, M. de St. Pierre, and the intelligence brought by Washington, made Virginia ready to expand to the fork of the Ohio (today's Pittsburgh).

A rich bounty of lands was offered enlisting soldiers, Washington to be one commander with orders to conquer. He left with about 200 men, April, 1754, from Alexandria, Va. Meanwhile, the French built Fort Duquesne, named after the Governor of New France, at the fork. South of it, in the Great Meadows, Washington erected hastily Fort Necessity. May, 1754, he attacked the French, made prisoners, fell back to his base awaiting reinforcements which did not arrive. July 3 he was besieged by the French advancing from Fort Duquesne. Washington, forced to surrender the next day, signed not to attack for a year. Fort Necessity was destroyed. (U. S. History)

GEN. BRADDOCK MORTALLY WOUNDED

In February, 1755, Great Britain sent Gen. Braddock as generalissimo of America with Commodore Keppel's fleet to Virginia. Heading the campaign against Fort Duquesne (simultaneous to the other three lines of British attack: Fort Niagara, Lake Champlain, Nova Scotia) Gen. Braddock advanced with about 2,150 troops. July 9 he was ambushed with 1,460 men where Braddock stands today, by the French and Indians. Most of his men were killed or wounded; he was shot through the lung. Washington, whose warnings against hasty advance Braddock had not heeded, saved the remainder from annihilation, covering the retreat with great heroism. Braddock, en route to Fort Cumberland (today's Cumberland, Md.) died three days later and was buried in the Great Meadows, July 15, 1755. (U. S. Hist.)

FAREWELL OF ALEXANDER THE GREAT TO HIS SOLDIERS (323 B. C.)

His immense empire fell apart, divided and redivided among his family and his generals mainly into Asian, African independencies and Macedonia. Greeks revolted in vain against the latter's rule. Their most outstanding leader, Demosthenes, was forced to flee. Captured, he committed suicide (322 B. C.). (World History)

CATHODE RAYS—CANAL RAYS

Theories about electronic structure of the atom were developed only after the connection between the phenomena of electricity, magnetism, optics and dynamics had been established. Important were the observations of electrical discharge in rarified gases, accompanied by emission of cathode rays, consisting of electrons (negatively charged particles) besides ejection of particles with positive charge.

The positively charged particles are of atomic magnitude, their mass—unlike that of the electrons—depends on the nature of the gas in the tube. Their velocity is much less than that of electrons. Electrons emitted from the cathode, from hot bodies, as well as those ejected by X-rays or ultra violet light, have the same mass, about 1/1840 of that of the hydrogen atom.

FRICTION CLUTCH OF AUTOMOBILES

Friction clutch is an arrangement of driving and driven parts locked together by friction, caused mostly by spring pressure. Reducing this friction to 0 by relieving the spring pressure, the driving and driven parts are made independent. The automobile clutch (disc and cone clutch shown above) engages or disengages engine-power transmission. It enables engine start and changing gears of transmission without load, to run motor without driving car (idling).

Bugs Baer

Tweet! It's the Redbreasted Golfer

Rain or shine, snow or taxes, the first day of spring is always circus day for the sand blasters.

They've been swinging their irons indoors for four months. They have dropped chandeliers on the parlor rug, studied the downhill linoleum in the kitchen and made spittoons in one.

Now, they have a chance to take their bottled energy out to the golf yards. You must put all that hoarded statistics and technique into actual practice.

And how do those solarium theories work when they are trotted out for a trial heat among the hedges and the clover? They don't.

But you can't stop an oldtimer from mooling over his golf clubs in the winter. He handles them as reverently and as lovingly as an ancient hermit counting his teeth.

He knows that he can knock 30 strokes off his game if the weather would only unscramble itself and give him a fair whack at that bantam cannonball.

He now has his chance. Will he improve his game? He will not. He will prove to be the shadow of the same punk he was last summer. And it is an awful thing to be the ghost of a bum.

However, hope springs eternal in the zippered vest with knitted sleeves. He will play and then perfect his stance when he gets home. That will lead to another tomorrow and another. Soon, summer will be over and he will be ready for the indoor season of 1934-35.

His game will improve indoors as usual. But things studied under the cool rays of the parlor lamp can never stand the hot sun. There ain't much you can do about it. The only cure is to be absentminded when boarding up your home for the summer. Nail yourself up inside.

An Explanation Due

The Health Department Appears to Have Been Negligent in the Parrot Fever Situation.

The people of Pittsburgh are entitled to an explanation from the City Health Department for its apparent failure to act promptly to protect the citizens from the outbreak of parrot fever, from which scores of persons are suffering and which has caused the death of several persons.

While there seems to be no occasion for further alarm, since the birds known to be afflicted have now been quarantined or put to death, and the disease is rarely transmitted from one human being to another, the people would like to have some assurance that the Health Department hereafter will be properly alert not only in respect to psittacosis but in respect to all other communicable diseases.

There is a feeling that if the Health Department had been watchful some of the sufferers from parrot disease would have escaped infection.

Three illegal shipments of apparently diseased parrots were found to have entered Pittsburgh last January, but nothing was done about it until March 5. The birds were not placed under quarantine until a week ago, it is said, and in the meantime hundreds of persons had come in contact with them.

No warning was issued by the Health Department, it is further stated, until several persons had died of parrot fever. And the first notice to the public to be on guard came, not from the Health Department but from a cautionary note to physicians in the Pittsburgh Medical Bulletin, official organ of the Allegheny County Medical Society.

If Public Health Director Ray P. Moyer has a good excuse for his department's apparent neglect of duty, he should give it to the citizens, that confidence may be restored.

Spring Arrives

Housecleaning, Painting, Repairing and Tidying of Vacant Lots Are in Order

The center of the sun crossed the equator, bringing spring, at 2.28 this morning.

The passing of winter will bring regrets to few Pittsburghers, although the season as a whole has not been so cold as we have come to think because of our recent experience. February, it is true, was the coldest February in the history of the local Weather Bureau; the average daily temperature was 19.7 degrees, as compared with a normal of 32.3. The average daily temperature in March, too, has been 1.6 degrees below normal. But the temperature in December was about one degree above normal, and in January it was three degrees above normal.

Dr. F. C. Jordan, director of the Allegheny Observatory, gives a rather effective answer, by the way, to those who attribute the recent abnormal cold to sun spots. He points out that while we were suffering from zero weather states in the same latitude in the Far West were enjoying abnormally warm weather. Sun spots now are at the minimum phase of their cycle, anyhow; and whether they affect our temperature is a moot question.

Regardless of what W. S. Brotzman, the meteorologist, may have in store for us during the next few weeks, spring is officially here, and that means that housecleaning, painting, papering and repairing are in order.

And don't forget to tidy up your vacant lots.

The Value of Insurance

In the last four years legal reserve life insurance companies in the United States have paid out to beneficiaries and policyholders the tremendous sum of ELEVEN BILLION AND FORTY MILLION DOLLARS.

Remember these are the four depression years, when the need of life insurance protection has been more urgent than ever before.

That huge sum paid out by life insurance companies since 1929 prevented bitter economic tragedy being added to the human tragedies of millions of helpless human beings bereaved by death.

The sad reverse of this picture is that thousands of persons every year give up their life insurance and die before they can renew it. The record for 1932 shows that 45,000 persons died after giving up their insurance the year before, entailing a loss to their dependents of nearly 40 million dollars.

Life insurance should be among the most sacred possessions of any man or woman with dependents. In these times it becomes even more important, something that should be kept at the cost of almost any struggle or sacrifice.

This nation is in reality under-insured. The total life insurance in effect is estimated at approximately 95 billion dollars—about the equivalent of one year's national income in good times. It averages less than $800 per person.

At the same time the sad news from the medical profession is that the death rate from the organic diseases of the heart is climbing alarmingly. Last year it increased nore than 6 per cent, while cancer and cerebral hemorrhage also showed sharp increases in the mortality tables.

Not Pumpkin, Bumkin

You'll Be Glad That's Settled.

Many geographical questions that doubtless have been agitating you are settled at last by the United States Geographic Board, which has to decide what names shall be put on the maps, and why.

You'll be glad to know that Pumpkin Island in Massachusetts is really Bumkin Island. And that Horse Creek, in Tulare County, Cal., is in fact Cow Creek. There is a note of sadness in the thought that Good Beer Hill, in Ulster County, N. Y., is not Good Beer Hill at all—merely Beer Hill. But that change was made before repeal, and perhaps there was a reason for it.

The highest mountain in Idaho, formerly Hindman Peak, is now Borah Peak, in honor of the celebrated Senator from out there. That's right, too, no doubt, but it seems a misnomer.

Though Mr. Borah is a towering figure in any landscape, nobody ever has been able to make him stay put—not even Mr. Borah himself.

If that mountain lives up to its name, you'll find it one of these days in Nevada, or South Carolina, or somewhere.

The national election in 1920 was in effect a great and solemn referendum on the question, Shall this country abandon its traditional policies and become involved in the political affairs of Europe?

For at that time the party in power at Washington had endeavored to commit America to membership in the League of Nations, and League membership was the outstanding issue advocated by the 1920 candidates of that party.

Since then constant efforts have been made to lead America into the League directly or into the League indirectly through its so-called World Court.

Every signature to the anti-League and anti-League Court petitions which the Hearst newspapers are circulating, in co-operation with patriotic organizations, is a patriotic plea to Congress to maintain America's independence UNIMPAIRED.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 21.—American movie stars are now able to vault London social barriers that bonafide social registrants cannot hurdle. To exploit a cinema celebrity has become a Mayfair fad. Such blandishment has almost made an expatriate of the elder Fairbanks.

The Adolph Menjous were fairly swept off their feet by a barrage of invitations that began the moment they stepped off a boat at Southampton a year ago. Also Corrine Griffith. Thomas Meighan has been in tails and white tie every evening since his recent arrival there.

Anna May Wong, the Chinese film player, has long been a favorite in perfidious Albion, but the last winter her popularity has taken on the proportions of a furore. She has been the outstanding guest at select estates along the country-side and carried off to the Scotland shooting lodges.

English hosts and hostesses to the movie folk are not the celebrity chasers of New York's "cafe society," but dukes, lords and ladies of the peerage. Punch's puckish glossarians are turning out jingles about the "new schism in British social life." A fine how-de-do! Raw—thuh!

And Noel Coward in his new London menage of dove gray and silver has towelings and bath curtains to match his bathrobes. Mostly cherry red.

It strikes me the best named of the stage characterizations was Chic Sale's Burt Blurt. He was the all-knuckles and teeth reciter in the schoolroom scene, a combination of bravado and bashfulness. Advancing to the center of the platform, he announced he would get off some made-up nifties. While getting them off he would punctuate them with hand waves to arrivals such as "Hi, Roy!"

Nowhere is lovelier in a snowstorm than Madison Square at night, with its checker-board of window lights, dark hush of trees and the white-clocked spire in fume-like upshoot. Snow muffles a cotton-wool world of chasms and peaks, shadow figures that dart across the square which, like the French wagon restaurant, is speckled with every conceivable type. Madison Square abounds with flat dwellers and all seem to drift out into the snow at night—the shrinking man with his pipe and wife's poodle, the buxom rooming house keeper, large, florid and suspiciously golden, the white mustached and retired Army officer, the romantic and anaemic saleslady, and, of course, the chirping bootblacks.

One sees Harry Armstrong, venerable, heavy set and white haired, around town, especially at the Lambs. Only to intimate circles is he known, yet there is probably not an adult in America who has not at some time or other given voice to his famous song, "Sweet Adeline." On rare occasions he can be induced to draw up at the piano and sing it himself. A companion is Harry Von Tilzer, who, incidentally, wrote more song hits than any other song writer, past or present.

The only noticeable change in George M. Cohan since he went all of a sudden arty and became a Guild star is the cut of his coat pockets. Since his bamboo cane and nasal-twanged song and dance days they have been sliced slantwise—so he could plunge his hands into them for that humped-over wide-apart walk. Today his pockets are horizontal—and with flaps.

Al Jolson sinks into deep melancholia when away from his wife, Ruby Keeler. In his bullfrog mumbo-jumbo he moans for "My Ruby." To her he is "Daddy." Out of her sight Jolson sees the world through the glass darkly. Although he has $2,000,000 in vaulted cash, he worries about this job and that and thinks the stage is finished. Gilead is balmless. Nothing can be done.

* * *

I always think of black Mississippi, the Broadway hackman, when I see Jolson. Mississippi was last of his roaming guild who hung tragically on around the Winter Garden. The sheriff finally took his horse and gig. Jolson, in a sick bed, heard about it. "You still want to hack?" he asked Mississippi. The Negro did. His impounded outfit was reclaimed. And forlorn Mississippi hacked and lived handsomely without collecting fares until he clip-clopped over the horizon.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

The Duty of Enthusiasm

I didn't know it, but I had become a wet blanket! A careless bit of chatter between two youngsters wised me up.

"Look out," said one to the other, "here comes Gloomy!"

I couldn't believe my ears. "Gloomy?" I, who had always been the life of the party? It was a cruel lie!

So at once I did what most of us do at first, when we hear criticism—felt frightfully sorry for myself! Sat down and cried, and thought of all the Wonderful Things I'd done for everybody. And how Brave, and Hardworking, and Unselfish I'd always been. And how hard I studied and worked—and how much smarter I was than the mean little chits who were criticizing me!

Thus, on and on, until I worked myself into a regular lather of self-pity over my Poor, Dear, Wonderful, Misunderstood Soul. And then, just as I reached the peak of my ravings, something inside me went "bliff!" And I began to wonder.

Was it, maybe, true? Yes, it was! I'd grown to be a pain-in-the-neck, to myself as well as everyone else. Once upon a time life had been a big bang. I'd gotten as excited over cooking a new dish, or buying a $2.49 hat, as if I'd been going to China. And I'd made other people excited, too—drabber humans who couldn't get thrilled on their own.

But lately—why, I was about as zippy as a last year's waffle! Well, didn't I have a right to be dull if I wanted to be? Or did I? Was, or wasn't, enthusiasm a DUTY?

Suddenly I saw that it was. But how rarely we think of it that way! Enthusiasm? That's something like having brown eyes and small ankles. Either you have them, or you haven't. And if you haven't, what can you do about it?

That's our popular notion of enthusiasm—but it's wrong. FOR WE BOTH CAN AND SHOULD DO PLENTY ABOUT ENTHUSIASM. WE CAN NOT ONLY CONTROL IT, BUT WE CAN CREATE IT.

Enthusiasm needn't be a passing mood. It can be . . . it should be . . . A DELIBERATELY ACQUIRED VIRTUE. We can be enthusiastic if we wish, just as we can be neat, polite, industrious, honest, punctual.

Nor does this imply the horrid, Pollyanna cheerfulness . . . than which nothing could be more fakey or depressing. We not only can ACT enthusiastic but we can FEEL it.

Just as we can see what we want to see in life, so we can FEEL WHAT WE WANT TO FEEL. There may be a score of reasons for dullness and discouragement in your immediate situation, yet, if you'll set your mind to it, you'll also find twice that many reasons for enthusiasm. The picturesque alley, the enticing wood trail, the intriguing stranger that set you thrilling yesterday, are just as picturesque, enticing and intriguing today. IF THE WORLD HAS TURNED DULL AND DREARY, THE FAULT LIES IN YOU, YOURSELF.

And you've no right to let your mind turn dreary. Cheerfulness isn't just a personal treat to yourself, or a favor you're showing the other fellow. It's an obligation you owe!

This modern world, whose convenience you enjoy, was built by the deliberate, often desperate enthusiasm of countless weary, worried, hard-working humans. In the face of incredible obstacles they insisted on remaining interested, hopeful and excited.

MARRY-GO-ROUND

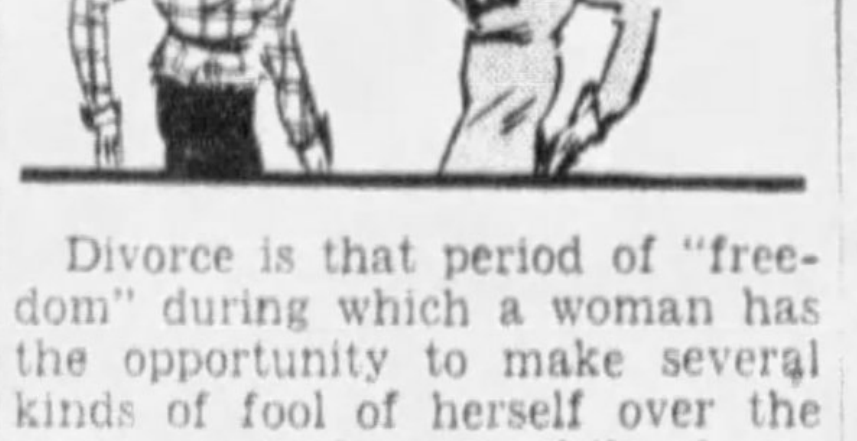
By Helen Rowland

From Courtship to Court

Losing a playboy husband or a vacillating lover is not a defeat—it's a FEAT! The "loser" is the woman who gets him.

* * *

A girl's bridesmaids always feel that they have shared the most beautiful and thrilling moment of her life, but somehow the "best man" has a guilty suspicion that he has betrayed the friend of his bosom in his weakest moment.



WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO NOW THAT YOU'RE DIVORCED?
WAIT FOR THE "RIGHT MAN"!

Divorce is that period of "freedom" during which a woman has the opportunity to make several kinds of fool of herself over the wrong sort of men, while she is waiting for "the right man" to take another flyer in matrimony.

* * *

It isn't so often the glamour of a new love or a new infatuation which tempts a divorcee to rush right back into marriage—it's merely those ex-wife blues, which make her feel so forlorn and sorry for herself when she doesn't hear the key in the latch any more.

* * *

The average man would never know how dumb a woman is if she would keep QUIET instead of keeping up a line of dizzy chatter to show him how bright she is.

* * *

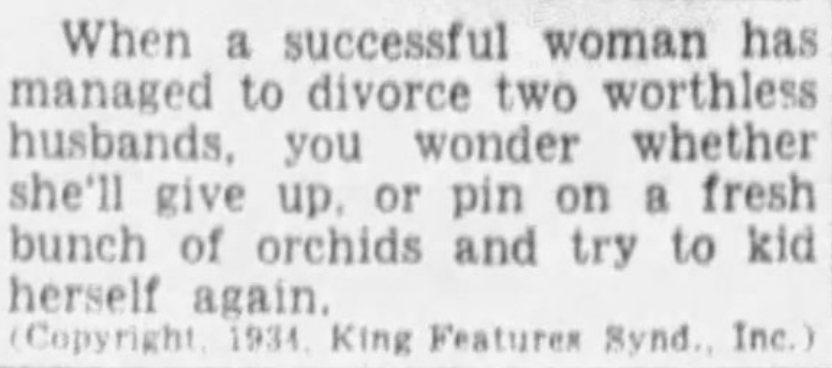
To a man and a girl, who have just fallen in love, it always seems as though a miracle had happened and NOBODY in the world could ever have possibly felt like that before!

* * *

It requires all the love that you can scrape together to weather marriage successfully—and it's foolish to short-change yourselves by marrying for adventure, for convenience or for anything less than love.

* * *

Nowadays, a prospective bride spends more time and money on facials and permanents than on things for her linen closet; because she knows that, while facials and permanents help to get a man to the altar, no collection of monogrammed lunch sets ever held him to his wedding vows.



THERE HAS NEVER BEEN A LOVE LIKE OURS!
YOU SAID IT!

When a successful woman has managed to divorce two worthless husbands, you wonder whether she'll give up, or pin on a fresh bunch of orchids and try to kid herself again.

OUR RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Villanelle

Old moon, I wonder if you saw
Some night, within the walls of Troy,
Greek Helen's face without a flaw.

That beauty which the world today
Still finds a beacon and a joy?

Perhaps when silver midnight's sway
Made her grow restless in that place,
Through streets embattled she would stray.

Did she lift up her lovely face
And match your splendor and your light
With its serene and perfect grace?

Then two moons shone across the night:
Your shield against the sky's dark deeps
And Helen's face for men's delight!

Still down through time her magic creeps,

Human Side of the News

A Golden Flood Pours Into the United States—Stories From the Assay Office

By Edwin C. Hill

"THE Olympic, out of Southampton, is bringing $33,000,000."—"The Bremen, out of Cherbourg is bringing $35,000,000." So runs the news, day after day, cargo of gold upon cargo of gold, headed for the United States.

In the short month of February about 600 tons, worth $400,000,000, found its way from all ends of Europe, imported by bankers, and others, to be sold to the United States. One by one the liners slipped into their berths and then from holds and strong rooms disgorged wooden boxes filled with the yellow metal. A three-mile dash through the streets of New York by armoured cars, and the gold is transferred through the single entrance of a plain, white stone, five-story building—the United States Assay office, and there it goes into the melting pot to come out in bricks, seven inches long, three and one-half inches wide, and one and five-eighth inches thick.

These are busy days in this treasure chest of the country on the New York waterfront. The electric furnaces are working overtime and yet cannot keep up with the deluge. As a consequence, there is some grumbling by bankers and importers who do not relish the loss of the interest of a day or two, which they do lose, while waiting for the assay office to catch up with their shipments.

* * *

Assay Office Caught Unprepared

TO say the least, the Assay Office was not prepared for the avalanche. It was going along nicely in this new building, built in Herbert Hoover's administration and dedicated by Ogden Mills. It was buying gold for the government in lots of $100 or more, testing the fineness of gold for anyone who would pay the small fee, and selling gold in lots of $5,000, or more, to jewelers and dentists.

The golden belt which was John L. Sullivan's emblem of the world's championship was one of the things which went into the fiery furnace, and in exchange its possessor got a gold certificate. The famous life-sized statue of Maude Adams which made its appearance at the first Chicago World's Fair, was melted down to $48,000 in pure gold. The baritone, Antonio Scotti, when he found it necessary to dispose of a loving cup and a medallion of his friend Enrico Caruso, took them to the Assay Office and when they had become a gold brick, weighing 35 ounces, Signor Scotti received $700 in the yellow paper certificates.

All through the day people used to appear before the guarded door of steel grille, whisper their business, as they were scrutinized by five or six guards and watched every second as they went through the long corridors, and in and out of the rooms. About 100 a day was the average, and they brought almost every imaginable golden thing—tooth caps, nuggets, medals, old jewelry and even the family plate. But they don't come any more.

* * *

More Profitable To Sell to Jewelers

THE United States is paying around $36 for newly-mined domestic gold and the RFC is buying gold abroad at the same time. But the Assay Office still pays the old rate of $20.67 an ounce for melted jewelry, and hence, it is more profitable to sell now to the commercial buyers. It's the big stuff now that concerns the Assay Office. The importer is responsible for his gold up until the time it goes on the scales in the Assay Office.

The deposit is weighed and the owner gets a receipt for the number of ounces delivered. The gold is then dumped into a graphite crucible and melted at a heat of 2,000 degrees Fahrenheit, after which it is cast into bars. A few chips from these bars go to the laboratory for the test for purity, and there the proportion of gold is determined. The deposit is weighed again and the importer receives a check for paper currency. Two intricate steps remain—the refining of the gold and its storage. Acids and fire bring the gold to its maximum of 99 and 99/100 per cent of purity, and then it is rolled into these small, seven-inch bricks which are known as export bars. More than two billion dollars of such gold is stowed away today in that five-story building on Old Slip and the river front.

The gold strong room is a massive one, four stories high, of which two stories are below the street level and built on bed rock. None but a trusted few employes have ever been in that strong box, have ever looked on this Midas treasure. Tear gas, pistols, shot guns and steel doors protect it. The combination to the vault is known by two men and each of these knows only half of it. The superintendent of the assay office and the director of the mint must be present at the checking in of the gold and the removal of any of it. Each knows two numbers of the four number combinations.

First the director sets his two and steps back, and then the superintendent does likewise. To guard against unforeseen emergencies and death, each of the men knowing the combination, has written his part secretly, sealed the envelopes containing the numbers and deposited them in another safe. Should it happen that these envelopes are opened and the combination becomes known to others, another is set up of four new numbers.

Lindbergh Air Testimony Defends Gallant Dead

By James T. Williams, Jr.

> Heroism feels, and never reasons, and therefore is always right . . . It is the state of the soul at war; and its ultimate objects are the last defiance of falsehoods and wrong, and the power to bear all that can be inflicted by evil agents. It speaks the truth and it is just.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

AS became the hero that he is, the testimony given by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh before the Senate committee, which invited him to the stand, "speaks the truth and it is just."

It is just, first of all, to the dead—those gallant officers of the Army Air Corps, who felt the urge of honor, duty, country when they received their orders, never reasoned about the unnecessary death that awaited them, but flew the mails in cheerful obedience to orders, and exemplified for their country that heroism which "feels and never reasons, and therefore is always right."

Col. Lindbergh militantly refuted the cowardly slanders of pusillanimous politicians in Congress, of cuckoos of the press, of alien intriguers in the federal city, and of other "evil agents" who have attempted to injure and insult the memory of those heroes of the Army Air Corps.

* * *

Calumny Denounced By Lindbergh

DENOUNCING the calumny that these brave men failed either as pilots or as soldiers, Col. Lindbergh then declared to the Senators whom he faced:

"The Army had 10 days to prepare to take over a system which had been developed by the commercial companies for a period of over 10 years.

"The Army equipment is not designed for the purpose of carrying the mail, and the Army pilots did not have adequate time to study the routes which they were to fly.

"I do not feel that the Army Air Corps could be expected to take over the air mail system of this country in anything like the short time that the Army had to prepare to take it over. If you change around the most experienced pilots we have in mail routes, giving them new routes, it would simply take them weeks, and probably months, before they could fly the new route as efficiently as the old route.

"I know if I went back on my old route, from St. Louis to Chicago, it would take me months to fly it as well as it was flown by me when I left."

* * *

Army Defamers Are Refuted

THIS testimony will prove devastating to those "evil agents" in and out of Congress who have stooped to conquer—those who tried to defame 10 officers of the Army Air Corps by insinuating that they were killed because they did not know how to fly the colors.

Equally revealing was the evidence given by Col. Lindbergh about the difference between commercial and military equipment for flying. He said:

"It would be hardly desirable for military planes to carry the intricate instruments and equipment carried on air lines. There could not be as good equipment in delicate instruments on military as on commercial planes and still carry out military maneuvers. For instance, on the question of gyroscopes, that would somewhat limit the military planes, which are required to be highly maneuverable."

Until Col. Lindbergh gave his testimony some Senators and Representatives in Congress demonstrated by their fatuous criticism that they did not know that maneuverability was the objective in designing military planes.

How Col. Lindbergh did justice to the living by his straight-forward testimony is another chapter and must be reserved for another day. It also "speaks the truth and is just."

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

Perhaps you have some grounds for believing that you need not reply to all social letters.

But it is hard to imagine, how you can expect to be excused from not answering business or community letters.

In an effort to better conditions, it is necessary for the leaders to write to those whom they wish to assist them in their undertakings.

But the one who is assigned work, as a leader—or by a leader—to aid in bringing back better conditions for everybody, should not quibble about how much they shall be paid.

They should be willing to donate all the time and effort they can spare to aiding in the country's recovery.
